J. W. Davis, formerly a stage driver of the Canyon-Monument stage line, returned Thursday morning from an extended visit through the East. While away he visited Chicago and Louisville. On returning he stopped with friends and relatives in Iowa and came home via San Francisco, where he visited the Midwinter Fair. Mr. Davis reports a very pleasant time while away.

Atty. Wilson returned home on night's train.

E. E. Smith on his return from Heppner recently, informed the Globe that Heppner was very quiet as nearly every one had dropped business and was running for office, the fever having struck the place broadly. If Mr. Smith were here now he would find things different. Both the successful and unsuccessful are now looking after business.

Condon Globe: Lige Hendrix is lying dangerously sick at Smith's restaurant in Condon, with inflammation and abscess of the liver. His brothers, Geo. and Wm., have been with him the last week, and are much alarmed at his condition. This morning he is somewhat better. Dr. Hogan is attending him.

Chas. Brown, one of the staunch Mountain Valley German boys, was in the city the first of the week. Mr. Brown says everything looks very much like spring over there. Stock has wintered well and spring grass is now two inches high.

Ed. W. Copper is now a full-fledged "knight of the grip," having commenced this week as traveling agent for Zann Bros. & Co., wholesale dealers in wood-en-ware, willow-ware, etc., Portland. We understand E. L. has not disposed of his mercantile interests at Lone Rock.

Attorney A. A. Jayne, of Arlington, came up yesterday morning to look after court matters.

Howard Dudson came up on yesterday's train for a short stay in Heppner.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE.—Mrs. Ada Urub, state lecturer of the W. C. T. U., delivered a very interesting lecture to a large and appreciative audience at the opera house Monday evening. Temperance and the principles of the prohibition party was her subject, though a considerable portion of her address was that concerning women's suffrage. Mrs. Urub used a small amount of sarcasm in referring to the objection urged by men, that the women should stay at home and care for the babies instead of mingling in political circles. It was peculiar, said she, that a mother could go to a dance or to camp-meeting and say a week, and her husband would not worry about the babies. But as soon as the sun arose on election day the father became very tender of the little ones, and on that day the mother must not think for a moment of leaving them. Mrs. Urub also made the remark that there was no difference between the republican and democratic parties. The populists also say this, though such remarks will bear investigation. However, all in all the address was exceptionally good. Appropriate music was also a portion of the evening's entertainment.

COURT.—Tuesday was occupied by circuit court in the trial of Chas. Muecke, charged with horse stealing. The jury found him guilty and he was sentenced today to two years in the "pen." Then came on the case, State vs. May Wright and Stella Smith, charged with keeping a bawdy house. The jury disagreed. Yesterday the case, J. W. Remus vs. Town of Heppner, was on trial. A motion to non-suit was entered last evening and argued at length. This morning Judge Bradshaw decided that the motion was well made and the case was thrown out. Other matters of lesser importance will occupy the attention of the court today, and it is possible an adjournment will be reached this evening.

DEATH OF MOSES MINTHORN.—Rev. Potwine received a telegram Wednesday announcing the death of Moses Mithorn, of Pendleton, and requesting his return to hold funeral services. He departed on the night train. Mr. Mithorn belonged to the tribe of Cayuses on the reservation. He represented the better class among his people, was well educated having attended school in Pennsylvania. He had for a long time acted as agent for the reservation Indians in leasing their lands, caring for their interests. Mr. Mithorn was also a member of the Presbyterian church.

LEO BROOKS.—Just about train time Tuesday evening a telegram was received for Dr. McSwold informing him that Frank Cecil had broken his leg and requested him to come down on the evening train. As the train had not departed the bus was sent up to the depot for him while the train awaited their arrival. On his return we learned that Frank met with the accident by a horse falling on him, breaking his left leg just above the ankle. While it is an unfortunate accident, yet we hope to hear of Frank's recovery in due course of time.

SHOEMAKER.—Ed. Birbeck, a shoemaker and repairer of many years' experience, has just located in the Abrahamson building on May street, where he is prepared to do everything in his line. Birbeck is strictly a first-class workman, and warrants all work. Give him a call.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not do anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "and I was free from all my pain." He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by Slocum-Johnston Drug Co.

WRONGLY ACCUSED.

Knowing that some of the citizens of Heppner are being accused with having committed a wrong, of which they are not guilty, I feel that an explanation from me will perhaps make amends for a part of the injustice done them.

In an issue of last week's Gazette, I noticed an item from Lexington which stated, that during a sermon recently preached in that place the minister had accused some of the most prominent citizens of Heppner with having lured me back to my life of shame and disgrace after he and some ladies had persuaded me to give up that life.

I see no reason for any one to receive that impression. I am sure it would benefit no one in Heppner for me to lead a life of that kind in La Grande. I can only say, some are greatly mistaken and others are being made to suffer through that mistake.

As for being persuaded to give up that calling, that is also a mistake. I gave it up because I was disgusted with the life. No one came and asked me to seek refuge in a better place. No one offered me their assistance until I made an effort to do that which was right. I came out on my own determination and expressed a desire to become a better woman before any one offered their assistance in helping me build up my lost reputation.

It was then two ladies, who will ever be remembered by me for their kindness, offered their help. I accepted the offer of a home from one, and no person could have done more for another than that lady did for me.

But as far as the minister is concerned, his help was not offered until I went to his church. The church members and also those who belong to no church were very kind to me, and I thank them for the interest they had for me.

"The only too true I am back, but the impression that I was lured back is wrong. I had reasons for coming back. I left Heppner because I felt I was a burden on the minds of some and that I was causing a great amount of trouble for others which could be avoided by my leaving. I took up my old life because I saw no other means of support. I did not feel that I would receive the help here that I did in Heppner. I can safely say there was not a person in Heppner who knew for a certainty that I would go back to my old life; for I had no idea of it myself.

Hoping that in the future this unpleasant affair will not be talked of in the pulpit or in other public places, unless to exonerate those citizens from blame, I am

Yours respectfully,
 E. LAURA LENTZ.

A Woman Who Knows How to Make Money Without Working for It.

There was a party of us on the train going to the Rocky mountains, says a correspondent of the St. Joseph (Mo.) News, and the news agent bagged us so that one of us got a lurid narrative of Jesse James' life just to get rid of the fellow. He read pieces of it to us and we got so enthusiastic that we stopped off a day at St. Joseph to look at the house Jesse was killed in.

When we had climbed the bluff at Convent Hill and a darkly pointed out the shanty, our ardor began to diminish. We knocked at the door and a woman opened it, looked at us awhile, and then said:

"Want to see the house Jesse James was shot in?"

"We said, 'No.'"

"Well, this is it. Just come right in. There ain't no shooting around here now." We came into a miserably-furnished room, and passing through she showed us a perfectly bare room.

"That" is it. Just as it was the day they shot 'im. Right there's whar he stood. Right outside this window's whar the Ford boys stood."

The floor was all whitened and pieces cut out of it. One of us suggested that we get some relics to take back East with us.

"We would like to have a small piece of the floor as a memento," said one.

"Wal," she said, "we don't make no habit of selling sich, but seem as you's all the way from back East, why, I'll let you have a piece each at half a dollar apiece."

She cut small slices of the flooring and gave us each one, and, when we had paid her and passed around to the yard, we heard the woman saying to somebody in the house:

"John, guess you'd better hev the carpenter come up and put a new floor in the room. This is the fourth we've hed in, and it's nigh all cut away."

IN HIS WIFE'S CLOTHES.
 The Sorry Plight of a Railway Official in Belgium.

A goat has often put a man at a disadvantage, but seldom so effectually as in a case recently reported by a foreign correspondent of a New York newspaper.

Station Master Marchand, at the little village of Godaryville, in Belgium, has a goat which has the peculiarity of allowing only Mme. Marchand to milk her.

A short time ago Mme. Marchand went to market before breakfast. The station master was in haste to begin his daily duties, and there was nothing in the house to eat. He approached the goat with a pail on his arm, and the goat, as usual, began to kick and bark. In despair, he decided to masquerade as his wife, and humbug the goat into being milked.

He put on his wife's skirts, waist and bonnet, and returned to the shed. The goat was docile, and began milking her. His preparations, however, had consumed more time than he realized, and before the pail was half full he was astonished to hear the whistle of the first morning express, which it was his most important duty to meet.

He dropped the pail, ran to the house, exchanged his wife's bonnet for his red and blue cap of office, and with flying skirts hurried to the station platform. The sight of an individual with a full beard and flowing skirts and a station master's cap dazed everybody on the train, and gave the porters at the station the idea that Marchand had gone crazy. A policeman was summoned, and the station master was marched off to jail.

To the railway authorities, who began an investigation of his conduct, Marchand explained the responsibility of the obstreperous goat for his unprecedented performance. He was punished by temporary removal from office.
