Elton White, of Roseburg, who has been visiting friends in the city the past two weeks, was thrown from a hay baler Friday afternoon near Rickreall, where he has been visiting since Tuesday. One of the men who was working with White on the baler became angry, and in the scuffle which ensued White was thrown from the baler to the ground. He was unconscious for some time and when medical aid was secured it was found that he had a broken collarbone, as well as a badly sprained wrist. His friends in this city were notified and the injured man was brought to Salem late in the evening.—Statesman.

FATAL ACCIDENT. Charley Black Killed by Overturning of Charley Bilyeu's Auto Last Night.

Charley Black, junior, is dead. His death occurred at nearly 2 o'clock this morning, and was the result of the overturning of Charley Bilyeu's auto. As near as the Itemizer can gather the circumstances connected with the sad affair are these: About 7:30 last evening Charley Bilyeu, Mike Wall, boss of the paving work here, C. F. Hamblin, connected with the Observer, Charley Black and Carl Williams went over for a ride to the capital city. On the way home as they were making the first turn this side of Mark Capp's residence, about five miles from Salem, and formerly known as the Jacob Pfau place, Mr. Bilyeu failed to exactly negotiate the curve, and the hind wheels skidding, the auto was turned completely over, across a small ditch, some of the wheels resting on a fence. Mr. Bilyeu and Mr. Wall were in the front seat, and Williams, Black and Hamlin in the tonneau, Black being in the center. The elevation of the wheels saved the rest of them from serious injury, but Charley Black was struck internally in some way, being of a corpulent nature, and internal hemorrhage caused his death within the hour, although he thought at first he was not hurt much, and so informed the balance, on the inquiry being made if any one was hurt. The boys got to a phone and notified Dr. McCallon exactly at 1 o'clock, and he was there in half an hour, but too late to do Charley any good. Charley was conscious when he arrived, and greeted him pleasantly, but before the doctor could get water for a quieting draught, he gave a gasp and passed away. The doctor, McCallon, brought the rest of the crowd home, Charley Bilyeu staying with the body until Undertaker Chapman arrived. Coroner Chapman, after a report from the doctor, could see no necessity for an inquest, and the remains were brought to the undertaking parlors here, and are now being prepared for burial.

The date of the funeral is as yet unsettled, awaiting word from his sister, Mrs. Emma Froelich of Los Angeles, as to whether it will be possible for her to be here. Mrs. Eliza Black, deceased's mother, was at Buell in attendance upon a sick brother, Mr. Ridgeway, and Walter Muir, Mrs. H. B. Cosper and Mrs. C. G. Goad went out and brought her home this morning.

Charley Black was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Black, and was born at their farm on Mill Creek some 40 years ago. He has been practically a resident of Dallas all his life, receiving his education here, and being engaged in business here all the time. He was for years owner of Black's stables, but lately has been teaming for himself. He had been married, but was divorced. He was a member of no order that we know of. A man of tender impulses, he was well liked by everyone, and he had a wide acquaintance throughout the county.

Mr. Bilyeu and Mr. Wall were quite badly bruised in the accident, but nothing serious, although the former is in bed today. The accident caused such a shock to the community here, as has seldom been experienced, owing to the popularity and standing of the participants, and great sympathy is expressed for the bereaved ones, who suddenly have been bereft of one whom they so fondly loved.

CIRCUIT COURT DOCKET.

Since our last issue Judge Holmes has continued to grind out circuit court business and thinks he will be able to close up some time tomorrow, making this the longest term of circuit court ever held in Polk county.

Friday and Saturday was taken up with the condemnation cases of the Valley & Siletz railroad against different parties in the Airline region to secure rights of way for said road. The jury, which tried the three cases, was taken out to view the premises. The jury returned verdicts of damages as follows: Henry P. Whiteaker $650; Leroy Byerley $316.25; Louis Toedemier $1100.

The Stevenson cases came up Monday, and he pleading guilty to the indictment was fined $50 on the first count, and on motion of the prosecuting attorney the other two were dismissed.

A. R. Southwick was Monday excused from further service as juror.

W. L. Tooze was allowed $75 as attorney for Louis Davis.

The case of Wm. Ellis against Falls City in the matter of a street assessment is on trial today.

State of Oregon vs Fred Stevenson, indictment; D H Upjohn for plaintiff, S M Johnson, John F Logan for defendant.—Fined $50.

CHILDREN ARRIVE.

The morning 11:10 train brought 15 yellow tagged boys and girls sent up by the associated charities of Portland for a 10 days feast of our pure country air and water undefiled by such contaminations as exist in the metropolis, and where they can enjoy the rural doings and scenery to their heart's content. Twenty children were expected, but owing to their not having received medical examination five had to be left.

The children were at once taken to the library by Mrs. J. R. Craven, Mrs. Conrad Staffrin, Mrs. Geo. Gerlinger and other ladies of the woman's club, and at once allotted, and taken in charge by those volunteering to take care of them, as follows:

Herman, Esther and Godfrey Olson—Joe G. Brown.

Jennie Allori, Ida Jones—Mrs. J. E. Miller.

Ernestine Taylor—Mrs. E. C. Day.

George Steele—Mrs. G. L. Hawkins.

Mary Allori—Mrs. G. H. Black. Cyril Ball—Mrs. E. Evans. Edgar McNeal—Mrs. C. B. Sundberg.

Albert Allori—Mrs. Joseph Goetz.

Earl Wilkins—Mrs. F. Whitney. Mrs. Donovan and baby—Mrs. W. Ullrey.

Judge Harley Holman has been laid up with pneumonia and lagrip for several days.

Arrangements are under way to have several of Arnold's shows at our county fair.

Editor Eugene Foster, who has been so ill lately with a complication of ailments, is reported as much better this morning.

Dr. Calvin S. White, secretary of the state board of health, and H. V. Gates, proprietor of our water works, are visiting Dallas today.

Ed Cornelius has been quite ill with pneumonia, and his mother from Portland and his sister from Monmouth, have been here to care for him.

Scott Campbell and Billy Riddell broke through the race covering on Shelton street this morning while taking their engine across.

Will Go to Roseburg. About September first Dallas will lose one of its principal business women in the person of Miss May Shelton, who goes to Roseburg to accept the management of the suit department in Bellow's big store. Miss Shelton will be greatly missed in both business and church circles in Dallas, where she has held such a prominent place. Both in business for herself and as manager of departments for others, she has shown an ability beyond the ordinary and Bellows' are to be congratulated on securing her.

IT IS WHISPERED. That a move is on foot to hold the fair on the camp ground—nix.

That proposed dog ordinance did not seem to meet general approval.

That oak grub wood is a little scarce this year—mighty hard to find men who have time to cut it.

That Salem job offices are reaping a harvest since Dunningway died.

That Wilson's peace policy with Mexico do not seem so visionary after all.

That even the prejudiced Oregonian thinks we have a fine secretary of the Interior.

That 15 little tots are going to have the time of their lives for the next 10 days.

That the rain scare this morning was all for nothing.

Jere Mescall has been called to his home in New York City by the serious illness of his father.

F. Hartman is nursing a badly swollen hand, caused by a wood splinter that penetrated the flesh over an inch.

An engine got on the rampage at the car shops the other day and mashed a pilot by running into another one.

Dr. Bollman this morning brought in to the Dallas hospital Jake Hetzel, who is suffering from a broken thigh bone received by colliding with a log at Martin's mill yesterday.

Mrs. Nellie Tatom returned last evening from attendance as a delegate at a three weeks' head circle session of the Woman of Woodcraft in Portland. She reports an interesting session and many measures passed for the good of the order. Dallas circle is to be congratulated in their choice of a representative.
