FIGHTING INSECT AND FUNGL Let Those New Spray Who Nover Sprayed

Insecticides are of two kinds. The arsenites are for insects that sting the fruit and devour follage. Paris green or London purple is used for these. One pound to 250 gailons of water, applied just after the bloom has dropped: then once or twice thereafter, ten days apart. For the suctorial insects, those that represent the aphides or plant lice, emul-sions are used, made of a quarter of a pound hard soap or whale oil soap. 1 pint kerosene, 2 quarts of hot water, 1 part and sprayed as soon as the first broods appear Fungicides are used for fungus attacks, such as mildews, rots, scab, etc. The two principal mixtures used are the Bordeaux mixture and ammoniacal solutions. The Bordeaux mixture, made applied to grapes early in the season. The ammoniacal solution is made by This is effective for grape rot and apple and pear scab, and leaves no coloring upon the fruit: to be applied once before any foliage appears, then after foliage is out and fruit is formed three to six times, according to the SEHNOD. The Vermorel nozzles are the best.
