A YEAR OF RECIPROCITY.

When the practical statesmanship of James G. Blaine proposed the policy of reciprocity with the Latin-American republics, as the most politic measure for extending the trade of the United States, it met the approval of the thinking minds of both political parties, since it offered opportunities for an exchange of products upon an equitable basis with nations to which North Americans had long looked for such a consummation,

Ever since the fostered manufactures of the United States have grown into comparative importance with those of European nations and even excelled the foreign producer in many lines, in quality and practical utility, the educated, progressive American has looked forward to a time when the product of his looms and workshops would come into requisition by his less ingenious and utilitarian Latin-American neighbors. History and nature have taught the lesson that contiguous nations should be closely allied in trade. The dilatory progress of the Latin republics in the arts and sciences has, to the present time, made of them bucolic peoples, whose commodities of exchange have been confined to raw materials. These they naturally bartered with European manufacturers so long as the American manufactured product was of an inferior make. But CROWN the time has long since passed when this could truthfully be said. Still the Central and South American nations are buying most of their merchandise in Europe, for these reasons; that the prestige of established business relations is always slow to be transferred; that the United States has no bank exchange with the southern republics and that, to the time of the adoption of the reciprocity clause of the McKinley act, Latin-American products were discriminated against by tariff taxes. Another reason was, that the carrying trade of South America was confined almost wholly to foreign bottoms. Our democratic friends who covertly admire and approve the reciprocity doctrine, while unwilling to concede its statesmanlike sagacity to the republicans, adopt a dog-in-the-manger attitude toward it and brand it a compromise with free trade. But they lose sight of this important distinction that, whereas, free trade permits an open market and unrestricted competition with foreign nations, the limitations imposed the morning dispatches of floods in Daby our reciprocity treaties are, that the kota, Kansas, Illinois or Ohio, for it products exchanged must be such as do not enter into competition with simply meant that add their volume to the our home industry and, in return for swoolen river and pass the spot where we such free access to our markets, equivalent privileges must be granted to the sale of our manufactured goods in the countries agreeing to said treaty.

Above diagram was drawn and verified in all its details, by Prof. Peter Collier, who is pre-eminent as a Chemiat, and Scientist. The illustration is made in accordance with his chemical tests of each brainl enumerated.

The Carbonic acid gas was calculated to get the leavening strength and the quantative analysis to ascertain the comparative wholescemeness, purity, and general usefulness of the leading Powders. The result of Prof. Collier's examination and test, reveals the fact, that, with but one exception, every brainly tested contained either Ammonia or Alum, and a number both.

Not one woman in ten thousand would use an Ammonia or Alum Baking Powder if she knew it. Such Powders not only undermine the health, but autuonia imparts a sallow or blotched complexion.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES

Chief Samuels of the Horticultural department has already received donations of plants and flowers for the Exposition valued at more than $50,000. All preparations for the care of tender plants have been made, and large consignments are expected soon from tropical countries-

The World's Fair authorities have decided to bear the expense of transportation of such works of American artists abroad as may be offered for exhibition at the Exposition, and are accepted as exhibits. This action was taken with a view of securing as complete and representative a collection as possible from American artists.

George Wilson, secretary of the World's Fair bureau of music, has returned from a two months' tour of Europe in the interests of the bureau. He visited leading musicians at London, Paris, Munich, e Milan, Genoa, Rome, Vienna, Prague, Dresden, Brussels and a number of other places. Mr. Wilson received assurances from musicians in all these places of cordial co-operation at the Fair.

Exhibits from the Pacific coast states for the World's Fair will be charged only | Cregor half regular freight rates each way. The Transcontinental Association has made a decision recently to that effect. Full tariff on the forward journey and free reiff on the forward journey and free return are the best terms thus far offered by the other great traffic associations. California's exhibit will be fruits largely, and will not be returned, hence, it was deemed reasonable that a reduction should be made on the forward journey.
