

PARTISAN PRATTLE.

The Portland Telegram is still fighting this. It continues its charges that he is a "Moody man," a railroad man, a railroad attorney and the like.

The Telegram is using an old weapon to browbeat, and turn voters from Ellis, but the editor of the Telegram knows he is publishing falsehoods; the people know it. The Telegram ought to know that it can't successfully throw mud enough to blind the people as to the merits of Ellis.

Ellis is a "Moody man" why does the anti-Moody paper support him with such zeal? Why does it continue to urge him as a just and pure man? Because he is no man's tool, a friend to the people and honorable to all trusts reposed in him.

The Telegram says that Ellis was appointed by Gov. Moody to the district attorneyship when he was poor, and therefore is under obligations to Moody. Ellis is yet poor, for that matter—a man who is in very moderate circumstances, yet, perhaps, if he had been as grasping and grasping as some individuals that the Telegram is wont to hold up and worship, he might have had more money. It is certainly no crime to be poor, as the democratic (?) journal would have it understood. Gov. Moody did appoint Ellis as prosecuting attorney of the seventh judicial district in 1886, on the unanimous recommendation of the bar of said district. Had they as earnestly recommended another, he would have been chosen. At the two elections following he was chosen by the people of the district by majorities, respectively, over 600 and 900, where at the first election, in 1888, a democratic judge was chosen by the same people.

Ellis was never on the pay rolls of any railroad corporation, and so another falsehood is exploded. In fact it is hardly necessary to allude to this part of the partisan prattle, for it's too thin.

The Telegram had better look after its protégé, Jas. H. Slater. Some years ago, while living in Benton county, he was sent to the lower house of congress. He was there in the famous days of "the salary grab," "credit mobiler," and it is said, profited much thereby. How is it? He was afterwards elected U. S. senator, but he deserves no particular credit as a democrat, even if he did present the first bill for the locks at the Cascades, for congress was republican. As the Telegram considers a portage the proper means for the speedy opening of the river, and that to be put in by the general government, to keep up their policy, they should have condemned him for starting such a "dilly dallying scheme," which the Telegram says is being worked in the interest of the railroads.

Eastern Oregon has no representative in the halls of congress, so it is unjust to say what a man would do, if elected. The Gazette defies any person or newspaper to bring up the least thing against the character of Ellis; he is in the kind of material that don't mix up with dry science, and as far as records go, he's "out of sight" as compared with Sen. Slater.

A SELF-MADE MAN.

W. F. Butcher is another "self-made" man. He has fought his own battle through life so far, and won the prominent position he now occupies by his own merit, and his own honest, self-reliant efforts. He is a native of Greenbriar county, West Virginia, and was left an orphan while yet a child. Like so many others he worked his way West, and, while studying law as an opportunity offered, he taught school in Idaho, Eastern Oregon and Eastern Washington, and when he failed to find a chance to do that he went out as a common laborer on the railroad then being built through the West. Being at last admitted to practice law, he opened a little office in Athena, Union county, and his ability soon brought him clients, friends and revenue. Two or three years ago he removed to Baker City, where he had a larger field. He is, without doubt, the ablest and best campaign speaker in Eastern Oregon, and will be a tower of strength to the ticket. He not only can prevent democratic doctrine ably and forcibly, but he has a host of personal friends, republicans as well as democrats, all the way from Portland to Huntington. His nomination was a wise one—Portland Telegram.

Mr. Butcher, W. R. Ellis and the editor of the Gazette were brother school-teachers in the then territory of Washington, some years ago, and though "Butch" was the only democrat of the trio, it cut no figure whatever in their mutual friendship, nor does it to this day. Mr. Butcher is worthy of the honors heaped upon him.

HEPPNER HONORED.

Henry Blackman, one of the Eastern Oregon delegates to the national convention, is one of the largest and most successful merchants in that part of the state. For many years he has been the leading merchant of Heppner, in Morrow county. In 1880 he was elected to the state senate from Morrow, Grant and Harney counties, a close district, politically, after a hard and exciting canvass. His nomination was a deserved tribute to a man of influence and worth.—Telegram.

Mr. Blackman's many friends congratulate him on being selected to represent this part of Eastern Oregon at the national gathering of "the faithful." Heppner is much honored this year, furnishing a candidate for congress as well as a national delegate. When home pride appeals to us, we lose sight of politics to some extent, and it is well we should.

As an evidence of Mr. Blackman's popularity, he received the top vote for delegate, 219. Blackman is one of Morrow county's foremost men and hard-working politicians.

THE BEST ROUTE.

The Heppner Gazette says: It is said that a railroad can be built across the tablelands, back from the Columbia, between The Dalles and Celilo. If such is the case, it certainly adds another feature to the open river question, and places it in the power of the state to put in its own portage. It would have no interference from the Union Pacific, because the portage right-of-way would be for from the U. P.'s tracks.

The Gazette's information is correct. The line referred to was surveyed by a competent engineer last summer and it

Why Dr. Price's Baking Powder is Superior to all others.

No great efforts are made by other manufacturers to procure and use pure materials.

It is true that one other company has the facilities, but its greed and cupidity induced it in an evil hour to use ammonia, in order to swell its profits. Hence the Price Baking Powder Company stands alone in its fight for a pure baking powder.

No other article of human food receives greater care in its production, or has attained higher perfection. Dr. Price's Cream is surely a perfect baking powder. Free from every taint of impurity. No other article used in the kitchen has so many steadfast friends among the housewives of America.

was pronounced entirely feasible and practicable by two experts from Portland, who viewed it at the request of the Portland chamber of commerce. Moreover these experts roughly estimated the cost of construction at an amount considerably less than that of the government estimate for a road on the Washington side. It is fully expected that other careful surveys and estimates will be made before the meeting of the next legislature, so that our representatives may go before that body armed with facts and figures to show precisely what can be done, and how large an appropriation will be required. If the estimates already made are nearly correct, a road can be built and equipped across the tablelands referred to by the Gazette for less than the amount called for in the Halsey bill.—The Dalles Chronicle.

FROM WASHINGTON.

A member of our force is in receipt of a letter from J. L. Singer, of Walla Walla, formerly an attaché of the Gazette, who, by the way, is one of the best writers in the Northwest. In reference to Ellis and his candidacy, he says: "I was really pleased to see that Mr. Ellis made the rifle at the convention, as well as I hope and believe he will at the polls in June. Please tell him of the gratification I feel for his success in the past and hope for the future, for I know that he will honorably bear the banner inscribed with the interests of his country, and especially the whole people of Eastern Oregon, upon all occasions proper and necessary. It was a grand victory for Morrow county, of which its people should be proud, and by their votes in June show their appreciation of the honor granted to Morrow county in selecting one of its citizens as the standard bearer of the interests of the people of Eastern Oregon. I have confidence in the intelligence of the people of Oregon, that they cannot believe that the interests of the state lie in free wool, so long as its hills and valleys teem with the shepherd's flocks. And surely those who think with me will be found rallying to the support of W. R. Ellis, whose labors and vote will be protection for all home products, whether on the sheep's back or in the loom."

If you have ordered extra copies, let us know where you want them sent. They are here subject to your order.

In this issue, we present the republican and democratic tickets. The Gazette would be pleased to publish the alliance ticket when authorized to do so.

The farmers of Morrow county should organize a Farmer's Institute for the discussion of the various methods of farming, fruit raising, etc. That kind of organization is conducive of good results.

The nomination of Hon. W. R. Ellis for congress seems to be perfectly satisfactory to all in the interior of the second district. While Mr. Ellis is a republican, he will get numerous democratic votes.—Eagle.

Some of our down county exchanges are speaking of Mr. Ellis as "Congressman-elect Ellis." Better catch your rabbit before you cook him, boys, for dead rats sometimes crawl.—Milton Eagle. This is one of the exceptions.

Last Friday's issue of the Gazette contained a full account of the alliance convention. If we were running a weekly instead of a semi-weekly, an account of that important event would not have appeared till next Thursday. So much for the new paper.

Among the Morrow county men who have been honored this year, we might mention Hon. Wm. Hughes, who was chosen by the recent democratic state convention as a candidate for member of the state board of equalization. Mr. Hughes is at present a member of that board, serving acceptably as an appointed under Governor Penoyer.

The Dalles Chronicle advocates the building of a portage, by the state, between The Dalles and Celilo. Inasmuch as a good route has been surveyed, one which does not interfere with the Union Pacific tracks, it is a better plan than to wait the action of the general government in this matter. In time it can put in something more substantial. The Gazette was not aware until recently that there was a feasible route on the Oregon side, but since there is, let our state come to the relief of Eastern Oregon.

LET Heppner's mayor call a mass meeting in the near future for the purpose of organizing a board of trade at Heppner. Once organized, that body could call a convention consisting of two delegates from each precinct in the county, chosen by the people of their respective precincts, together with two representatives from our local board of trade, for the purpose of forming a board of immigration. Morrow county's interests could be mutually looked after. We have room for industrious farmers, and should have united effort in bringing this section to the notice of the outside world. When intending settlers arrive there should be a committee to see that they are located. This cannot be done unless organization is perfected.

LOST HIS VOICE.

How Electricity Restored It—An Employee of "The Oregonian" the Happy Man.

PORTLAND, Or., Apr. 26, 1892. Dr. Darrin—Dear Sir: In January last I was taken sick with a gripper, which caused paralysis of the vocal organs. More than two months I was unable to speak but little above a whisper, and that with much difficulty. I could get no relief until I received your electric treatment a few days since. From the time of your first treatment I have improved every day, and am now able to talk with ease. Sincerely yours, GEO. H. BERGER.

Mr. Berger, well and favorably known in this city, has been for several years collector for "The Morning Oregonian," and can be interviewed at any time at his residence 120 1/2 Jefferson street, or at The Oregonian office. The cure is certainly a very remarkable one, and only goes to show the superiority of electricity over other remedies in the cure of chronic and acute diseases. Dr. Darrin is certainly proving himself famous, as the many cures we are called on to publish from week to week testify. Five years ago Dr. Darrin opened an office in Portland, and it is safe to say he has treated more patients and cured more cases in that time than any five physicians in the city. The reason is this: He treats the poor free, and through their influence the rich apply to him, until now, his patronage is amongst the highest in our community. The doctor can be found at 70 1/2 Washington street, Portland, from 10 to 5 o'clock daily, where he gives free consultations, and where he finds cases incurable, he frankly tells them, thus saving the patient time and money. His treatment is mainly by electricity, though he gives medicines and performs surgical operations whenever necessary.

The opening of the school house bids have been deferred till Thursday at 2 o'clock, p. m.

Dr. Blalock has put out a fine orchard at Blalock Station, on the main line, pumping up water from the Columbia for irrigation.

Billy Barretts, of the firm of Barretts & Hynd, of Sand Hollow, reports today that they have raised 105 per cent of lambs. How's that?

A WARNING—Don't Use Big Words.

In promulgating eulogistic cogitations or articulating superficial sentimentalities and philosophical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous prolixity. Let your statements possess a clarified conciseness, compactness, comprehensibility, unobscured consistency and a concentrated cogency. Eschew all conglomeration of flatulent generalities, jejune babblement and stilted affectations. In trying to impress upon others the superiority of the Wisconsin Central Lines, and why you and so many others use this thoroughfare from St. Paul and Minneapolis and Duluth and Ashland to Milwaukee, Chicago and points east and south, it is not necessary to use jaw-breakers. Let your extemporaneous descantings and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility and veracity vivacity, without rhodomontade or thrasonic bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabic prolixity, piteousness, vacuity, ventriloquial verbosity and volubulent vapidity, shun double entendres, present jocosity and pedestrian profanity, obscenity or apparent. In other words talk plainly, naturally, sensibly and truthfully say the Wisconsin Central Lines is the route, and that ends it. 4637.
