ARE YOU ANY GOOD AT PUZZLES?

The genius who invented the "Fifteen" puzzle, "Pigs in Clover," and many others, has invented a brand new one, which is going to be the greatest on record. It is fun, instruction and entertainment in it. The old and young are equally interested in it. This great puzzle is the property of the New York Press Club, for whom it was invented by Samuel Loyd, the great puzzleist, to be sold for the benefit of the movement to erect a great home for newspaper workers in New York. Generous friends have given $25,000 in prizes for the successful puzzle solvers. TEN CENTS sent to the "Press Club Building and Charity Fund," Temple Court, New York City, will get you the mystery by return mail.

"If he is a bold tiger he centers round the circle, almost touching the spears; finding no opening, then he returns to the center, fixes his eye on one spot, and with a loud roar dashes straight at it."

"He is received on the spears, and though he crushes many as if they were mere reeds, in half a minute he falls dead, pierced by a hundred weapons."

"In some instances, however, the roar and charge are too much for the Javanese, and they give way. The sport then becomes rather dangerous to spectators."

A Hungry Telegram.

"A certain member of parliament, as proud and fond as a man should be of his special young wife, was just rising to speak in a debate when a telegram was put in his hands. He read it, left the house, jumped into a cab, drove to Charing Cross and took the train to Dover. Next day he returned home, rushed into his wife's room, and finding her there, upbraided the astonished lady in no measured terms. She protested her ignorance of having done anything to offend him."

"Then what did you mean by your telegram?" he asked. "Mean? What I said, of course. What are you talking about?" "Read it for yourself," she said. He read: "I flee with Mr. X. to Dover straight. Pray for me!" For a moment words would not come; then after a merry fit of laughter, the suspected wife quietly remarked: "Oh those dreadful telegram people! No wonder you are out of your mind. I wonder you are out of your mind. I telegraphed simply 'I tea with Mrs. X. in Dover street. Stay for me.'"

IMPERVIOUS TO INFORMATION.

How an Explanation of the Keely Motor Was Received.

"A group of Chicago's young men were standing not long since near the corner of State and Madison streets discussing the many wonderful inventions of this wonderful age, when the conversation turned upon the Keely motor project of several years ago. As some of the younger members of the party could not exactly recall its proposed workings, one who could began to explain it."

"An ex-German laborer, but lately landed in the country, and, of course, speaking and understanding the English language very imperfectly, paused a moment, and leaned upon his shovel to listen. As he would occasionally catch the words, 'Keely motor,' 'Keely motor,' an anxious, thoughtful expression was seen to flit now and again across his honest old face. He seemed to become intensely interested in all that was said, and would occasionally ask some question concerning it. The narrator went over the ground quite carefully, telling how it was proposed, by a series of chambers, valves, pistons and compressors, to run an engine from New York to San Francisco with a gallon or so of water without steam or fire."

"Our Teutonic friend gave earnest heed to it all, throwing his weight first upon one foot and then the other, and nodding his head in the affirmative by way of approval, and then negatively, as though pained at some portions of the recital. Once or twice he said: 'Ish dot possible!' and showed much indignation. Finally, after the whole thing had been carefully explained to him, taking perhaps an hour's time, he took his old black pipe from his mouth, spit a couple of times or so, wiped his troubled brow upon the coat he carried on his arm, and expressed his opinion of the Keely motor about as follows: 'Ish dot so? I don't vood haf believed dot dere vas so mean a veller by Sheekap! Und so dot veller he kool his mudder because she don't vood let him go by de bigger over by Ogden bark, he? He kool his poor old mudder! Vell! vell! I haet you dot veller must vas crazy!'"

"When the young man saw that he had fooled away so much time for naught he could hardly help violating the third commandment. Now when his friends wish to have a little fun at his expense some one will casually inquire if it is true 'that dot veller he kool his mudder.' He says that such a man could not read a barber's sign without an interpreter."—M. B. Duffie, in Chicago Inter Ocean.

A JAVANESE TIGER FIGHT.

An Entertainment That is Dangerous to Spectators.

An English traveler in Java who saw one of the tiger fights peculiar to the island thus describes the strange sport: "The tiger is set down in a trap in the center of the Alon-Alon, or great square and is surrounded by a triple or quadruple line of spears, about a hundred yards distant from him."

"When all is ready a Javanese advances at a very slow pace, to the sound of soft music, and sets fire to the trap, at the same time opening the door at the back part of the cage, which, by the way, is too narrow for the tiger's turn in."

"As the fire begins to singe his whiskers, he gradually backs out. The man, as soon as he has opened the door, begins walking toward the crowd at a slow pace, and the slower he is, the more applause does he gain."

"The tiger, meanwhile, having backed out of his burning prison, is rather astonished at finding himself surrounded by hundreds of people, each pointing a spear at him."

"If he is a bold tiger he centers round the circle, almost touching the spears; finding no opening, then he returns to the center, fixes his eye on one spot, and with a loud roar dashes straight at it."

"He is received on the spears, and though he crushes many as if they were mere reeds, in half a minute he falls dead, pierced by a hundred weapons."

"In some instances, however, the roar and charge are too much for the Javanese, and they give way. The sport then becomes rather dangerous to spectators."

G. A. R. NOTICE.

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new commissioner of pensions has been appointed.

He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pensions affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filing of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is seldom retroactive. There fore it is of great importance that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible date.

If it is U. S. soldiers, sailors, or their widows, children or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, they should write to the Press Claims Company, at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address

THE WESTERN PEDAGOGUE.

We are in receipt of the May number of our state school paper. It exceeds any of the former numbers in value.

The paper this month contains many new and valuable features. The illustrated series on the schools of the state is introduced by a paper on the Friends Polytechnic Institute at Salem, Oregon. These papers cannot fail to be of great value both to the schools and to the public.

There are also several fine articles by our best writers and the departments "Current Events," "Saturday Thoughts," "Educational News," "The Oracle," "Answers," "Correspondents," etc., each contain much valuable reading for teachers or parents. The magazine has about 50 pages of matter, well printed and arranged. We pronounce the Western Pedagogue the best educational monthly on the coast.

Everyone of our readers should have the paper if they are at all interested in education. No teacher school director or student can get along well without it. We will receive subscriptions at this office. Price only $1.00 a year. When desired we will send the Western Pedagogue and Gazette one year to our address for $3.00. Call and examine ample copies. Teachers, directors and parents, now is the time to subscribe. It

FIRST AWARD AT CHICAGO.

Sheepmen will be interested to know that there is no longer any question as to the relative merits of the different sheep dips upon the market. Christy & Wise take pleasure in announcing that Hayward's Dips (paste and liquid) for which they are sole P. C. agents, have secured the first award at the World's Fair, and last year these dips received the silver medal at California State Fair and gold medal at Mechanics Fair, San Francisco. Every practical sheepman that ever used Hayward's Dips, pronounced them the very best dips for the care of stock, the general health of sheep and conditions of wool. 181 188-aw.

AN EXTRAORDINARY HALIBUT.

It weighed 245 Pounds and Was Spared by a Fisherman.

A few days ago there was landed at Stromness, Orkney, a halibut of extraordinary dimensions, measuring eight feet ten inches in length and weighing no less than two hundred and forty-five pounds, says the London Field. The fish was discovered by two lads who were engaged in hauling lobster creels at the back of the Holms, a distance of about a mile and a half from Stromness pier. It was observed on the sand apparently asleep, and as they had no appliances with them with which to attempt a capture they marked the spot and returned home to acquaint their father. Armed with a kind of harpoon, to which a line was attached, they went back to the place and found the huge fish had not moved. Carefully watching an opportunity the father succeeded in planting the harpoon in the back of the halibut. The weapon entered the spine and rendered the fish powerless, but on account of its size and weight it was only after considerable difficulty that it was got on board. In its stomach was found a variety of small fish which weighed upwards of six pounds. It was at once carefully packed and dispatched by steamer and rail to the London market.

ABOUT NEWSPAPERS.
