 Farticulars of the Case From Late Yoko-hama Papers.
 SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—The Yoko-hama papers, which arrived on the first three days' proceedings of the triat of Lieutenant Hetherington for the shore that for the prosecution H. C. Litchfield dwelt upon the fact that Robinson and Hetherington had a quartel on January 1, and had been separated by friends. Then the matter seemed to be dropped.
 Litchfield claimed Hetherington's acts showed that he shot Robinson in cold showed that he shot Robinson in cold blood and that his act was premeditated. showed that he shot Robinson in cold blood and that his act was premeditated. The testimony of those who witnessed the shooting was similar to that given at the inquest. The only new testimony was given by Constable McCanee, of the United States consulate, and by Lieu-tenant Rogers, of the Marion. The constable testified that when Hethering-ton came to the consulate immediately after the shooting, he was greatly even cited.
