Creary Dairy Machinery Here.
The Dallas Creamery will be Ready to Receive Cream Next Monday.
Mr. T. S. Townsend is in town today getting everything in readiness for the Dallas Creamery to begin operations on next Monday. At that time farmers can bring in their cream and it will be made into the best of butter by the latest and most improved process. Mr. E. A. Hamilton, late of Wiscapan, will have charge of the plant here. He is a man of many years experience in the business, an affable, genial and obliging gentleman. If you have cows to milk, come in and talk with Mr. Hamilton and see the creamery in operation. The Townsend creameries carton butter, and the designation they have copyrighted for its name is, White Clover, a particularly suggestive one and indicative of the superior quality of butter made. This butter is now bringing in the open market 32 1/2 cents a pound, and the creamery here will pay for butter this far therefor an according price. This is particularly a good price for those who wish to dispose of their butter fat, and the farmers should not be slow to avail themselves to the opportunity offered.
The Townsend company runs creameries at Salem, Astoria and Lyons, and have a branch house at Seattle, and say the demand for butter now is something extraordinary. We would like to say more on the subject, but the item comes in just as we are going to press.

Dorr Gibson's Colt.
An Equine of Almost Human Intelligence.
When a Salem reporter asked Breeze Gibson, who is brother of A. R. Lewis, the other day this is what he asked: "Well," said Breeze, assuming a reminiscent attitude, "that horse is a self educated wonder. He belongs to my brother, Dorr Gibson, living five miles northwest of Salem; is about five years old and looks like any other colt. He has a passion for eating apples. That colt can climb a tree to get the apples, but he has invented a greatly improved method. He jumps to the top of the tree and then makes a rush back and forth. He strikes the tree with his buttocks, accompanying this movement with a simultaneous kick of his hind legs, and the result is that the apples are shaken down on all sides. The fruit which comes within reach the colt catches in his mouth, red hot from the branch, and the rest he just picks off the ground at his leisure.
