Some of the Heppner republicans and a number of the republican candidates including the lady candidate for school superintendent will attend the regular meeting of the Pine City club next Saturday afternoon at 1 p. m. Every one in that section is invited to attend. Bring your wives and daughters with you.

It would be worth while for the ladies to bear in mind that if they take a gentle course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the spring, they will have no trouble with "prickly heat," "hives," "sties," "boils," or "black heads," when summer comes. Prevention is better than cure.

Dr. Nichols and family, formerly a physician of Long Creek, arrived on this morning's train from Chicago where he has been taking a post graduate medical course. He will leave in a few days for Grant county.

Monmouth Record: J. W. Dawson, of Heppner, is visiting relatives and friends in this city. Will was formerly a Monmouth boy, but is now a rising lawyer of Eastern Oregon.

Geo. Fell returned from Prairie City this morning via Pendleton.

Bob Thompson shot.—Bob Thompson, brother of Press, killed and Alex Thompson of this place, was shot and dangerously wounded by a sheepherder named Joe Rothlin last Wednesday, some distance from Pendleton. Mr. Thompson had had some trouble with the herder several days before, the latter demanding that Mr. T. should pay him wages due for herding leased sheep some two or three years before belonging to Mr. Thompson. Rothlin, or "Suiste" as he is called by some, was herding on the range adjoining Mr. Thompson's and insisted on running sheep there. Last Wednesday, Mr. Thompson went out on the range and Rothlin's dogs came running towards him, Rothlin herding as usual on Mr. Thompson's land. The latter fired among the dogs twice with his Winchester, just to frighten them, not thinking of harming any one. Looking up he noticed Rothlin in a position to shoot. Before he could get out of the way, Rothlin fired, the ball striking him in the right hip, passing through the bone and breaking it in three places. We are informed that an amputation was performed in an attempt to save Mr. Thompson's life, which, at last accounts was doubtful. He has many friends here who regret much to hear of this, and hope that he may speedily recover and that Rothlin will be brought to justice in a manner deserving the crime of which he is guilty. (We learn since that no amputation was made, and that Mr. T. is doing well.)

A ROBBER'S DASTARDLY WORK.—Late Saturday afternoon, a telegram was received at this office announcing that Charles Malarkey, deputy county treasurer of Multnomah county, has been shot by a robber and $2,000 taken. Mr. Malarkey, Sr., who is the county treasurer, had gone away a few minutes before leaving his son in charge. The thief came in and asked change for $20. Young Malarkey went to the vault and opened the door. As the door swung open the dastard shot Malarkey, the ball entering the right side passing through the lung. The robber then cleaned up all the loose money in the vault, some $2,000, and jumped out of the window on the west side of the court house, and it appears unobserved by any one. It is thought the injured man may recover.

SUNDAY DIVERSIONS.—People on our streets, Sunday morning, were treated to the sight of a man receiving a pom-pom at the hands of his wife. The only resistance he offered was to ward off the blows from a parol. The parties in the fray were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Doonan. Sheriff Noble interfered and put an end to the fight by leading Mr. Doonan to safer quarters. It was the opinion of the bystanders that it would have been good judgment on the part of Mr. Doonan had he retreated early in the action, as he came out considerably horsed about.

LOST OR STOLEN.—All persons are hereby warned against negotiating for two certain notes, described as follows: One note dated October 5, 1893 for $500 signed by Wm. Penland and Hugh Fields, $150 indorsement. One note dated or about Oct. 6, 1893 for $100 signed by B. F. Vaughan and E. J. Sileo, with $51 indorsement. Both of said notes drawn in favor of Mrs. Elizabeth Walker.

SHOEMAKER.—Ed. Birbeck, a shoemaker and repairer of many years' experience, has just located in the Abrahamson building on May street, where he is prepared to do everything in his line. Mr. Birbeck is strictly a first-class workman and warrants all work. Give him a call.

LAND FOR SALE.—490 acres over in Wilson prairie. A good stock ranch and will be sold cheap. Call at Gazette office for particulars and terms.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles. SYMPTOMS.—Moisture; intense and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue to run, it will become a chronic disease, and will become very sore. Swain's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals the sores, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swaine & Son, Philadelphia.

Ten little statesmen blending in a line; Bill tried a "snap," and then there were nine.

Nine little statesmen not very straight; Crocker got rattled, and then there were eight.

Eight little statesmen eating Tammany leaven, Gilroy was a glutton, and then there were seven.

Seven little statesmen up to scurry tricks; McKane went to Sing Sing, and then there were six.

Six little statesmen taking spoils to wive; White took "sugar," and then there were five.

Five little statesmen talking tariff lore; Wilson met a whirlwind, and then there were four.

Four little statesmen up in a tree; Breckinridge disgraced himself, and then there were three.

Three little statesmen wondering what to do; Gresham was a hoodoo, and then there were two.

Two little statesmen not having fun; Crisp tried to be a Reel, and then there was one.

One little statesman quick to cover run; Grover bet on queen high, and then there was none.

REMARKABLE OLD ATHLETES.

Reminiscence of Wonderful Men Who Lived in the Grand Canary.

After the Spanish occupation of the Grand Canary a certain enormous stone was for long pointed out as one of the instruments of the Ganneche athletic courses. The natives had been able to lift it, set it on their shoulders, and even throw it over their heads. Their degenerate posterity, and the Spaniards, could not raise it from the ground.

Tradition has immortalized one Adargona, of Grand Canary, who could wrestle for two successive hours, and having been thrown undamaged in a certain contest, got his antagonist between his legs and arms, and squeezed him so that his bones began to crack.

The native was subsequently sent as a prisoner to Spain, where he astounded the people by his performances, according to the National Review. One day, in Seville, he was visited by a brassy youth of La Mancha, who was anxious to try a bout with him. "My good friend," said Adargona, "as we are going to wrestle together, it is only reasonable that we should begin by drinking something." A large bowl of wine having been brought, he took this in one hand and continued to address his challenger: "If with both your arms you can overpower one of mine, so as to hinder me from drinking every drop of this wine, we will try our strength together. If not, you may return to your own home." The struggle took place, and Adargona by degrees drained the bowl in the coolest manner without spilling a drop of the wine. His one hand was more than a match for the other two.

It was reckoned nothing out of the common for a man to take an un-yethered ox by the horn with one hand and slay it with the other. A certain native born priest of Grand Canary in the seventeenth century showed that he inherited some of his ancestors' vigor. He could not only kill an ox in this way, but one day, hearing that an enraged bull had broken loose and was in the street, he ran out, and grasping it by the leg, threw it down and so held it until its owner was able to secure it. This doughty son of the church before his death chanced to have one of his legs amputated for a cancer. It was then found that his thigh bone was solid, with no trace of marrow. It must be confessed, however, that the relics of the Canarians now found in their burying places do not bear out the inference that this was a national characteristic, though their dimensions are certainly a testimony of the strength and size of their late proprietors.

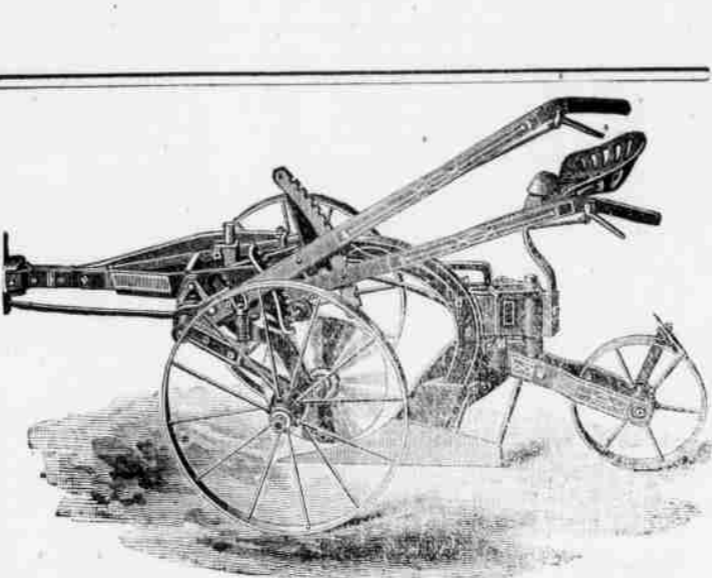

A Scythe as Old as Moses. An Egyptian scythe, dug up on the banks of the Nile in 1890, is exhibited among the antiquities in the private museum of Flanders Petrie, London. The shaft of the instrument is of wood set with a row of fine flint saws, which are securely cemented in a groove.

The Russian likes no sleeping place so well as the top of a big soapstone stove in his domicile. Crawling out of this blistering bed in the morning he likes to take a plunge in a cold stream, even if he has to break the ice to get into it.
