CONVICTED MAN SET FREE.

Sheridan Photographer's Sentence Suspended by Judge.

The trial of Burke E. Wright, a Sheridan photographer, which just terminated, is unique in the annals of the circuit court in Yamhill county. About five weeks ago Wright's assistant in his studio, J. W. Robinson, was arrested for making and selling obscene postcards. Robinson used Wright's studio in which to make the cards and hired small boys to sell them. Several boys about town, implicated in selling the obscene portraits, were spirited out of town before they could be arrested. Robinson testified against Wright, his employer, claiming that Wright was an accomplice in the crime, and the latter was arrested.

Wright was tried and found guilty of the offense, but the judge suspended sentence. Wright's attorney and prominent business men of this city were untiring in their efforts and appeals to Judge Kelly for leniency in Wright's case, as the latter has always been an honorable and respected business man and it was the popular opinion that he had been drawn unconsciously into the affair.

Working Under Difficulties. This edition of the Itemizer has surely been gotten out under great hardships. In the first place the heating plant for the building is not in and our ink is too cold to do good printing. Next, ye editor has been so busy trying to get things so arranged as to find them when wanted that we have not been able to rustle only the news that our friends have brought in. By the end of the week these troubles will be over, and we ready to receive visitors with our accustomed urbanity.

Will Change Location.

More changes are in order, consequent upon the building of the Dallas National bank building. When the bank goes in the corner room, Glenn Butler will move from his present location in the Uglow building to the one now occupied by the bank, and a partition is now being put in to divide him clear through from the Webster confectionery. Ralph Butler is up from Portland to work for his brother until they get in the new quarters, which is expected to be by the first of the month.

Narrow Escape.

The other day while Mr. Magnis was moving his household goods from Dallas to Rickreall, he in some way slipped from a load of wood, falling in front of one of the wheels, it striking him on the neck, but not running over before he succeeded in stopping the horses. Had the load gone an inch further it would have killed him. As it was Mr. Magnis sustained a severe shock, but under the careful ministrations of Dr. McCallon, is recovering.

Beginning next Tuesday, October 10, meetings will be held every two weeks in the high school auditorium. Public meetings will be held at stated intervals and to these the patrons of the school are especially invited. The following officers were elected:

Install a Paper Folder.

Our esteemed contemporary around the corner, not being blessed as we are, with a female contingent who are adepts in that line, has been compelled to install a paper folding machine to get away with their rapidly increasing circulation. A good paper folder is like a typesetting machine, seemingly endowed with human intelligence, and it is a treat to watch one do the work of several skilled hands. We congratulate the Observer on the acquisition to their mechanical department.

Hop Picking Machines Burned.

Evidently hop picking machines are in use in some parts of the world, as the Osego Farmer quotes the following extract from a California letter: "Day before yesterday the Horst kilns in Tehama county burned and the picking machines were also burned. Horst is now picking his hops by hand labor and the railroad is hauling the hops from the Tehama ranch to Wheatland, where they are drying in the Durst kilns, a distance of about sixty miles."—Statesman.
