CONSTANT PULLING MOST EFFECTUAL.

If a business man would give advertising the same attention that he does any other detail of his business, advertising would pay him a lot more than the other details. But he won't. He'll run along for several weeks without a line and then he'll spring a big "occasional" — big in the black letters and assertions, and an ad that makes the people wonder if he is hard up or going to close out, trying to put it over on the public. Deep down in every dealer's heart is the conviction that advertising pays, but he won't prove it out thoroughly and systematically — he won't give it a quarter of the attention he will a customer who comes to his store. He will wait weeks thinking of it and dreading it, as he dreads writing a letter to his cousin, and then at the last minute he will throw together a handful of words, mostly assertions, run it one week, and wonder why there isn't a run on his store the next day. Wise old John Wanamaker said: "Advertising doesn't jerk — it pulls." Advertising is good in proportion to how it is done, and systematic, persistent advertising will pay any merchant an investment. If you want to make a man believe in some proposition you have, want him to go in with you, you don't simply present your idea and leave him. If you did you would lose him. But the next day you come back at him. You stay with him and you get him. So with the man who advertises, who uses brains with his advertising, who makes it a part of his business and stays with it. Go into any good sized city in any state in this big United States and you will find the biggest trade getters are the biggest advertisers. You can't get away from this: Any merchant who dresses a display window or who puts a price on an article in that window is an advertiser and he believes in advertising. He advertises just to the people who happen to pass by on his side of the street — and who happen to look in his window. The same merchant may make hundreds of people see his display through the newspapers, if he would only give his advertising attention, get right down to brass tacks and make it a part of his business. Try it — prove it. — Oregon City Courier.

JUDICIAL USURPATION.

It is to be hoped that the action of the President in vetoing the bill to admit New Mexico and Arizona as States, because the Constitution of Arizona contained a provision by which in the circumstances named therein judges might be recalled at any time during the terms for which they were elected, will awaken the people of this country to the grave danger that menaces our republican institutions — a danger growing out of the usurpation of power by our courts, and especially the usurpation of power by the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Constitution of the United States provides for the establishment of one Supreme Court and clearly defines its powers. Nowhere does it appear that the Supreme Court has the power to declare an act of Congress void. Indeed, on four separate occasions during the Constitutional Convention, resolutions were introduced to give the Supreme Court this power, and on each occasion the resolution was overwhelmingly defeated.

That the Supreme Court has been constantly usurping power and encroaching on the domain of the remaining co-ordinate branches of our system of government is apparent to anyone who has made a study of the rise and development of our judicial system. — The Public.

Treasurer Kay is out as an earnest advocate against the tariff on wool. It was an example of manly courage for him to take such a stand in opposition to his party principles, but knowing it for the best, he had no hesitancy in making the avowal. That is true manhood.

The Sign of Salesmanship

Half of salesmanship is enthusiasm. The merchant who advertises with an Electric Sign tells the world that he is enthusiastic about his business. The Electric Sign drives home this message and drives it hard. It is the best and liveliest expression of enthusiasm that you can find at any price. GET A SIGN THAT STANDS FOR YOUR BUSINESS and NONE OTHER. Our New Business Department will Originate a Special Design for YOU.

THE COST OF MILITARISM.

For the eight years preceding the war with Spain our average annual expenditure for the army was less than $25,000,000; for the eight years following the war the annual average leaped to more than $83,000,000; and now for the current year the army appropriation is $95,440,567. The navy has done even better. For the eight years preceding the Spanish war the average annual expenditure was a little more than $27,500,000; for the next eight years it averaged $102,400,000, and this year the navy gets $131,350,854. Adding the navy and army appropriations gives the sum of $226,691,421, which is rather a neat price to pay for imitating the antics of those ghost dancers on the farther side of the Atlantic. But this isn't all by any means. To this sum must be added the current appropriation for the military academy, $1,856,249, the appropriation for forts and fortifications, $5,617,200; and the pension appropriation of $155,758,000, making a grand total of $359,022,870 as the cost of militarism for one year, or at the rate of $1,068,555 a day for every day in the year. — Technical World for October.

SHODDY WOOLENS.

The wool trust's practice of cheapening the quality of its products while at the same time maintaining prices at the highest level ever known, has drawn the fire of the medical journals all over the country. Through these journals the physicians of the nation are protesting against the lack of warm and enduring underclothing, a fact to which they attribute the spread of many injurious diseases. Women and children suffer most from this form of greed. The medical journals are demanding a repeal of the high duties — amounting to 100 per cent on the commoner grades of wool — recognizing in these duties the source of the evil of which they complain.

It is disgusting to see the little standpat papers fall in line with the Oregonian and criticize every act of Governor West. Because he is not on their political side of the fence, because he is not bound by political ties in any way, and because he is endeavoring to eradicate past evils and give the state an administration for its betterment, both individually and as a whole, he is traduced on every turn, his acts of pure manhood nullified and held up for ridicule. Shame on such politics. The latest criticism from this ignoble source is the pardoning of Webb. Had the governor had him hanged, he would have been jumped on just the same. We are glad to see that West is paying no attention to these newspaper flings, but is pursuing his course of justice, as best he sees it.

Why the mere assuming of a judicial robe should eliminate anyone from getting the recall for his unwise acts is beyond our comprehension, and any argument to keep up such a state of affairs is contrary to our free-born instincts. No man, or set of men, should get so high in our government as not to be amenable to the people for their acts — and that at a time unjust ones are committed.

When we came to Dallas it was not long before we knew every man, woman and child in the berg. Now what a change. We can stand on a street corner and see more people go by that we do not know than we do, and the most of them seem to be residents the same as ourselves. Well, we are not kicking, although such conditions seem to sometimes bring a sort of lonesome feeling.

OUT OF THE COUNTY.

Residents Away and Those Formerly Here.

A. A. Canfield and family passed through here with team Friday on their way home to Mill Creek, Polk county, four miles south of Sheridan. They have been living near Keeville for the past two months, where Canfield has been engaged in caring for his hay crop on a formerly leased farm. — Sheridan Sun.

Mrs. J. W. Boyer and son, Merwin, left Monday for a visit to her old home in Iowa, which she has not seen for 20 years. — Williamson Times.

Mrs. Elmer DaMotta left for Salem and Dallas last Tuesday to visit with relatives and friends. — Roseburg Review.

Miss Lena Tartar, who was one of the teachers in the Corvallis high school last year, has been engaged as assistant principal in the Lebanon high school. — Corvallis Times.

W. H. Sportsman and his two little children left last week for Westfall, Multnomah county. He has been in the employ of the Carlton Consolidated Lumber Co., but has had an unusual portion of trouble, being laid up a long time with a broken leg, and later the sickness and death of his wife. He has been assisted in the care of his motherless children by kind hearted friends here, but is now taking them to a sister's at the place above mentioned. — Carlton Sentinel.

Fred West, wife and children went to Albany Wednesday, and from there Fred will go on to the state fair under charge of County Superintendent Jackson. — Scio News.

Suspect Arrested in Polk.

J. A. Pender, an Apple valley rancher, was arrested at Independence, Friday, by Sheriff Thompson, of Columbia county, in connection with the murder of Mrs. Peise Wehrman and her 3-year-old son, Harold, September 4. The arrest comes as a surprise to those who have been following the search for the murderer, as it was not known that the case had developed to such an extent as to warrant anyone being taken into custody. Sheriff Thompson, however, has been working on the case night and day. Suspicion was first directed toward Pender Thursday of last week when a preliminary coroner's inquest was held at the Wehrman cabin in Apple valley, four miles from Scappoose. Pender, when questioned by the authorities, seemed particularly nervous. On his face were several scratches, such as might have been caused by a woman's finger nails. Pender, during future examinations, however, seemed so frank and willing to tell all he knew about the murder, that the officers' suspicions were dissipated. Further, there was no direct evidence pointing toward his connection with the crime. Pender was a witness before the coroner's jury in St. Helens on Friday of last week and told the same story he told before the officers the day before. — Journal.

Dallas Company to Enlarge Plant.

The Dallas Lumber and Logging Company, with headquarters and a large mill at Dallas, has been compelled to enlarge its plant to a considerable extent, owing to the increasing demands upon them for lumber. The plant here has a capacity of 125,000 feet of lumber per day, and has the reputation of being the only plant in the state that is running each day. Logs for this plant are brought here from the timber holdings of the company above Black Rock in this county by rail. — Oregonian.

LIQUID CURES ECZEMA WHERE SALVE FAILS

In regard to skin diseases medical authorities are now agreed on this: Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid. WASH THE ECZEMA OUT. A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D. D. D. Prescription, penetrates to the disease germs and destroys it, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done. A 25-cent trial bottle will start the cure, and give you instant relief.

Polk Pioneer Dead.

Mrs. Catherine McNary, relict of H. M. McNary, of Salem and an Oregon pioneer of 1852, died Saturday, aged 72 years at the home of her son, Lawrence A. McNary, 151 Thurman St. in Portland. Funeral services were conducted at Salem, where Mrs. McNary resided with her husband for many years, and burial took place in City View cemetery. Mrs. McNary was the daughter of Hees and Lily Frizzell, and was born in Green county, Missouri, January 10, 1839. When 13 years old she crossed the plains to Oregon with her parents, settling in Polk county, where in 1854 she was married to H. M. McNary, an Oregon Pioneer of 1845. After living in Polk and Wasco counties in this state and Klickitat county, Washington, Mr. and Mrs. McNary, in 1870, established their home in Salem, which was the home of Mrs. McNary until her husband died in 1891, when she came to Portland and lived with her children. Mrs. McNary was the mother of seven children, all of whom survive her. They are: Mrs. Sarah A. Smith, of Corvallis; Miss Lillian McNary, of Salem; Angelo P. McNary, of Arlington; Dr. Wilson D. McNary, of Carson, Washington; Miss Anna L. McNary, Lawrence A. McNary and Hugh F. McNary, of Portland. Mrs. McNary was the sister of William J. P., G. L., and Joseph Frizzell and A. M. Hays, and all well known pioneers, who with the exception of Joseph Frizzell and Mrs. Holmes, survive. Mrs. McNary was for many years a member of the first Presbyterian church, of Salem, in which the funeral services were conducted Sunday.

Cut His Foot With Axe.

Gene Anderson, a logger, employed by the Falls City Lumber Co., seriously injured himself Thursday afternoon by cutting his right foot with an axe. He was engaged in trimming a small tree when the axe slipped and struck his foot, cutting deep. He was brought to Falls City, where the injury was dressed, and it is believed there will be no serious results from the accident.

S.S.S. REMOVES THE CAUSE AND CURES CATARRH

Catarrh usually begins with irritated, inflamed membranes of the head, nose and throat, from which there is a constant and copious discharge of watery matter. This comes from inflammation of these mucous surfaces and is caused by catarrhal matters and impurities in the circulation. Nature intends that these membranes shall be nourished by the blood, but waste matters and impurities deposited into these delicate parts, sets up inflammation and the discharge is a natural result. When this secretion begins to dry it becomes thick and sticky, adhering to the back portion of the mouth and throat, causing the "hawking" and straining so troublesome to Catarrh sufferers.

Other ordinary symptoms are caused from congestion of the circulation by the catarrhal impurities. There is only one way to cure Catarrh, and that is to remove the cause by purifying the blood. Washes, sprays, inhalations, etc., do not reach the circulation, and therefore can only afford temporary relief. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter, and at the same time building up the system by its unequalled tonic effects. In other words S. S. S. cures Catarrh by purifying the blood so that the mucous surfaces and linings of the body are supplied with healthy nourishment instead of being continually irritated from the catarrhal impurities. Then the inflamed membranes heal, the discharge is checked, head noises cease, the stomach is toned up, and the throat is no longer clogged with mucus. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.
