Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Wilson, of Eldorado, Ill., are here for the summer and to visit their sons, L. R. and A. J., and daughter, Mrs. Jane Guttry, of Amity. They had not seen their son, L. R. for 20 years, and the meeting was a most pleasant one.
The winter maneuvers of the New York state militia are shown by a number of illustrations in the April Popular Mechanics Magazine. Winter maneuvers are new things for the citizen soldiery and were indulged in by the New Yorkers as a special treat.
Word has been received from O. A. C. that they will send professor V. R. Gardner here next Saturday to talk to our horticultural society about specializing on small fruits. He has been doing some good breeding work on cherries and prunes, and his experiences along that line will prove interesting. Mr. A. M. Lafolet will also be here from Salem and talk on peaches. Remember, at the court house Saturday afternoon.
"Phid" Bailey, well known to all old Dallas residents, but who for the last 20 years been an onion raiser on his farm near Beaverton, fell recently in Portland and sustained a fractured skull, from which he passed away in Portland March, aged 61 years. He leaves an aged mother, and two sisters in Dallas; and a wife, two sons and seven daughters.
Mrs. C. Drumeller departed for Dallas Wednesday, where she expects to remain some time with her sister, who is ill. The W. O. W., of which she is a valued member, though this an opportunity to give her a surprise, and accordingly, on Saturday evening the members called en masse and made the surprise complete. A most enjoyable evening was spent by all present.—Sheridan Sun.
PIPES! PIPES!!
We have just received a fine lot of those famous R. B. C. Perfecto pipes direct from the manufacturer in Chicago. They consist of briars and meerschaum in cases, Cabalashes, and a fine lot of 25 and 50 cent pipes. Come in our store and see how pipes are made and where they get the Amber and Briarwood for them. POLK'S BENDERS.
The Two Humphrey Boys Proves Murderers and Worse.
Last Monday morning a week we met George Humphrey on the street, not having seen him for several years, and condoled with him on the death of his mother, of which we had heard. We took him to the office to secure particulars of her death and life. He did so, but seemed much put out when talking about her, the tears constantly streaming down his cheeks. Our heart went out in sympathy to him, as we knew they had been much to each other during their 20 years residence among us, she having practically transacted their trading business when in town.
The developments of the last few days have turned our compassion into wonderment that such a fiend could possibly cloak his fiendishness under the mask of secrecy for so long a period, as it now seems certain that he is responsible for at least four cold blooded murders, and maybe five. He, together with his brother, Charley, have confessed to the outrage and murder of Mrs. Griffith near Philomath last year. Charley has also stated that George got away with his stepfather Wm. King, George Selby, and a man by the name of George Damrose at Yoncolla. It is nearly a certainty that he may also be responsible for the disappearance of Newton I. Patterson, who prior to 1903 lived on an adjoining ranch to the Humphreys. When the Humphreys came here some 25 years ago, his mother had her second husband with her, one William King. They had all previously lived for a little while near Wheatland, where they first settled on coming here from Colorado. There was constant bickering between the wife and husband, and after living here a few years, he left the family and went back to the Wheatland ranch, where Charley now confesses that George went one night and strangled him.
In 1892 Newton I. Patterson sold his little ranch adjoining the Humphrey ranch to John B. Netherton, and they took possession. The next year he sold a five-acre tract in the same region to H. L. Crider, and bought five acres of T. J. Hayter, but never made payment on it or took title. He had been trying to get some back pension money from the government, and it was thought that he had received some $1800. Anyway he suddenly disappeared, and was never heard from since, some thinking he got disconsolate about its non arrival on time, and taking his gun went into the mountains and killed himself, as the gun was the only thing missing from his home. The pension money arrived in a few days, and has long since been returned to the government, as there was no claimant for it. This may yet prove a crime to be laid at the Humphrey door.
On September 10, 1908, the farm home of George Selby, near Pioneer was discovered to be on fire, as also the chicken house and barn. The fire was discovered late in the afternoon by J. M. Walters, and he sent a Mr. Reed to town to get help, the fire being too hot to make any attempt at saving anything. It was soon found that the house contained a charred body and caused great a distribution of the work.—Hillsboro Independent.
Last Wednesday we broke a pin on one of our job presses, and found by phone that Portland had no extras, and we would have to wait until the extra could be ordered from the east. In our predicament we called up Ralph Morrison of the Dallas Iron Works. He made one for us and had the press running next day. The moral of which is that you should never send away from home to get any thing until you are certain you cannot get it here.
Says in Bad Condition.
Upon the attention of the city council being brought last night by Councilman Pennybaker to the condition of the steel bridge across the river, that body authorized the bridge committee to confer with the county court relative to securing joint action by these two bodies together. Previously the council had voted to let the contract to the Spaulding Logging Co. to furnish the lumber for redecking the bridge, but later decided to hold up the repair work until the condition of the bridge had been investigated. Mr. Pennybaker said that the bridge sways so violently when teams were passing over as to make one standing upon it seaisick, and that he considered it in a very serious condition. Councilman Rigdon was of the opinion that the swaying of the bridge was an indication of its strength, but also agreed that it needed investigation.—Salem Statesman.

SOMETHING DOING.
Railroad Transit Men in Field at the Summit.
Yesterday morning a crew of engineers and surveyors left Falls City for the summit of the coast range back of that city, presumably for the purpose of locating an extension of the S. P. lines on to connection with the Pacific ocean. This looks to us as if a railroad was soon to tap the famous Siletz basin in order to bring out to the world the billions of feet of fine fir timber now ready and anxious to be brought to market and assist in supplying the demand of the world.

Celebrates Birthday.
In honor of her third birthday yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Ross Ellis, assisted by Miss Roberta McCallon, gave Miss Virginia a nice party at the family residence on Washington street. The afternoon was spent in playing games and music, followed by refreshments dear to the heart of childhood. Many remembrances were received by the little hostess to remember the occasion by. Those present were: Ellen Virginia Ellis, Catherine Hillebrandt, Helen Soehren, Dorothy Patterson, Alice Patterson, Agnes Smith, Cleo Guy, Alice Crider, Grant Lane, Curtis Tennis, Van Crider, Paul Bilyeu.

Slightly Disgruntled.
A number of mohair dealers seem to have stuffed the Portland dailies full of misrepresentations regarding the Dallas mohair pool, claiming dissatisfaction here from our growers and that the bidding of last year was not straight. All such statements are manufactured out of whole cloth. There is not, nor has there been, any feeling of discontent among our growers, in fact they are glad to see our local menable to outbid other buyers. The charge of unfair bidding is laughable to those present, as the foreign people quit bidding in open session and Mr. Fenton raised their last offer 1-4 of a cent. Metzger never has purchased the Dallas pool but once, and that time his dealings with the growers was not at all satisfactory. Those fellows want our mohair too cheap, but generally fail to get it. The Dallas pool will be larger than ever this year.
