

The Paper. Without it, advertisers get nothing for their money. The Gazette, with one exception, has the largest circulation of any paper in Eastern Oregon. Therefore it ranks high as an advertising medium.

THE EDITOR'S WORK. With all the great and vital questions to be discussed, all the pleasant and ennobling things to write about, all the invention and progress of the age to be noted, and all the rush of important movements and interesting affairs to be met, chronicled and commented on, the paper that can find nothing to fill its columns but coarse and bitter vituperation of its contemporaries had better shut up shop at once.

will be redeemed, exalted and purified. And the editor—he who makes the politics and politicians of the land, who leads every forward and upward movement of humanity—may ere long be as respectable as a peonny peddler, stable boy, secretary of state, circus clown, foraminator, pickpocket or president.

THE GAZETTE'S AGENTS. Wagner, R. H. Heppner, Arlington, Oregon. The Eagle, Long Creek, Oregon. The Oregonian, Portland, Oregon.

The Original Webster's Unabridged DICTIONARY.

PATENTS. Carets, Trade-marks, Design Patents, Copyrights. And all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

east, and the Pacific ocean laves its western sands for full 3,000 miles. And snow-capped peaks, whose summits pierce the clouds to bathe in everlasting sunshine; plains, whose limitless expanse suggests infinity rolled flat; lakes blue as the skies, that smile to see themselves so beautifully mirrored in the crystalline depths; rivers like rolling oceans in magnitude and majesty; far-stretching forests, whose lofty tree-tops sweep the cobwebs from the heavens; canyons that rank among the world's fathomless wonders, and cataraacts that see Niagara, and go it hundreds on hundreds of dizzy feet higher.

It has tens of millions of acres, whose fertility makes tame and commonplace all the romances of the Nile valley and the Hesperian gardens. Such soil as poured out that marvelous display of fruit and vegetables at which we have stood amazed, crushed into silence by fifty-pound watermelons, eleven-pound bunches of grapes—reaching the scriptural story of the vale of Eschol—eight-pound potatoes, two-pound apples and half-pound plums, single stalks of tobacco weighing thirty pounds, and single peanut plants with a full pound of "goobers" dangling from their roots. It has wheat fields whose harvests already—and they are but in the infancy of production—influence the markets of the world. Over thirty great ships, flying the flags of half the nations of the globe, are now lying in the Columbia river awaiting cargoes of Oregonian golden grain. It has hundreds of thousands of square miles of pasture lands, fenced only by the far horizon, where the flocks and herds of half the world's best feed. It has mountains ribbed with every precious ore and mineral, except tin—veritable treasure houses of the gods, bursting out with gold, silver, copper, iron, manganese, lead, zinc and coal; while marble, gypsum, salt and oil are plenty as sands in the great Sahara or scrap beggars in politics. It has room and homes, this wonderland of creation, for 100,000,000 of industrious and enterprising people. As thickly populated as England, Oregon alone would give habitation to over 30,000,000 and Washington to more than 20,000,000.

The Celebrated French Cure, warranted "APHRODITINE" or money refunded.

With the last few years a deluge of evil has surged against it and over it. Dissensions and hatreds have crept into its high council halls. The clash of fratricidal bayonets has been heard over the very ashes of its founders, and the horrid gurgle of fratricidal blood has incriminated its pellucid waters. Wrongs and abuses have intruded themselves in its sacred citadel. Giant corruption, like the maelstrom beast, the abomination of desolation in prophetic vision, perched on its loftiest altars and bespatters with corroding filth the robes of its priests, the togas of its senators and the ermine of its judges.

Eastern Oregon Weather. The weather bureau gives out the following weather and crop report for Eastern Oregon: WEATHER.—Lack of sunshine, cool weather and occasional rains with frequent frosts have prevailed during the past week. Snow has occurred on the highest elevations south of the Columbia river valley. The mean temperature has ranged from 38 to 46 degrees which is about six degrees below the normal. The amount of rainfall has varied from 0.10 to 0.44 of an inch.

LONE ROCK STAGE. Leaves Heppner 7 a. m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, reaching Lone Rock at 3 p. m. Leaves Lone Rock 7 a. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, reaching Heppner at 5 p. m. Agents, Simpson-Johnson Drug Co., Heppner, Or.

As the publishers limit the time and number of books they will furnish at the low prices, we advise all who desire to avail themselves of this great opportunity to attend to it at once.

BEFORE and AFTER. A WHITTEN GUARANTEE for every $5.00 order, to refund the money if a permanent cure is not effected.

Stop blowing little crossbones stumps and desecrated nobodies into mental and moral Ananias, beside whom Alexander, Caesar, Demosthenes, Cicero and Cato, Washington, Jefferson, Webster and Clay, Napoleon and Tom Thumb, all melted into one, would tumble to a pigmy whose toes would not touch the ground if he straddled a full grown Puget Sound mosquito.

Chores, etc.—The cool weather retards the growth of all vegetation. Fruit buds are swelling in the Columbia river valley and a few peach trees are in bloom about The Dalles. Grass is growing fairly well. Plowing and seeding has progressed and is about 85 per cent. done. In localities the ground freezes at night. Strawberries are beginning to show blossom in northern Wasco county.
