It is the awestest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is the awestest, the toughest, the richest. READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobscero produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest sciler of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and plenses the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you keep. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE.

How an Imprisoned Traveler Was Saved

from a Lion.

An agent for a Hamburg firm that deals in wild animals was riding on the bank of a Transvaal stream, says Golden Days, when his horse suddenly reared and threw him, and then ran away. The man picked himself up, only slightly bruised, and was calling to the fleeing horse, when a monster lion rose up from behind a bush. The agent's rifle had been strapped to the saddle and his revolvers were in the holsters on the horse's back, so there was nothing to do but run. Luckily there was an opening in the rocks close by and in this he squeezed himself. The hole was irregular and ran back nearly eight feet, but was too narrow for the lion to enter, and he could not reach the intended victim with his paws. When he found the man beyond his reach, he grew furious and growled and bit at the rocks. The agent at first rather enjoyed the situation, feeling that his fortress was secure, and taunted the lion by shouting and kicking at him. The camp was only six miles distant, a search would soon be don't you an' her hitch up?" made for him, and the lion would lie down presently for a nap, so the man argued; but the Hon had other views. Hour after hour passed, no help came, and the lion did sleep, but right in front of the opening. The agent assuaged his thirst by licking the damprocks, but was terribly eramped and now quite anxious. But deliverance came in an unexpected form. Another lion hap-pened that way, and in two minutes a

GREAT ADJENIO LATERS.

Australian Women Sacrifice Health and Hair on the Altar of Good Complexion. The majority of the female beauties of Sidney, according to an English observer, have peculiarly delicate complexions, languid expressions, fragile physique and a die-away look in the eyes, which are more suited to the enervated temperment of an old civiliza-tion than the active vitality of a new world. It was easy even for a novice to detect that these ladies owed a good deal to their perraquier. The mystery of this curious combination of premature baldness and unusual delicacy of complexion was explained by the fact that these women ate arsenic in order to produce the aristocratic pallor and languor, and found to horror that another effect of the drug was to make the hair drop out. Valuing their complexion above their hair, however, they sacrificed the one to the other. What a woman will endure for her complexion may be estimated by this and also by the fact that these arsenic eaters rarely live past fortyfive. There is no pleasure, moreover, in the consumption of the poisonous drug. The arsenic is made up into dainty looking caramels, which fashionable dames will produce from precious little bonbonnieres and quite openly, just as the American girl chews gum or the English girl choco-

The arsenic question, English men say, was becoming quite a burn-ing one in the antipodes. When a man married a young looking, lovely crea-ture, adorned with luxurious ringlets. he was disgusted to find after the cere mony that she was really a semibald prematurely enervated woman, who was shortening her life to please her wn vanity and was incapable of ful filling the duties of a mother to debili ated children which she brought into the world. Moreover, the suffering which she would go through in any attempt to overcome this pernicious habit was quite enough to make her break down, if, indeed, she could be per

Presently I saw we were near-ing a horse-pond, and I began to say to myself: 'I may get past this pond without being dropped in the middle of it, but then again I may not." "However, after running a tremen-dous risk, I escaped a broken neek that time, and after getting pretty safely through the remaining part of the chase, says I to myself, says I: 'Well, I may be tempted to go a-hunting again but then again, I may not!"

The Tragic End of a Peculiar Chost Pho-

Innumerable experiences prove that all "ghost stories" have a rational ex-planation, and that some natural cause can be found for any seemingly super-natural *ccurrence. Sometimes it requires great coolness and self-posses-sion to remember this, but the effort to do so is worth making, for it may save life or reason. A striking illustration of this was the tragic experience of a Dutch painter, named Penteman, who ived in the eighteenth century.

Penteman had a commission which required the portrayal of skeletons. death's-heads and other objects intended to inspire contempt for the frivolties and vanities of the time. In order to have models before him e painted his picture in an anatomical museum. One day he had been sketching the ghastly objects which surrounded him, when he fell asleep.

Suddenly he was awakened by an extraordinary noise. He was horrified to see all the death's-heads nodding and grimacing, and the skeletons dancing about, and waving their fleshless arms madly in the air. Penteman fled from the frightful scene, and escaped into the street. He was picked up unconscious and half dead with fright.

As soon as he was rational, it was explained to him that there had been an earthquake, and that that had caused the commotion among the anatomical specimens, but the shock had been too severe, he died in a few days.
