BURDENED WITH RIDERS.

On the 24th inst., Harter of Ohio introduced in the house a bill for the free coinage of silver and gold at the present ratio on equal terms. It provides that after its passage the purchase of silver bullion by the government shall cease, and the mints be opened to coinage of both metals on the same terms as prior to 1873, provided, however, that all silver and gold coin minted thereafter for account of owners shall not have a legal tender function, and instead of being stamped "one dollar," "five dollars," etc., shall be stamped "ten dimes," "fifty dimes," etc.; the legal tender function of gold and silver coin already coined or hereafter coined for account of the United States to continue a legal tender. Laws in conflict with this are to be repealed. It seems that a free coinage proposition cannot be brought before congress unless burdened with "riders." While this is better than the present laws on the subject, private holdings in gold and silver should have equal recognition with that belonging to the government. Unlimited free coinage, of our American product at least, is what the people are demanding.

One of the impressive scenes of the 17th general assembly was the eloquent plea by Brown, of Morrow, for the Eastern Oregon Insane Asylum. It was Senator Matlock's bill, carrying $165,000 for an institution, to be located not over three miles from a railroad, and to be constructed within eighteen months. A Portland member had opposed the bill in a scathing manner, after speeches against it by Geer and Ford, of Marion, and it was very doubtful whether it could be passed. Brown, of Morrow, was on his feet in a moment, and made the greatest ten-minute speech of the session, carrying the measure by storm and winning a hearty round of applause from a house that only on rare occasions ever showed such signs of approval. His speech was not a plea for any locality but for all Eastern Oregon. Still more, it was a strong and heartfelt appeal in the name of suffering humanity, and it had a marked effect upon the members and the galleries.—Journal.

SENATOR COGSWELL'S brand bill is now a law. Its most radical provision, to which Senator Huston objected, is that no evidence of ownership by brand shall be permitted unless the brand has been duly recorded with the county clerk. The brand must be burned on a piece of leather, and this filed, giving the owner the exclusive right to such brand. It must not have been previously recorded, but if two should now apply with the same brand, the one who first used it is to have it. Earmarks are also provided for. In equity or criminal trials recorded brands are prima facie evidence of ownership. The clerk's fees are the same as those for filing chattel mortgages.

AN EXCHANGE says that recently a schoolmar in the backwoods district was teaching a spelling class. When the word "husband" was put on the blackboard none of the children could pronounce it, and in order to help them out the teacher asked: "What would I have if I should get married?" The answer was prompt but not what she expected; and she blushed such a brilliant red that the sunlight paled.

GOWAN'S artisan well bill has become a law, and several counties of the state will profit thereby. Each and every county in the state having a township of desert land is entitled to the state appropriation. Grant county can hardly make this showing.—Eagle. The bill passed, but Gov. Penney set the mark of disapproval on it by vetoing it, along with six other measures, after the close of the session.

THE Rocky Mountain News, one of silver's greatest champions, says: Silver at $1.29 means wheat at $1.25, cotton at 10 cents and a boom of business prosperity all over the South and West. And it might have added the North and East. Every part of the business world will show the effects of judicious silver legislation.

THE salary bill, which passed the Oregon legislature and is now a law, will give our sheriff and clerk each $2,400 a year, the county paying for the deputy hire. This does not apply to the terms of present officials, but they would certainly be pleased if it did. Take the state over, it will not work any saving over the present arrangement.

THE personnel of Cleveland's cabinet is as follows: Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana, secretary of state; John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, secretary of the treasury; Daniel S. Lamont, of New York, secretary of war; Hoke Smith, of Georgia, secretary of the interior; Hilary A. Herbert, of Alabama, secretary of the navy. J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, secretary of agriculture. Richard Olney, of Massachusetts, attorney-general; Wilson S. Bissell, of New York, postmaster general.

IN A recent issue of the Statesman, the following compliment was paid: On questions of general interest the main speakers were Ford, Brown of Morrow, Northrup, and Paxton, all lawyers and men of ability, but their speeches, assid before, were short, not exceeding ten minutes.

THE populists of Kansas are in favor of moving the state capital from Topeka to Kanopolis, a boom town in the western part of the state. They say that they have not received fair treatment at the hands of the Topeka people.

GOVERNOR PENNEY has appointed M. G. Mundy for commission No. 3, original court, and H. Heooby for the law department No. 4.

BYBROOK, of the 3rd congressional district of Calif., will have his seat contested by English. There was only 24 votes difference.

SOMETHING NEW. A Tacoma Paper Handles The Truth Rather Hecklessly, or Knows More Than The Oldest Dentist of Morrow County.

Speaking of Cal Hale, in its issue of Jan. 31, the Tacoma Ledger says: "The defendant is a resident of Gilliam county, Oregon, and is alleged to be a member of a band of cattle thieves who have long infested that region. There is a saloon at Arlington, which is known by all who are posted there to be the headquarters of the association. The members of the gang meet there from various sections of the country, and probably lay their plans there. But for that matter, no one in that section dare oppose them. When Congressman-elect Ellis was prosecuting attorney of the Sixth congressional district of Oregon, including Gilliam county, he once declared to the grand jury that he would not prosecute another indolent brought against the cattle thieves. He said it was no use because they were sure to be acquitted, no matter how convincing the evidence might be. In the first place, it is very hard to get a jury that will not vote one or more of the gang on it; the reputable jurors dare not convict them for fear of their lives or a destruction of their property. The stockmen once organized a protective association, but members of the gang gained admission and soon controlled it."

Not a person here believes anything of the sort. It is a scheme to break down the evidence of our people and to make a few dollars for some so-called detectives. When Cal Hale's case comes to trial again he will be discharged, or the Gazette will miss its guess. It is simply a case where the wrong bovine has been corralled by the horns.

DEATH OF THE "SPOKESMAN" From the Tacoma News. The Spokane Spokesman has called "thirty." After a long fight for life the Spokesman gives up the ghost and the Review takes possession of the corpse. There is always something of tragedy in such a death. A newspaper is a very human institution and it dies a human death. It has an individuality, a character and a following; it has friends and enemies, people who swear by it and people who curse it; it has done harm and has done good; it has been treated with ingratitude by politicians whom it has made a business man whom it has preserved from bankruptcy; it has followed faithfully to lines of policy which were opposed to its financial interest, and has been looked on with suspicion even when it sought to do something for the general good; it is more easily reached by friendship and more honestly independent of capital than most men—yet it is thought heartless and corrupt; it is forced to be partisan on questions which involve its very life and on which men of policy remain close as clams. It is forced to lose money for the sake of an unappreciative community; it enlarges and spreads when times are good and it dare not retract when retrenchment becomes necessary lest it injure the town; it often enlarges those who injure it and bears the embarrassment of burdensome friends; it is expected to have no feeling but duty and no desire but the prosperity of everybody else; if it thinks through its pocketbook, as men do, it is called dishonest; if it espouses an unpopular cause it is moved by some hidden and selfish motive, and if it refuses to do so it lacks courage; its life is one long fight, bitter, intense and fierce and no one can tell when it will die for no one can see when a more formidable antagonist will come upon the field.

During the past two years the Spokesman and Review sank $200,000 in their effort to give the people of Eastern Washington newspapers that were better than the country warranted. In January the expenses of the two papers, as stated by the Spokesman, exceeded their receipts by nearly $10,000. Consolidation became necessary, and Mr. Cowles, of the Spokesman, has taken a one-quarter interest in the Review, the Review Publishing Co. now consisting of Messrs. Scott and Pitcock, of Portland, A. M. Cannon, and W. H. Cowles, of Spokane. Thus ends the career of one of the brightest newspapers published in the Pacific Northwest.

FROM HARDMAN. Perhaps your readers would like to know what we are doing up in this part of the world. Well, some of us are sitting around just wishing some one would come along and give us a sound licking; such a licking as would fill us brim full of animation and enterprise; one that would place us on an equality with our more enterprising neighbors. But self-preservation cautions me to allow each individual to shrink back under the load of opprobrium herein manifested while I myself would take the burden from the shoulders of some, especially W. T. Shaw and Thomas Hoskins, who have for some time past been engaged in the manufacture of a pattern for a new self-feeder which is calculated to supercede the Byron & Jackson feeder. I do not think I am saying too much when I place W. T. Shaw at the head of the list of thrasher manipulators in Eastern Oregon. It was in his fertile brain the new feeder was first conceived, but by the skillful hand of Thos. Hoskins it has taken natural form and a patent will be applied for soon. The old-style feeders were good enough, but the tedious and uncertain method was superseded by the Byron-Jackson machine, which Mr. Hunt, of Walla Walla, is manufacturing; but for each one he has to pay a royalty of $125. This money, of course, is paid by the farmers, and leaves our country at once. Hence Mr. Hunt has urged Mr. Shaw to materialize his new idea and place the same in the market that he might purchase the same and stop this royalty business. We have to thank our mothers for starting the ball rolling, but W. T. Shaw brings up the rear in a manner quite creditable to himself and the country. C. B. HARDMAN, OR., Feb. 24, 1893.

SORE EAGLETS. Four or Long Creek Paper. P. S. Wilson is having a ferry boat constructed at the Monument crossing of the North Fork. J. S. Delevan, the stage proprietor, is in this vicinity this week looking after the interests of the line. Sen. Hamilton returned last week from Salem, where he has been in the interest of the new county. E. O. Woodall got back from Salem Sunday, where he has been a member of the third house during the session just closed. Ed. is of the opinion, as many others, that we are "duped" in great shape. Joe Swach and wife returned from Albany Wednesday after an absence of several weeks. Joe was one of the members of the third house of the legislature, and as one of a "well-dumped" constituency he has but a few words of praise for senator and representative. Those persons who made their bets that the county would be divided that there would be no division of Grant county, have won, and without further investigations, are entitled to their money. The Eagle would have gone flat broke if it had been in the habit of betting.

EIGHT MILE MATTERS. Everybody has been busy plowing and sowing their spring grain for the past four or five days. The program Friday night at the Junction school house was very interesting. Everyone should take part and make the year a grand success. The cunning little squirrel is with us again, ready to eat the grain down as soon as it gets tall enough. There ought to be steps taken to exterminate these animals. The rabbit hunt at Liberty proved to be quite a success. A point of scalps brought in on both sides, 222, Frank Vaughn's side bringing in the most, 133

S. Wright's side had 89, and they will put up for the supper next Thursday night. Rev. Sherrill has been preaching to a very large audience at Eight Mile Center school house. Everybody liked his preaching very well. His meeting closed last evening after preaching sixteen sermons. Mother earth was eroded once more last evening in her snowy white garment. The farago was wearing broad, smiling faces on account of having so much moisture this winter. The doleful ground owl is singing its nightly songs and the meadow-larks are doing their share in the day time, both causing the people to think that spring is here again. The warm weather last week made the grain grow very rapidly, and it shows very plain now, it not being frozen to hurt. Some of the trees are complaining of their fruit trees being killed by the hard freezing weather of last winter. DAN BERTLANDS. EIGHT MILE, OR., Feb. 27, 1893.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS. The M. Co. L. & T. Co. has mill feed for sale. The Studebaker wagon lends them all. For sale at Gilliam & Bibebe's. THE TOLEDO WEEKLY BLADE. The most popular and best known weekly newspaper printed in this country is the Toledo Blade. For more than twenty years it has had a circulation of 100,000 to 200,000, going regularly into every state and territory of the union. From fifteen to twenty-five tons of print paper is consumed in each week's edition, and is regularly mailed to more than half a million of the United States. It is a peculiar fact that the Blade is the only weekly newspaper published that has regular subscribers in all parts of the United States. It is edited with special reference to the wants of all people in the United States. It also makes a special reference to the wants of every member of the family. Besides all the news of the world, it has Serial and Short Stories, Wit and Humor, Poetry, Campfire, Farm, Sunday School Lessons, Young Folks, Poetry, Puzzles, Household, Answers to Correspondents, etc. As a special feature for 1893, Mr. Robinson Locke, editor and proprietor of the Blade, has just sailed for Japan, and will contribute a series of illustrated letters on the manners and customs of that peculiar country and its people. These articles will be commenced some time in February or March, and will be worth to the readers of the Blade many times the subscription price. Every reader of this paper is invited to send for a specimen copy. The publisher of the Blade would be glad to send a specimen copy to every reader in this country. Subscription price of the Blade, one dollar a year. Five dollars in cash will be paid to any person sending in a small club of subscribers. Write for agents' terms, giving particulars. Address: "The Blade, Toledo, Ohio."

DEER HUNTING IN THE ANDES

South American Indians Settle Any Advantage Over Them They Can. The manner in which the South American Indians hunt deer in the Cordillera is very interesting and somewhat ingenious, says the Detroit Free Press. They first ascertain the locality in which the animals congregate to graze, and then the men, women, and old children of the tribe make extensive preparations to hunt in the herd. In order to cause a stampede they blow horns, yell, and make other bewildering and outlandish noises. As a natural consequence the frightened deer quit their grazing places. They form in line in regular marching order, the older males leading the way, followed by the females and young, while the rear of the column is brought up by the young bucks, who act as protectors to the centers. The Indians now close in on them, seeing which the animals prepare to do battle for their lives. The hunters then proceed to prepare the instruments of destruction, consisting of large lances, resinous torches, and nooses fixed to long poles. The worst enemy of the deer is the jaguar and wildcat, and their animosity to them is such that they have been known to leap over a hunter in order to attack either of these feline foes. The Indians knowing this, employ it to great advantage during these hunts. The women stuff a number of jaguar and cat skins, which are placed in prominent positions on the edge or precipices, in full view of the deer. Immediately the bucks make a violent effort to get to them, in order to hunt them into the abyss beneath, but are thus treated themselves by the wild hunters, who push them over the cliffs where they are quickly hamstringed or otherwise disabled by the women, who are stationed below. After the first onslaught on the stuffed figures the remaining deer seem to recognize the fact that they have been tricked and huddle together, awaiting another attack. Then the Indians throw lighted torches among them and a panic ensues. They make desperate efforts to escape, but the relentless hunters drive them over the crags until they see that a sufficient number have been captured—usually four or five hundred. They do not usually harm the females and fawns and also allow a few bucks to escape. Very seldom is a doe killed, and if a fawn is captured it is immediately liberated. The flesh is eaten by the Indians and also carried to the village to be sold, while the skins are either purchased by dealers or made up into various articles by those who assist in their capture.
