ELLIS & KEYT SELL OUT

The Big Store Becomes the Property of a Company.

Yesterday a deal was closed up which passed the large general merchandise store of Messrs Ellis & Keyt into the hands of a corporation composed of Messrs D. J. Riley, R. E. Williams, M. D. Ellis, E. C. Kirkpatrick, H. L. Fenton, H. L. Crider, R. C. Craven and M. M. Ellis. These gentlemen will incorporate under a name as yet to be designated in the sum of $50,000, and will continue the business under the direct management of Mr. H. L. Fenton and Mr. M. D. Ellis.

For the present at least the store will occupy the same location and on the same lines as before. Stock taking will begin next Monday and the price paid be according to the stock found to be on hand.

All the gentlemen concerned are well known capitalists of our city, and the majority of them have already had considerable experience in general merchandise lines. Under Mr. Fenton's capable management the large trade enjoyed in the past will be continued, and the business increased in every particular. Mr. Ellis returned to Grants Pass today to settle up his druggery business, leaving it under the management of Mr. M. M. Ellis.

Mr. M. M. Ellis will pass from the active management of the store and devote his time to his prune orchard and other interests, this being able to take life a little easier than he has in the past.

Mr. D. L. Keyt will retire altogether, and devote himself to the management of his many large interests in other places.

As a business investment the corporation named have surely gotten hold of a good business, and that it will prove remunerative to each of the stock holders is a certainty. The Itenizer wishes them all the success possible, and predicts for them a good trade from all sections of the county. They will at once assume the management of the store. The name of the new management will be The Dallas Mercantile Company.

BACK TO THE S. P.

Mr. I. N. Woods to Again be Their Agent Here.

Next Monday morning Mr. I. N. Woods will again take charge of the Southern Pacific offices at Dallas, replacing Mr. James, who was sent here from Newberg. The truth of the matter is that Mr. Woods is the best agent that Dallas ever had, and the only man who has been able to successfully in any way handle the immense amount of business transacted from this place. Mr. Woods had not expected to again engage in railroad business, but the Southern Pacific, knowing him to be the right man in the right place, have made him such a flattering offer that he finds it incumbent upon him to give up his position in the First National bank, of which association he is one of the heaviest stockholders and leading officials, and again resume his position with the Southern Pacific, to the gratification of the entire public patronizing that corporation.

Mr. Woods is better fitted than any other person to successfully handle the public in this capacity. Having held the position so long, and having acquaintance with all, he is the man we want in the position. He is methodical to a degree, and hereafter we can be assured of good service, something that has not been since Mr. Woods left the office.

Dallas does an immense business, and is not to be compared in any way with the office of the Southern Pacific. Mr. Woods can handle this business, and there are few other men that can. And he will do it without effort, be courteous and obliging, and can get the best of the situation you desire. Gladly do we again see him once more assume charge and handle the public in this capacity. He is methodical to a degree, and hereafter we can be assured of good service, something that has not been since Mr. Woods left the office.

How dear to our hearts is the old silver dollar, when some kind subscriber presents it to view—the Liberty head without necktie or collar, and all the strange things that to us seem so new in the wide spreading eagle, the arrows below it, the stars and the words with the strange things they tell. The coin and it, for some time or other, will come in right well—the spread eagle dollar, the old silver dollar, the old silver dollar we all love so well.

"Change of Base. Milliecut—What made you refuse Mr. Wilder's invitation to go walking with him? Don't you like him?" "Mildred—Oh, I like him. I'm well enough, but his red whiskers don't look well with my new pink hat.—Somerville Journal.

The Young Widow.

She is modest, but not bashful; Free and easy, but not bold; Lively as a sparrow and industrious; Not too young and not too old; Half laughing, half repulsive; Now advancing and now shy; There is mischief in her dimples; There is danger in her eyes.

She has studied human nature; She is schooled in all her ways; She has taken her diploma; As the mistress of all hearts; She can tell the very moment; When to sigh and when to smile; Oh, a maid is sometimes charming; But the widow all the while!

Are you sad? How very serious; Will her handsome face become? Are you angry? She is wretched; Lonely, friendless, tearful, dumb; Are you miserable? How her laughter; Silver sounding, will ring out; She can lure and catch and play you; As the angel does the trout.

You old bachelors of forty; Who have grown so bold and wise; Young Americans of twenty; With the love locks in your eyes; You may practice all your lessons; Taught by Cupid since the fall; But I know a thing or two; Who could win and fool you all.—Robert Josselyn in Philadelphia Bulletin.

Had Pity For the Dog. A traveler in the highlands observed while at a small village a very beautiful colt. At his request the owner was pointed out to him, and he asked the man what he would take for the dog.

"I'll be taking him to America!" the Scot asked cautiously.

"Certainly, if you will sell him to me."

"I no could part me!" the dog's owner then said emphatically. "I'm muckle fondle o' him," and liberal offers were no inducements.

To his astonishment the traveler saw the dog sold to a drover for half price, but offered and, after the drover had disappeared, requested an explanation. "You said that you could not sell him," he remarked.

"A twinkle came into the Highlander's eyes."

"No, I didna say I'd no sell him—I said I couldna part me with him," he said. "Rob'll be lame in two or three days frae no, but I couldna ask him to swim across the ocean. That wad be too muckle to ask!"—Rocheester Herald.

Getting Back at Him.

He—Can you marry any girl I please. She—What a ploy you don't please any of them.—Philadelphia Express.

A Distinction With a Difference. "Gladly, tell me, which is proper, toothbrush or toothbrush. Now think."

"I've always said toothbrush, but I think I'll say toothbrush hereafter." "The thoughtful little fellow's reply."

"Well, which would you say, nailbrush or nailbrush?" "Go'froy argued similarly and decided in favor of 'nailbrush.'"

Pursuing the matter a step further, the father said, "And which would you say, hairbrush or hairbrush?" "This was too much for the son of the house. 'Well, papa,' he said, looking at that gentleman's bald head, 'I should say hairbrush, but if I were you I should say hairbrush.'—Judge.

Imprecator Values. "Father," asked the small boy, "have they discovered what radium really is?" "Radium, my son," answered the man who always assumes an air of wisdom, "is something that is worth a million dollars an ounce in theory and is not worth 10 cents a bushel for any practical purposes."—Washington Star.

Possible Solution. He—I don't see why you look on my suit with disfavor. Your mother says she has no objection to my becoming one of the family.

She—Well, mamma's a widow, you know, and perhaps she means to marry you herself.—Detroit Tribune.

Of Interest to Women.

To such women as are not ardent out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nerve. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeon's knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby ensuring childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a product of known composition, and a full list of its ingredients being printed in plain English, on every bottle wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is made up of pure vegetable glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, and its make-up, in this connection it may not be out of place to state that the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of women's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the medical schools of practice, and that too, a remedy for the ailments for which Favorite Prescription is recommended.

A little book of these order-coupons will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free, if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
