ELECTRICITY FOR LIGHTING IS ONLY EXPENSIVE

TO PEOPLE WHO ARE WASTEFUL AND CARELESS.

TO YOU, WHO ARE NATURALLY CAREFUL,

IT DOES NOT COME HIGH.

It is economical because it can be quickly turned off when not needed. With gas or kerosene there is the temptation to let light burn, when not needed, to save bother of lighting and adjusting. In some homes the electric light bill amounts to only about $2 per month. You can probably get some kind of artificial light for less money than electric light, but does it save you anything when it limits opportunities for work and recreation, ruins your eyesight, smokes your walls, mars decorations and increases household work. You can probably save a dollar tomorrow by going without your meals, but it wouldn't be economy. It is not so much what you save, but how you save, that counts. We are always ready to explain the "ins and outs" of the lighting proposition to you. Call on us or phone to us. We are never too busy to talk business.

INCLEMENT WEATHER Fails to Dampen Ardor at Our Carnival

Amusements Made Good in Every Respect

Notwithstanding the threatening weather a good crowd turned out on the first day of our street carnival of three days duration. The first day was devoted to the annual reunion of those who settled here in an early day and assisted in making Polk county what it is at the present time. At an early hour the old pioneers began to assemble on the streets, conspicuous in neatly printed badges bearing the date when they came here to settle, and by 10 o'clock there was quite a goodly assemblage of them present for their 18th reunion.

The Dallas and Sheridan bands were giving concerts at street intersections, the walks and roadways were lined with people, the sun was leaning forth in a good natured way, and best of all for the youngsters the speakers for the novelties on the midway were telling of their wares and the big balloon was filling up. At the appointed time it soared into the air, and at a height of many thousands feet the aerialist cut loose and floated gracefully to earth, alighting not far from where he started. This was the big event of the day and could not have been better done.

Owing to the raw wind which prevailed the pioneer exercises were held in Mr. Arnold's big tent, which he kindly donated for the occasion. There the band furnished delightful music to 2000 people seated within the large enclosure, and then the president of the association, Hon. J. H. Hawley, of Monmouth, introduced Speaker Wm. Keiser, who reviewed at length early days in Oregon and paid glowing tributes to many of them.

Over 1000 pioneers then repaired to the Woodman hall, where they were

PASSING OF MRS. FRANTZ.

She Died at her Kings Valley Home Tuesday After Eight Hours Illness.

Mrs. Laura Frantz, wife of By Frantz, a well known citizen of Kings Valley, died at the family home June 23. The funeral occurred at the Kings Valley cemetery, where the interment was made. The service was conducted by Rev. Burns, of Kings Valley. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors at length early days in Oregon and paid glowing tributes to many of them.

THE HEMBREE CASE.

Motion Made and Affidavits Filed That he did not Plead.

Last Wednesday was the day set for passing sentence upon A. J. Hembree, the Sandlake murderer, by Circuit Judge Burns, at Dallas, who was found guilty at that place for the murder of his wife.

The Tender Thought.

Harry is six years old. "Pa," he asked one day, "if I get married will I have a wife like Ma?" "Very likely," replied his father. "And if I don't get married will I have to be an old bachelor like Uncle Tom?" "Very likely," "Well Pa," he said, "after a moment of deep thought, 'Pa's mighty tough world for us men, ain't it?"

CARNIVAL NOTES.

The palmist at the Free Library booth was certainly a great attraction, especially for the ladies.

The street illumination was in itself a sight to behold and every one is unanimous in saying that we must keep it right along.

The several committees are to be congratulated on the outcome. They all certainly worked hard for its success and the only thing to note the aftermath is a slight financial deficiency.

The Sheridan band although young in playing, proved themselves a nice bunch of gentlemanly fellows, and Dallas will long remember them for their good playing, courteous ways and desire to please.

Salem Cherry Show.

Owing to the advantage that Marion county would have over others in competing for the grand prize cup of $150, it has been decided by the Cherry Fair committee that Marion county will not be allowed to compete for this prize. This will give all outside counties an equal chance. This does not prevent any grower in Marion county or elsewhere entering personally for this prize, but only debar the county exhibit of Marion county.

Chamberlain is now mentioned for the vice presidency—just mentioned is all.

Every attraction was pulled off in the afternoon and evening as advertised. The baby show at 4 o'clock brought out a number of entries and the prize for the best looking baby under six months was awarded to Mrs. Dee Dunn Margaret Lorraine, aged 9 weeks. The prize for over six months went to little Olive Calver. The judges named for this occasion proved too bashful and kept in hiding until it was all over, and we had to name three ladies to act in that capacity. Mrs. L. Kelly, Mrs. C. J. Guthrie and Mrs. W. W. Sellers had a hard time deciding, and we would not have been in their shoes for a bit, but we have no fault to find with their decision.

Saturday was known as Falls City day, had the best weather and the largest crowd of any of them. It was the only really warm day and the stands and shows all did a big business. The balloon ascension was the best ever seen, the performer going up very high and remaining in the air nearly out of sight for a long time. When he cut loose the balloon vanished, but finally both came down less than a block from where it started. All other sports were pulled off in good shape, great rivalry being shown in the 100-yard race and considerable money changing hands. Owing to no couple appearing the public wedding did not take place.

Saturday night was given over to hilarity and the midway presented a most animated scene. Everything was well patronized and the swing was not half large enough for the number of patrons. Every device making noise was in evidence, and the crowd went wild. Those who did not want to be peppered with balls, strung with confetti, tickled with ticklers, scared by fogs, tooted with horns and spouted with fire had to keep away. Never was its equal seen here and it will be a night long to be remembered. The night the big tents began to come down, and from then until morning it was still a busy scene, many staying up to see the very last of Dallas' carnival.

HIGHLY RESPECTED.

The Death of Clay Crider is Mourned by Many.

[San Jose Mercury, June 24th.]
The death of Clay R. Crider early Tuesday morning is mourned by a great number of the younger people of San Jose and by not a few of the older. He had been winning friends and admirers. In high school he was one of the most popular students. In Stanford he was even better liked. And during the past year, while he was associated with the business men of San Jose, he came to be admired as much for his business ability and integrity as for his friendly and character.

His death occurred at 2:30 a. m. Tuesday, after a severe attack of pneumonia, from which he had been suffering more than a week. Friday and Saturday last his condition seemed much improved, and his physician and family hoped for his ultimate recovery; but Sunday he had a relapse to which he soon succumbed.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crider of 468, South Second street. He was born May 24, 1885, in Dallas, Oregon. After leaving Dallas the family lived in Denver, Colo., and Oakland, Cal., before finally settling in San Jose in 1902. Clay attended high school in both Denver and Oakland, and was able to graduate from the San Jose high school the year after coming here or in June, 1903. While in high school he was a member of the Legion Literary society.

The fall following his graduation from high school he was matriculated in Stanford university, and for the next four years he continued his studies at that institution until in June, 1907, he was graduated from the law school, one of the best liked and generally respected members of his class. As a proof of the esteem in which he was held by his classmates he was chosen permanent secretary of the 1907 class. And this honor was only a final tribute after he had successfully filled many positions of responsibility among the students.

He was a member of Delta Chi, the law fraternity, and was one of the Committee on Student Affairs from Fennia. His death will be felt as keenly by the friends he made while at college as by his many friends in San Jose.

Shortly after his graduation from Stanford he entered the firm of Hoback & Crider, in which he became the junior partner in place of his father. He succeeded in business as he succeeded in his studies and school work when his career was suddenly ended by his early death.

In addition to his parents he leaves two brothers, C. L. Crider, of Dallas, Ore., and J. Walter Crider, of San Jose. His brother will come from Dallas today to attend the funeral. His uncle, H. L. Crider, is also expected to come. The funeral will be held from the family residence at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. M. W. Harkins, pastor of the Christian church, of which he was a member, will conduct the services. Music will be given by Miss Nellie Lawson and the Elks' quartet. He was a member of the B. P. O. E.

Mrs. A. H. Haldeman, of Salem, visited friends here last week.

The Itemizer at Dallas objects to the methods employed by the Tongues of Fire or Holy Rollers casting out devils. They are altogether too noisy, and then they draw a line on company and bar the editorial craft from their holy meeting. The fact is they recognize Fiske as too far gone for their power of exorcism and are leery of tackling too many devils at the same time.—Sheridan Sun.
