Spring Medicine

The best is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the best because it does the most good.

While it makes the blood pure, fresh and lively, it tones the stomach to better digestion, creates an appetite, stimulates the kidneys and liver, gives new brain, nerve and digestive strength.

An unequaled list of cures—40,366 testimonials in two years—proves its merit.

Sarsatabs—For those who prefer medicine in tablet form, Hood's Sarsaparilla is now put up in chocolated tablets called Sarsatabs, as well as in the usual liquid form. Sarsatabs have identically the same curative properties as the liquid form, besides accuracy of dose, convenience, economy,—there being no loss by evaporation, breakage, or leakage. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. C. I. Hood Co., Lowell Mass.

Mrs. J. F. Gee, 59 Gould Street, Stoneham, Mass., says: "In 25 years experience I have never known Hood's Sarsaparilla to fail, for spring humors and as a general blood purifier; it cures scrofula, eczema; has no equal as a general spring medicine. It gives me genuine satisfaction to say this."

Senator Bailey regards Roosevelt as a pretty good tonic but a pretty queer mixture.

Happy thought: One year from now we will be pretty well over the effects of inauguration day.

Even with "In God We Trust" restored to our coins, it will still be necessary to hustle for a living.

While he may not be responsible for the late financial "panic," Roosevelt is undoubtedly the author of the political panic now disturbing some of the G. O. P. brethren.

The other day a Chicago man laughed until he fell over and cut his head on a radiator. Some one must have assured him that the Republicans will revise the tariff immediately after the next election.

How the old ring politicians do kick against the direct primary. We will acknowledge that there was vastly more fun in the old way—if you were in the ring—but such was never an expression of the desires of the people in any sense.

According to the Houston Post, a Dallas man has come home late seventy-eight nights in succession with a different explanation each time that was perfectly satisfactory to his wife. A man like that really ought to be in the diplomatic service of his country.

A fine specimen of the zealousness with which we are served by the men we send to congress is that of a certain United States senator rushing back to Oregon to try and get elected for another term. After we get through with statement No. 1 we might originate a No 3. specifying that senators attend the sessions and perform the work which we elect them to do, as is expected of any other hired man. It seems that the higher a trust a man is given in these United States, the less he is called upon to attend to its business. Voters should look at this matter in a business light, and get the best return we can for the money.

THAT TARIFF REFORM.

There never was a reform of any kind essential to the public good, but what took years of education to make the very people for whose good it was intended see its benefits. So it has been with tariff reform and other good things. The majority of Americans have gotten so in the notion of using that to them sweet phrase, "protection to American industries" that they rolled it about in their mouths and continually emitted it with an unctuousness that was bewildering to the first voter, and who through his loyalty and patriotism accepted it as a toothsome tidbit, and swallowed it whole, without investigation or the desire for such. The ultimate consequences of such protection they were entirely blind to and no amount of reasoning on our part could make them aware of it. Every election saw them again at the polls, blindly forging the chains which have today placed every industry of our country in the hands of a very small coterie of men. It was stated as a fact in the United States senate the other day that our entire monied interests are practically in the hands of two men, the other great financiers being but as captains under them and at their orders. That this is truly the case cannot be doubted by those who have even superficially endeavored to keep up with the many investigations being made on this subject by some of our most talented writers and published in our daily press and magazines. The matter is beginning to come home to the republican voter, and the thought to enter his cranium that he has for years been making a serious mistake and that the protection of an octopus is entirely a different thing from the protection of the infant. The change in front of his great party leaders has, too, somewhat discontented him. Those who have constantly been fornist a tinkering with the tariff, now want it tinkered with and tinkered with quick—or so they say. Is it so that they may do the tinkering, and after the next congress is over let the voter find out that it is just about the same old thing and the trusts protected as now. It looks that way. If the tariff is to be remedied it should not be by its socalled friends. Those friends are the very ones who for years have shown themselves the friends of the trusts. They have fully demonstrated that fact time and time again, and that no legislation detrimental to the interests of a trust can in any way be enacted. In the few instances that laws have been passed prejudicial to those intrests, a seemingly innocent looking "joker" takes the trick and turns the benefit in the opposite direction.

The sham of the tariff is the claim that it is maintained for the benefit of the workingman and the farmer. It is falsely boasted that it guarantees an American market for the American farmer and steady employment at high wages for the American workingman in the American mill. That it has utterly failed in both is not only present but earlier history. This is the third devastating panic we have had since the supremacy of protection. The first came in 1873, when every branch of the national government was in control of the Republican party and when nearly every northern state was dominated by the friends of protection. The second came in 1893, when the loudly praised McKinley bill was in full operation. We now have the third and the most virulent panic under the excessive Dingley tariff bill, with the Big Stick in the White House, with a congress overwhelmingly Republican and the greater number of the states in the union in the hands of the high priests of protection. If all this is not ample evidence of the miserable failure of the pet policy of the Republicans there never was a carcass that emitted a stench. It has thrice been found guilty of base betrayal. It has thrice been found guilty of a failure to keep the mills and the mines open and to insure work for all at good wages.

FRIEND TO FRIEND.

The personal recommendations of people who have been cured of coughs and colds by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have done more than all else to make it a staple article of trade and commerce over a large part of the civilized world.

AN INSTANCE.

Lucy Suddreth, of Lenoir, N. C., had been troubled with a very bad cough for over a year. She says: "A friend bought a bottle of CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY, brought it to me and insisted that I should take it. I did so and to my surprise it helped me. Four bottles of it cured me of my cough."

COULTER-BUTLER.

Two Popular Young People Unite Destinies.

At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. H. Butler, in Monmouth, on last Tuesday evening, Rev. A. C. Wigmore united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. Rodney Coulter and Miss Fern Butler. Dell Butler, a brother of the bride, gave her away, and Miss Gladys Catron was the charming bridesmaid. David Campbell played the wedding march, and Ella and Lester Butler sang the wedding song. The bride and her maid were beautifully dressed in raiment most appropriate to the occasion, but as our female reporter failed us at the last moment, we have to depend for this writeup upon a masculine, who could not go into any description of the costumes, but simply classed them as immense. The groom looked most entrancing, but it is said rather embarrassed. Well, why shouldn't he—first time, you know. Lester Butler got in the way and cabbaged the bride's bouquet for which act several eligible young ladies said he ought to be ashamed of himself. A nice lunch was served and the happy couple took their departure for Baker City, where they will hereafter reside. Mr. Coulter holds a responsible position with the O. R. & N. Co. at that place and is bound to rise in his accepted vocation. The bride is one of Monmouth's most beautiful and accomplished young ladies, and there are no social circles but what will hate to lose her. The many friends of the young couple in Dallas and Monmouth will join with the Itemizer in wishing them all the happiness that comes to married life and none of its sorrows. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. V. Butler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Butler, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Coulter, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Teats, Mr. and Mrs. George Boothby, Dr. and Mrs. O. D. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Word Butler, Mrs. McCredie, Mrs. Catron, Senator Doty, Misses Bertie and Ollie Coulter, Maggie and Allie Butler, Maud Hawley, Ella Butler, Opal Boothby, Miss Wolverton; Messers Bert Teats, Lester Butler, Dell Butler, Willis and Cleatis Butler.

Replying to several lads who have requested dimensions of the dog house for which the Itemizer offers a prize, we want it large enough to comfortably house a collie dog, light enough to be easily moved, and of proportion throughout. We leave the style of architecture entirely to the designer.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT YESTERDAY

AUGUST GERLINGER LOSES HIS LIFE.

Carl Gerlinger and John Carney Badly Injured.

Yesterday evening about half past five our citizens were shocked to hear of an explosion at the Willamette Valley Lumber Co's mill in the eastern part of town, and that one of our foremost citizens had met instant death, that another one was horribly mutilated and a young man badly hurt. It did not take long for the news to get all over town, and offers of help were freely given for the sufferers in the greatest catastrophe that our town has ever experienced. Our citizens responded nobly and fraternally evidenced the opinion in which the injured people are held in our midst. At the time of the accident it so happened that Mr. Ned Gerlinger was alone in charge of the company's many interests here, Mr. Geo. Gerlinger having gone to Portland on the afternoon's train and Mr. Lou. Gerlinger being in California. It was but a few minutes after the accident until Ned had all the physicians available in town at the scene of the accident. Drs. McCallon and Carey were the only ones here, the others being in attendance on people out of town, and Mr. Gerlinger got a special train from Independence to bring over Dr. O. D. Butler. This gave sufficient medical attendance for the sufferers and they were soon resting as easy as possible. Miss Stafrin, a trained nurse of considerable experience, rendered her services, and George Gerlinger, whom Ned had wired to come up to Salem yesterday evening, arriving home at midnight, and brought another nurse with him. The account of the accident from an authoritive source is as follows: The accident occurred in the round house of the Salem, Falls City and Western Railroad, of which Mr. Carl Gerlinger is the master mechanic, having entire charge of everything in that line. Mr. August Gerlinger is the engineer on the railroad, and Johnny Carney and two other men are employed in various capacities about the building. About 5:30 last evening Mr. August Gerlinger, who had just completed his run down from Falls City, came in to make his report and to gas awhile with Carl. At the time Carl was engaged in fitting a piston rod into a piston, by the heating of the latter so that it may expand and the rod enter. This piston is some 12 inches in length and 8 inches thick, the rod being 5 or 6 feet long. The custom followed is one in general use by mechanics, and about the only way of so connecting the two, but sometime gas will form in the operation and cause explosion. Plugs are provided in the piston which may be pulled so as to entirely obviate any danger in the operation, but 999 out of 1000 mechanics take the one chance. There is no question but what ordinary diligence in the matter was used. Anyhow, while the two gentlemen were conversing the piston exploded, breaking into some half a dozen large fragments and many smaller ones. Some of the larger fragments were carried through the building and found 300 feet away, so it can be seen how terrific was the explosion. August Gerlinger was standing with his left hand in his pocket. One piece struck him on the side of the head and caused instant death. Another piece carried away Carl Gerlinger's left arm below the elbow, and still another took two fingers off the right hand. Johnny Carney was also hit twice by flying pieces and pretty seriously injured.

Coroner Chapman held an inquest this morning at his undertaking parlors where this verdict was rendered:

We, the undersigned, agree that August Gerlinger came to his death April 1, 1908, at about 5:30 p. m., by an explosion of a piston head in the machine shops of the Salem, Falls City & Western railway.

G. W. MYER, foreman.
WM. KERSEY,
JACK McDONALD,
RICHARD PAUL
ED. BIDDLE
R. C. CRAVEN.

L. B. Brown acted as clerk at the inquest and the verdict entirely exonerated any one from liability or negligence in the matter. Testimony was given by Wm. Richter, I. L. Smith, Ned Gerlinger and Dr. B. H. McCallen.

August Gerlinger, deceased, was born in Germany some 25 years ago, and came to America about 3½ years ago, settling in Portland where he worked about one year for the Southern Pacific and O. R. & N. in their shops. He married about that time and some two years ago came to Dallas to work for his people here. He was a skilled workman in all lines of his craft, and one who made many friends and kept them. He leaves a wife and two children, the youngest a babe of ten weeks. The funeral will be held here Saturday, all arrangements having not as yet been perfected. The family have the entire sympathy of Dallas citizens in their sad bereavment.

Billie Wright, of Salem, commonly known as "Horse-radish Billie," was in Dallas Friday. He is an enthusiastic believer in the benefits of Woodcraft, and all his sons are members.

Proof is inexhaustible that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carries women safely through the Change of Life.

Read the letter Mrs. E. Hanson, 304 E. Long St., Columbus, Ohio, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was passing through the Change of Life, and suffered from nervousness, headaches, and other annoying symptoms. My doctor told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good for me, and since taking it I feel so much better, and I can again do my own work. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me during this trying period."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Do not make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address inghampton, N. Y. on every bottle.

GOT HIS OMELET.

Why One Man Ceased Trying to Be Funny With Waiters.

"I've never tried to be funny with a waiter," the traveler was saying, "since the time when I had a little experience with one in California. It was several years ago, and I was rather 'fresh.' I stepped into a restaurant one morning and ordered an omelet.

"'What kind?' asked the waiter.

"'Why, are there more kinds than one?' I said.

"'Oh, yes, sir,' he answered me; 'there are several.'

"'Well, bring me an ostrich egg omelet.'

"'All right, sir,' he said, 'but you'll have to wait quite awhile. It takes a long time to make an ostrich egg omelet.'

"I told him I had plenty of time. He went away and was gone fully an hour. Then he came back with a big covered dish.

"'There you are, sir,' he said, placing it before me and uncovering it.

"Well, it was an omelet, all right, and big enough for half a dozen men. Whether there was an ostrich farm in the neighborhood and he got a real ostrich egg or whether he made it from a couple of dozen hens' eggs I don't know, but I distinctly remember that it cost me $2—an' I learned a valuable lesson."—Youth's Companion.

An Old Joke.

My Lord Craven, in King James First's Reign, was very desirous to see Ben Jonson, which being told to Ben, he went to my Lord's House; but, being in a very tatter'd Condition, as Poets sometimes are, the Porter refus'd him Admittance, with some saucy Language, which the other did not fail to return. My Lord, happening to come out while they were wrangling, asked the occasion of it. Ben, who stood in need of no-body to speak for him, said, he understood his Lordship desired to see him; you, Friend, said my Lord, who are you? Ben Jonson, reply'd the other. No, no, quoth my Lord, you cannot be Ben Jonson who wrote the Silent Woman, you look as if you could not say Bo to a Goose. Bo, cry'd Ben. Very well, said my Lord, who was better pleas'd at the Joke than offended at the Affront, I am now convinced by your Wit, you are Ben Jonson.—"Joe Miller's Jest Book," 1739.

A Wide Distinction.

Barney Malloy and Mike Cairey were shingling a roof. "Barney," Mike asked, removing a bunch of shingle nails from his mouth and settling back comfortably, "what is the difference between satisfied and content?"

"The difference? Sure, there's none," answered Barney. "If you're satisfied, your're content, and if you're content you're satisfied."

"That was my opinion, too, Barney, me boy, up to now, but it struck me sudden-like as I put that last nail in that I am satisfied, all right, that Molly Cairey is my wife, but I am durned sure I am not content!"

Most people know that if they have been sick they need Scott's Emulsion to bring back health and strength.

But the strongest point about Scott's Emulsion is that you don't have to be sick to get results from it.

It keeps up the athlete's strength, puts fat on thin people, makes a fretful baby happy, brings color to a pale girl's cheeks, and prevents coughs, colds and consumption.

Food in concentrated form for sick and well, young and old, rich and poor.

And it contains no drugs and no alcohol.
