STANFORD UNIVERSITY.

Mrs. Leland Stanford's Plans la Connec-tion with Thirt Distinction. Mrs. Leland Stanford, in an interview in the San Francisco Cureniele, gives many facts hitherto unprinted in regard to plans for the new university at Palo Alto. She says the same attention will be given to girls as to boys, and it is her purpose to have an art training-school, like the Cooper Institute, where girls who have a taste for designing may secure instruction that will enable them to earn a good living. If they then wish support thomselves. The chief alm will be to ground the students in elementary studies, and then to give them some practical training by which they may easily support themselves. If then they desire higher training it will be freely given, but the whole spirit of the institution will be against merely ernamental education. To quote Mrs. Stanford's words on this point:

"I think it absolutely cruel to give a young man or woman who must depend upon their own exertions for a livelihoo! a classical education pure and sim ple. There is scarcely a week that Mr Stanford is not asked to give employ ment to graduates of Yale and Harvard He has six of them as car-conductors of the Market street line now. Of course it is no disgrace to them and they will not remain long, but it is piriful to wit ness the helplesaness of wrongly edu cated young people.

When asked whether any plans has been devised for the association of the sexes she said: "Yes, indeed. Cot tages will be built which will accommo date about twenty students each and these will be in charge of a teacher. where the personal liabits, manners and amesements of the students may under supervision. Every care will be taken to make these cottages homes in the best sense of the word, a place where no creed is taught, but where the Any begins and ends with prayer and where each individual is brought under refined discipline. The cottages in-tended for boys will be about a mile distant from those occupied by the girls, but the evenings may be passed together in music or social games in the presence of and with the consent of the teachers." "Is it true you intend to give paint ings and nurles in your house to the

It is expected that the university will be open next fall. The colleges will provided with ample lecture-rooms, and the trustees will be required to offor a high salary for instructors. A GENEROUS SPASM. But It Falled to Last for Any Grea Length of Time.

The little four-year-old had gone to the grocer's with her grandmother, says the San Francisco Chronicle, and the grocer gave the child five little chocolate-drops. It was a hot day, and she took them in her tiny little hand and held them there until she got home. A spasm of generosity struck through her infantile heart, and she thought she would share the bonbons with her brother, sister and a small chum across the way. Chums are necessities of our vanity. We must have somebody to air ourselves to, and we select a somebody whom we are specially fond of because he or she listens to va. Just as soon as a chum begins to show that he's bored with our recital of our excellencies there's an end of the most sacred friendship. And this chum business begins very early in life, showing that vanity is coeval with hair. The small child held on to her five little chocolate-drops, and when she got home she sat down by her grandmother and opened her hand. The identity of the five drops was rather difficult to segregate by that time, but she managed to count them. She ate one the children." That was settled and she went about with the chocolate-drops in her hand, occasionally opening it to look at them She gradually yielded to temptation and ate the one she was keeping for herself, leaving three. Fifteen minutes later she came to the grandma.

"Grandma, Alma's sick-awful sick." "Yes, she's awful sick. She hasn't been at school for two days." "Dear dear! I'm sorry."

"I think, grandma, Alma's mother would not like her to eat chocolate when she's so sick." And she ate the second chocolate-drep. Fifteen minutes passed again and again

she appears. "Grandina, what was it Helen said about chocolate!" "I'm sure I don't know."

He commenced, says the Post, by tipping the waiter lib-erally, which alone would proclaim him one accustomed to secure the best of attention; and as for wines, he would have none but the best vintages which he picked with the taste of a connoisseur. The dinner was prepared to the king's taste and appeared to ease him until the last course. At that point he uttered an exclamation of horror, and beckened frantically to the waiter. That functionary not being sufficient to vent his wrath upon he summoned the head waiter, and eventually the proprietor. Then he pointed out the cause of trouble—a dead fly in the dessert. Words could not express his well-feigned disgust. or the regret of the proprietor at this unfortunate occurrence. The cook was called up and "roasted" more effectually than he ever did his meats, and the restaurateur offered every amend in his power. But the guest professed to be almost overcome with nausea, and could not eat any more-he had probably had all he wanted. Of course the proprietor could not think of charging for such on unfortunate meal, and was only too thankful that the matter should escape the attention of the other guests. But when the disgusted guest had gone a bystander, who had watched the occurrence! remarked to the proprietor: "Why, didn't you see him put that fly in the dessert?"

It Was Against Orders to Shoot, So He

"When I was in Yellowstone Park this summer," said a Wyoming Valley man, "one of the gamekeepers told me about a bear that worried a camp of government soldiers almost to desperation for several weeks. Late one night a bear waddled into camp, ripped open n tent, put the soldiers to flight, got what he wanted to eat, and went away. The next night the bear came around again, smashed down a tent and stolen smoked ham. Under the park rules smoked ham. Under the park rules the soldiers were prohibited from firing at the thievish brute, as well as from jabbing a bayonet into him, and the only thing they could do when the bear appeared and went to helping himself to rations was to get out of his way. Night after night the bold beast made a raid on the camp and ruined a tent or two. My informant said that the bear acted as if he knew that the soldiers daren't fire at him, and that on each visit he became more saucy and destructive than before. When the bear's raids had become unbearable the commandant sent the facts to
