PINKIE PRIM

The Valentines that Pinkie made
Quite clever were, I ween,
Some "funny" were, and some were "nice";
But, none of them were "mean".

"St. Valentines" admits of much;
To "chalk, and knock, and ruin,"
But, throwing stones at people's doors,
Her Grandpa thought no fun.

The "nice" she took around herself;
The "funny" sent by mail.
A sketch of Auntie went to her,
A-try'n' to catch her tail.

He loaded then "Old Betsy" up
With salt and pepper hot;
And, at the boys who threw the stones,
Old Grandpa took a shot.

The final one to Grandpa's house
She took. And Grandpa said:
"Stay for supper, and I'll take
You home in time for bed."

Next day at school three absent were;
And one boy had to stand.
"Fun may be fine," said Pinkie Prim;
But, Prudence beats the Band!"
