GLADSTONE AS A READER.

It is the Premier's Rabit Never to Lose a Minute's Time. It is rather discouraging to know that if one should read more hours a day than the average American is able to spend away from business, he would be able to read only a few of the works that are really worth reading. Mr. Gladstone, however, is not to be discouraged by this knowledge. He goes upon the principle that the only way to get any reading done is to read translated, Dr. Dollinger said: "I think it was in the year 1871 that I remember his (Gladstone's) paying me a visit at six o'clock in the evening. We began in the morning when I left the room to Gladstone deep in a volume he had drawn out of his pocket-true to his principle of never losing time-during mentary absence. And this at the small hours of the morning." The Andes Staking.

The startling announcement is made that the whole range of the Andes is slowly sinking into the earth's crest. As proof of this La Gazette Geographique says that Quito was 9,505 feet above the level of the sea in the year 1745; in 1800 it was only 9,570; in 1831, 9,567, having sunk 26 feet in the 55 years following 1745, and but three feet during the 31 years which intervened between 1800 and 1831. In 1868 the city's level had been reduced to 9,520 feet above the level of the Pacific ocean. To sum up the total, we find that Ecuador's capital has sunk 76 feet in 122 years. Antisana's farm, the highest inhabited spot on the Andes (4,000 feet higher than Quito rtself, which is the highest real city on the globe), is said by the same authority to be 218 feet lower than it was in 1745.

Christening a Town. According to a local tradition, probably invented, Sayville, L. I., received its name in a peculiar fashion. The settlers were gathered in debate upon the shore trying to agree upon a name for the place, and one after another proposed his suggestion with "Say, how'll this do?" After many suggestions had been rejected, some one, bar-ren of imagination but sensitive of ear, proposed that the oft-repeated word "say" be made the first syllable of the name and that ville be added as the econd syllable. The idea took and says the legend, then and there the set-
