Two hundred and fifty one pulp mills in the United States used 3,346,106 cords of wood, and made 2,118,947 tons of pulp last year. Spruce has always been the leading pulp wood, and it furnished sixty-four per cent. of the total quantity used. The rapid development of the wood pulp industry in the last ten years has rendered the domestic supply of spruce insufficient to meet the demands upon it, and consequently importations from Canada have been heavy. In 1908 our pulp mills consumed nearly one and one-half million cords of domestic spruce, and over 670,000 cords of imported spruce, making the total domestic supply forty-five per cent. of the domestic spruce.

Next to spruce, the most important pulp wood is hemlock; 569,173 cords of it were converted into pulp last year. All the hemlock was of domestic origin, and most of it was produced in the Lake States and Pennsylvania. Although now used in less quantity than spruce, hemlock has long been a standard pulp wood.

Teachers throughout the country have been invited by the United States Forester to cooperate with the Forest Service in an effort to obtain more definite knowledge of the characteristics of the most important forest trees of the United States.

To do this it will be necessary to obtain a large number of volunteer observers who will collect material on the time of leafing, blossoming, and fruiting of the various kinds of forest trees. In his letter inviting the co-operation of the teachers, Forester Pinchot says: "Knowledge of this kind is greatly needed and will be of value from the standpoint both of education and of practical forestry. For educational purposes the results obtained for each species, averaged and presented graphically by means of colored charts, will be available to all who are interested in the subject, and particularly schools. They will form virtual

CHILDREN AN ENTIRE BOX OF CUTICURA

Spread on Some Crackers—Not the Slightest Injury Resulted from Little Fellow's Escape—In Most Positive Way Ingredients of

CUTICURA PROVEN PURE SWEET AND HARMLESS

A New York friend of Cuticura writes the following interesting letter:—
"My three year old son and heir, after being put to bed on a trip across the Atlantic, investigated the bathroom and located a box of Graham crackers and a box of Cuticura Ointment."
"When a search was made for the box, it was found empty and the kid admitted that he had eaten the contents of the entire box spread on the crackers. It cured him of a bad cold and I don't know what else."
No more conclusive evidence than the above could be offered that every ingredient of Cuticura Ointment is absolutely pure, sweet and harmless. It can be safely used by a young child, none but the most beneficial results can be expected to attend its application to even the tenderest skin of a young child. This feeling is shared by mothers and nurses to an extent that Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have for many years been unhesitatingly used throughout the civilized world for removing, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands of infants and children from the hour of birth. And greater still, it permanently and economically treats of infantile and birth humors, eczema, rashes, irritations, inflammations and chafings, and other itching, scaly and pimply humors when all other remedies suitable for children fail.

BALL GAME SUNDAY.

Dallas Grays to Play the Salem Team of Fairmont.

There will be a ball game at the park next Sunday afternoon, it being called at the popular hour of 3 o'clock. It will be between the Dallas Grays and the noted Fairmont team of Salem. It is expected that Jones will occupy the pitcher's box for Dallas, and that the game will be close and exciting. H. M. Brown is now in control of the park, but Manager Harmon has leased it for the Sunday game. If you want to spend a couple hours of pleasurable excitement, do not fail to attend.

LAND CONTESTS.

Ten Cases to Come up Before Referee W. L. Tooze.

Beginning at 10 o'clock this morning several land contest cases are to be heard before Referee W. L. Tooze, junior, at his offices in the Wilson block. The contestants in question lie in the famous Siletz bottom and involve some very valuable holdings. Mr. Tooze will be assisted by Miss Dorothy Yeagen, of Portland, acting as stenographer for the purpose of taking down the testimony of the parties to the cases. After the hearing, Mr. Tooze has developed his findings, the papers will be sent to the Portland land office, where they will come up for final hearing on or about June 25th. There are 10 contests, and the dates they will come up for trial and the parties whose claims are in litigation are as follows:

June 3rd—U. S. vs. T. H. Guy.
June 4th—U. S. vs. W. J. Southwell.
June 5th—U. S. vs. H. R. Scriber.
June 7th—U. S. vs. W. A. W. ...
June 8th—U. S. vs. L. C. Condon.

June 11th—U. S. vs. ...
June 12th—U. S. vs. P. A. Finsett.

Most of the parties concerned are well known in Dallas, and the contests are of considerable interest.

More Accidents.

The hospital here has had several additums in the last few days, all coming from our Falls City work. Henry McGinnis is suffering from blood poisoning also caused by a cut, and Earl Crowley is laid up with a sprained knee. The last named is a victim of a runaway hand car at Black Rock Monday in which several passengers were dumped off, but not so severely hurt as to lay them up except Mr. Crowley.

MANSTON-STAFRIN.

Pretty Home Wedding of Popular Couple Last Evening.

On June 2, 1909, occurred the marriage of Miss Ida Staftrin to Mr. W. H. Manston at the home which the groom had prepared for his bride on South Main street, near the corner of First Presbyterian church officiating. At 8:30 the bridal party descended the stairs and entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin. The bride, accompanied by Miss Ella Pearson, of Portland, and took their places in front of a beautiful array of ferns and roses. The impressive ring service was used. The bride was attired in a semi-princess gown of cream poplin de chene trimmed with high pointed collar and a shower bouquet of brides roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Anna Staftrin, was gowned in pale green silk and carried pink carnations. The groom wore the conventional black, and was attended by Mr. Fred Olsen, of Portland, as best man.

After congratulations the guests repaired to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. Urtia Staftrin, where a three course supper was served. The dining room was decorated in carnations, the color scheme being pink and white. Only the relatives and intimate friends were present. Among the out-of-town guests were the bride's cousins, Misses Katherine Olsen and Lottie Olsen and Mr. Fred Olsen, of Portland, and Miss Ella Pearson also of Portland. The guests from town were: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hyster, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McLennan, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Brobst, Mr. and Mrs. C. Staftrin, Misses Frankie Hyster, Olive Cook, Martha Staftrin, Messrs. The Moors of Today.

The Moors of today are the descendants of those who conquered Spain, who were practically paramount in the southern portion for two centuries and relics of whose wonderful buildings are to be found at the present day. In that country, indeed, it is strange to consider the position of the Moors of today when we see the work of their hands in past centuries, and the only explanation lies in the fact that they are unable to adapt themselves to modern conditions.—Strand Magazine.

A Christmas Sentiment.

However sincere we may be in our efforts to spread Christmas cheer and charity is none the less a testimony to our sense of the fact that peace and good will have not come upon the earth. Poverty and wretchedness are not to be offset by yearly gifts of baskets of food and outgoing clothes. We ought to make the spasmodic kindness of Christmas one of the constant forces of our industrial world. Equality and fraternity are born of charity, not of justice.

The Greatest Problem.

"Some critics have been cruel enough to say that all airship inventors are rightly," said the pretty girl. "That's just the trouble, miss," replied the struggling aviator; "the majority of us can't make a flight at all."—Chicago News.

Hunting Christmas Ghosts.

Ghost hunting bids fair to become the ruling passion of Washington state. The fortunate owners of a peated house, roped with fry and long surrounded by trees, are issuing cards for a Christmas specter hunt. The Christmas ghost hunt is imported from England, where the houses are ancient enough to harbor specters who were there before William the Conqueror. The comparative newness of this country leads some to predict that the fad over here will fall. There are exceptions, however, for even in Washington there is one of the treasure guarding ghosts—an out and out buccaner of the Spanish main variety, with cocked hat, gold lace, ruffles, high yellow boots, red jacket and an odor of antiquity. Those acquainted with him say that he elicits his chains of stolen dollars.—Washington Star.
