When to Caponize,

George Q. Dow, North Epping, N. H., n a letter to the New York World says: A great many persons seem to have deliberate judgment of the American the impression that there is a certain people. time to caponize, that they are obliged cork of caponizing is not confined to my time or its successful operation to good results will follow. They may be caponized in midwinter and do all right, But although defeated, we is given them. Of course it naturally happens, happens that more birds are caponized For its ach would go through the winter and make summer layers, and the cookerels could be caponized and sent to market in the summer, when the markets are sare of them and only hens can be found, and by so doing the growers could get a big price for their capons. If the question, "When to caponize," refers to what size the bird should be, the answer would be about the same. A cockerel can be exponized at any time, but best results are obtained when caponized young-before getting their growth-as with everything else. If it s convenient and I am not too busy at something else, I like to canonize when the birds weigh from 11; to 2 pounds, but a person need not feel that he is confined to doing the work at any particular moment. Sometimes I do not get at work on my birds for a mouth after 1 planned to, but generally a person can arrange to do the work when they are about the weight named. It requires but two or three minutes to do it, and one can caponize many birds in a few hours with the improved tools to be had now, and by so doing will realize twice and three times the money for his birds.

Good Roads to the South. The southern road congress, which met lately at Atlanta, brought out the fact of the value of good roads, and the pecuniary advantage of them was fully recognized. Among the cases cited was the experiment made in building good roads by the people of Union and Essex counties, N. J. The pecuniary benefits resulting from this work are Babbs, is now out goose hunting. When summed up in a report from the board of freehhiders of the former county, which states that the total outlay has been nearly $350,000, and there are now nearly forty miles of telford and macad am road in the county. The beneficial effect of the roads is far more than the cost of the roads, as the assessment shows. The county when the first anvil was fired, an enthous served $250,000 worth of road bands that issned $350,000 worth of road bonds, the interest on which must be met annually, remarked, "This signifies the downfall o yet there has been no increase in the republicanism. 'Alss poor Yoris!' 'To be county tax rate, because the increased or not to be'.'' 'Tis a shame this old fool assessment easily produces enough revenue to meet this charge. Very few of these roads have been built more than a alloring business, he has added a fire ine of underwear of all kinds, negliges months, but already the people appre ciate the advantages flowing from them. Such practical evidence as this will certainly encourage roadbuilding in the south. The movement so far has made little practical advance here and J. A. It is a safe rule to let well slone. This country, from an industrial point of view, has been doing exceedingly well. People from all parts of the world have been coming here to better their con dition, but no one ever goes from here to Mr. Carman has crossed wheat and any other country to improve his con-
