VALUABLE RELICS.

Capt. A. J. Coffey, city electrician of Portland, has in his possession several valuable and highly prized souvenirs, which have been in his family for years. One of these is a sword which was bequeathed to Mr. Coffey's father, who was a grand nephew of General Jackson, and two autograph letters from General Jackson to Captain A. J. Coffey, Sr. Besides these two relics, there is an old fashioned and quaint bracelet made of human hair. The clasp of the bracelet are of gold, of plain but unique workmanship. In one of the clasps is a small elliptical-shaped hollow covered with glass. Inside of this narrow space is a lock of General Jackson's hair, which can be seen very plainly through the glass. The sword, when presented in New Orleans by the company of Captain Beal, was a remarkable and costly piece of workmanship. Its value at that time was $3000, which, it is estimated, would be less than had its actual cost at the present time. It was the style known as the Roman sword, with a perfectly straight blade and scabbard. The handle then was surmounted with a large oak's head, composed, as was the handle, of solid gold. Two large diamonds represented the eyes. The arms of the various states were wrought upon the cross piece and allegorical sketches representing the various battles participated in by the general were engraved on the handle. The steel composing the blade is of the finest quality. Captain Coffey is very proud of these relics and regards them of priceless value.

The Fremont Saturday Review is a new weekly paper, of which A. B. Ernst is editor and proprietor. It is well printed, well edited and has for its motto: "Fremont First—the World Afterward—Heaven Next."

In this issue of the Gazette appears a letter from one of our alumnus friends. As it is headed "Letter L," we judge we shall hear from him again. We assure Mr. Nasby that the Gazette is not so narrow-minded but what it will give representation to all, so that it will give assurance that all your letters will be published.

A VERY interesting program has been arranged by the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., which meets in Portland next month from the 17th to the 23rd inclusive. Among the special features might be mentioned the excursion to the mouth of the Columbia, the grand parade, complimentary entertainment at the Marquand Grand opera house, where the novel melo drama "The Esquimaux" will be presented, recitation at the Portland Lancers the visiting ladies by the Daughters of Rebekah, Past Grand Representatives' reunion, excursion by rail through the Willamette Valley, competitive drill, Odd Fellows' evening at the Exposition, local excursions, carriage drives, etc. Altogether the program is a very interesting one, especially to Odd Fellows. Preparations are being made to entertain a very large crowd during the session.

FREDERICK ZORN HANGED.

The Condemned Man Dies Upon the Scaffold for His Crime.

PENDLETON, Or., Aug. 19.—Frederick Zorn has answered with his life for the crime he committed, and the laws of man are satisfied. The execution took place in Pendleton at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and was prompt and thorough in every detail.

In October of last year Zorn committed the crime for which he died. The particulars are familiar to every one, and there is no need for anything but a brief review of the tragedy. He shot his wife from whom he had been separated in the breast, his mother-in-law in the shoulder and himself in the mouth. His wife died from her wound in thirty days. His mother-in-law lived for a few months, dying from old age and the effects of the bullet. Zorn had for some time been drinking heavily, and was greatly under the influence of liquor at the time. He was tried and convicted, the supreme court sustained the decree of death, the governor would not interfere, and he has now followed his victims to the grave.

Promptly at 2 o'clock Zorn was led forth from the jail. He was allowed to bid good-bye to Mrs. J. H. Staid of Walla Walla (by telephone), and conversed with her in German. "Tell her good-bye, Fred," said the sheriff, shortly after the well-choked knelt the hour of death.

Zorn was handcuffed while being taken down the basement stairs, but the handcuffs were then removed. He stepped firmly and never faltered.

He was seated free on the platform, and Sheriff Furnish read the death warrant in a clear voice. The sheriff asked Zorn if he had anything to say. The reply was "No; I bid you all good-bye. I hope we may meet some time in a better place." The officers near them shook hands with him, and he turned to the sheriff with the remark: "I am well-satisfied with your treatment." His hands were then fastened behind him, straps placed around his body, knees and ankles and the noise adjourned. As Sheriff Furnish was tightening the straps Zorn said to him in a low voice, but without a tremor, "Well little, this is a pretty tough way to die, isn't it?" The black cap was then placed upon his head, covering his face. Immediately afterward he was heard to murmur some indistinct words to the effect that he gave his soul to Jesus. At 2:11 Sheriff Furnish said, "Frederick Zorn, prepare to meet your God," the lever was pulled by some one stationed in an adjoining room, and the body shot downward. Zorn died without a struggle, not even a quiver of the limbs being perceptible.

The fall was six feet. The trap fell at 2:11 o'clock. Drs. Vincent and Gayton, the official physicians, assisted by other physicians present, timed the pulse. For nine minutes the pulse could be counted, then it became imperceptible, and after a few seconds Frederick Zorn was pronounced dead. The body was cut down and turned over to the undertakers. It will be shipped to friends at Walla Walla.

The twelve witnesses signed the certificate of execution, and the tragedy was complete. Zorn had said he would meet his death bravely, and he kept his word. He was cool and game to the last. Even while standing with the noose around his neck, there was a smile upon his face.

OBITUARY.

Died August 11th 1892, at Eight M'ile, at the residence of his parents, Marion H., son of Henry E. and Mary L. Warren, aged 23 years, 9 months and 17 days, of consumption, after an illness of seven months. Medical skill, careful nursing, everything was done for his comfort that could be done, but the ravages of the disease could not be arrested. Marion had many friends, his face will be seen no more among them; his place is vacant at home, at Sabbath school and at church. Many of his associates will remember him as a lively boy, always full of fun when in health, and that was not long ago, his death was caused by quick consumption. It was a great comfort to his parents that he was able to get home. He took sick in Washington, and his father brought him home. There he was nursed by loving parents, brothers and sisters. Some of the family were in Washington and could not reach home in time for the funeral. Marion did not realize that death was so near. When spoken to on the subject, he always said he would soon regain his strength, and then he would get well. Any one acquainted with the disease, (consumption) would not be surprised at his belief, as it is a flattering disease. But on the morning of Aug. 11th, at 4 o'clock a. m., death claimed him.

For death is unfeeling of age, time or place, Greatly feeding On sweetest and grace; Momentarily weeping His soul he here and there, Heedless of weeping And waiting and prayer. Oh, while to us life's warm daylight is given, May we have endless sunshine in heaven.

His mother is a delicate lady, has been in poor health for years, and is scarcely able to bear up under this heavy affliction, but she knows in whom she trusts for salvation, and the God she trusts in will not leave her or forsake her in this great trial. It is a comfort to know that she was able to administer to his wants in his last days.

He was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery, (the Odd Fellows) which situation is so beautiful, and looks so quiet, and is so suggestive of rest that one can scarcely visit it without saying, "How appropriate." The funeral was largely attended. The parents, brothers and sisters and relatives of the deceased, have the sympathy of the entire community. May this affliction be the means of drawing them nearer to their Saviour's side. "In the midst of life we are in death."

Friend after friend departs; Who has not lost a friend? There is no consolation here of hearts That break not here an end. We wish that world our only rest, Laying or dying, none were blest. There is a world above, Where parting is unknown, A whole eternity of love, Around God a heavenly throne; And faith is God's abode in here, And then transmits us to that happy sphere.

Mr. Editor:—As we have not seen any thing from this part of the country we will try and keep things a "stirren" (that is we people's men, women and children.) We want to keep all of our people posted on all the political issues of the day. "We are the people, and the people must be respected." Our motto is, "equal rights to all, and special privileges to none." I think the political outlook for us is favorable this fall, but we that we wuz all rite away down in Alabama in the state election, and we wuz until the election, but after the election we wuz all rite. And the old democrats came out about 25,000. But next November we will carry about 10 or a dozen states. In Kansas we have already fussed with democrats, and we are going to fuse in every other state that we kin so as to beat the 'publicans. We think that we will get a workin' majority in congress this winter (that is what our teachers tel us and we believe every word they say). And this fall when we carry Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, California, North and South Dakota and Arizona, there is others that will think so too. Brother Bryant made a good speech in the Gazette man, an' give him a good settin' down about the way his an' his party was a "doin'", an' the way that the 'publicans party upholds the Pinks in shootin' the labor union men; we have a rite to our own wages an' we will compel the manufacturers to give us such wages as we say, they must.

Yours respectfully, V. NASHBY.

HATTEE'S CONGO OIL.

Marvelous Cures Effected by its Use.

THIS wonderful medicine is the wonder of the nineteenth century, effecting a cure when all other remedies fail. It is distilled from plants growing upon the banks of the Congo River, in South Africa. The first knowledge we possess of this wonderful oil is found in some of the writings of Covilham, a Portuguese navigator and African explorer, who was sent out by the King of Abyssinia about the year 1488. He speaks of a wonderful penetrating oil that was in use by the Zimbos, a remnant of a once powerful African nation, and in some recent explorations found upon some ruins in a very ancient city called Zimboe (meaning a royal house,) more evidence has been produced of this wonderful oil, or rather of the plants from which it is distilled, thus proving conclusively that the secret was secretly guarded by these ancient inhabitants of the Dark Continent. As the world has progressed more explorations have been made into Equatorial Africa, and suffering humanity has been greatly benefited, as well as medical science being advanced by the rediscovery of this wonderful Congo Oil. It was first brought into civilized Europe by a member of the expedition sent out from London in 1853, under the command of Captain Speke, whose explorations reached far up the Congo River. The secret of its production was jealously guarded until upon the death of the party in whose possession it was, when it was given to a party named Hattie, who formed a company, known as the Congo Oil Company, having its headquarters at Zanzibar, South Africa, with a branch in New York City, and thus placing upon the market this most wonderful of all remedies. By its use all pain disappears, but it is particularly recommended in Sciatica, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, &c. It is wonderfully penetrating, and to use it once is to become a friend to it always. By its use, thousands who are suffering can be relieved. It is the cheapest because it is the best, and one bottle of it will go further than a dozen of the many so-called cures for these ills. It is purely for external use. Full and explicit directions are printed on each bottle. If you are afflicted, try a bottle; and before you have used it your aches and pains will disappear, and there will be no more use for crutches or canes. It is for sale by all druggists and dealers in patent medicines, or can be supplied by the undersigned, who are the sole Pacific Coast Agents for this wonderful oil.
