Does Oregon Want an Attorney General Whose Opinion Isn't Right Balf the Time?

Any man who in this broad land of ours offers his name for public prefer-ment invites that investigation into his which the lowliest citizen has the sovereign right to make. If the candidate has before been honored by public office, high or low, and has a consciousness of having faithfully discharged the trust, he will not object to an examination of the record he has made. Upon this record he invites his fellow citizens to judge him and by it he must stand or feel with the record that their attention, are kept with an array of witnesses, day after day, with all the consequent expense and loss to farm and

L. R. Webster, judge of the First judicial district of Oregon, is a candidate upon the Republican ticket for the high and responsible position of attorney general. The people of this state are en-titled to know whether as a lawyer he is qualified to become the legal adviser of this great commonwealth. We have no better or other source from which to obtain this information than from the rec-ord he has made for himself, and to a very brief glance at this record the reader is invited.

Toward the close of the year 1883 the office of district judge of the First judicial district became vacant by the resignation of Hon. H. K. Harma, who was then the able incumbent. A Re-publican governor then presided over the state, and no available Republican lawyer was found willing to accept the position. L. R. Webster, Esq., was at that time clerking in one of the dry goods houses at Jacksonville. He claimed to have studied law and had just been admitted to the bar. He was young man of pleasant manner, reasonably good education, poor in purse, married and ambitions. The people of Jackson county thought of him as a worthy subject and recommended him for the place. The governor made the appointment, and though very young and without experience in the law, he began the tasks imposed with commenda ble zeal and appropriate modesty. For a time the good people of this district felt that they had bestowed this great honor upon a worthy person and were competent mechanics, we nclined to view his mistakes with com be sorely disappointed as the sequel will show. At the first general election he Board of Directors of School District No. was elected to fill the unexpired term of two years, at the end of which being still on probation, he was again nomina-ted and elected because of the weakness of his opponent and the good natured indulgence of the public to whom, up to this time he had displayed a reasonable sense of that chiefest of all virtues, gratitude. After this election he settled himself back in his judicial seat with an air that bespoke a sense of security for the coming six years and gave growing evidence of a forgetfulness of the lowly station from which he had been lifted whom he owed his good fortune.

He soon discarded those little virtues that had attracted friends to him, and apparently with premeditation withdrew himself from the kind offices and recognition of those who so aided him. in the days of his need. A stiff bow and an air of superiority usurped the place where was before a frank and hearty salutation. His friends have with vexation often remarked this foolish young man's unmistakable notion that all be-low him are of "the common herd" and that he views them from a lofty station. This is no picture for campaign purpose but a truth that can be vouched for by two-thirds of the people of Jackson county, who as American citizeus regardless of party will rebuke such as-sumption by an exercise of their sovereign wills at the ballot box.

Such conduct will suggest to any thinking person an intellectual shallowness inconsistent with the idea of a sound and lofty legal mind, and the record will verify this conclusion. To prove this a reference to the Oregon supreme court reports shows that since Judge Webster has been on the bench in this district, out of fifty-four cases decided by him and appealed to the supreme court, twenty-three have been reversed, five modified and twenty-six affirmed. Less than one-half of his cases have been af-

No comment is needed. No lawyer who is mistaken more than half his time is a fit person to be the legal adviser of a whole state. But this is not all. The complaint is almost universal among the people of this county, regardless of party, that his administration as circuit judge has entailed a large and useless expense, as the records will also show,

The records show that for the fiscal year ending July, 1885, the cost of running the circuit court in Jackson county alone, exclusive of the sheriff's and clerk's fees for the same time was twelve thousand two hundred and twenty dollars and sixty-six cents ($12,220.66); the clerk's fees incurred in circuit court business for the same time was $831.55, and the sheriff's fees about the same, making a total of about $14,000 for that one year alone. The next year it reached over $7,000, the next about $7,000 and the following year it approximated $6,-000, making a sum total of $28,000; and this does not include the salary of $3,000 a year paid by the state to the judge. As near as can be obtained from the record the aggregate cost of the same court for the past four years not including the judge's salary has been approximately $16,000, an average of four thousand dollars a year. Assuming $4,-000 to be a reasonable average cost per year, we have the modest sum of $12,000 paid by Jackson county alone for the privilege of educating this promising young man to that standard of legal ability that has enabled him to get almost one half of his cases affirmed by the supreme court and to make him eligible for the new and important trust of legal adviser of the whole state.

It must not be forgotten that we are only presenting the figures for Jackso county alone and that during all this time Judge Webster's jurisdiction has extended over three other counties which it may be reasonably inferred have suffered from like causes.

Aside from the expenses above re-ferred to, and which sound in taxes upon the people, a still heavier ex-pense has been incurred by litigants in civil suits and actions arising from unnecessary delays that could and would have been avoided by an expeditious judge. It is a well known fact that the court in Jackson county grinds OVER HALF HIS DECISIONS HAVE with an exasperating slowness and that cases argued and taken under advise-ment are sometimes held until forgotten, and it is confidently believed that many reversals might have been avoided if prompt decision of these cases had been given while arguments and citations were fresh in the minds of the court.

The number of judicial days of the court for Jackson county from and in-clusive of 1886 to the present time were days for each year, and the average number of hours during which the court was in session would not exceed five consequent expense and loss to farm and business hanging upon the sweet will and pleasure of this man who has grown so great upon their gift, who has forgotten gratitude, but asks them to raise him a little higher in June next. It is hardly to be doubted that they will remember Bobbie Burns and may justly say to him:

The rank is but the guines stamp; The man's the gowd for a' that.

Will the people of this state think it to their interest to elect a man to so high a position requiring the highest legal ability, whose record is as stated above? It is not believed that they will, and all who read this are requested to watch the returns after June the 6th next and he will see that the sentiments of Democrats and Republicans are alike expressed.

Judge Webster is not the choice of the Republican party of southern Oregon, and the declarations made in his behalf at the state convention where he was nominated are not indersed by one half of the Republicans of Jackson county where he has lived for ten years.

Voters, it is your duty as self respecting, free American citizens, to go to the polls on June 6 and cast a ballot against Lionel R. Webster. Relegate him to the obscurity he deserves.

SATISFACTORY SETTLEMENT.

This is to certify that, after having our loss of school house carefully figured by competent mechanics, we made satisfac-tory settlement with the State Insurance inclined to view his mistakes with complaints of the State Insurance plateency, feeling that time would fill out his qualification by that experience which must make up the finishing part of every man's education.

In this, however, the people were to be sorely disappointed as the secret will over the property of the
