Trouble is being experienced with strikes down at Sacramento, Calif. Both government and state troops are opposing lawlessness.

ROANOK's few friends in Oregon are beginning to feel an uneasiness as to his safety. There is a probability that he is leading a Coxy army of strikers somewhere in California—Statenum.

The report that a battle between strikers and soldiers occurred at Chicago in which 400 persons were killed seems to have no foundation. Only one fight occurred and in this twenty were killed.

An exchange says: Pullman cuts down his workmen's salaries with regard to their necessities, but when congress proposes to cut down the rates of sleeping car charges, Pullman goes down upon his knees to plead his own necessities. "It will bankrupt me," he cries, and Congress listens. But when his workmen appear before him and cry, "We will starve!" Pullman grins and says, "Starve then."

A bill passing the house a few days ago will restore to the people 54,000,000 acres of land. This bill involves portions of the grants of twenty-five roads. A proviso was added to the bill so as to prevent it from being construed to forfeit the right of way and station grounds of any company, and also one from the purchases from such rail ways the titles to land not in excess of 320 acres to any holder.

PRESIDENT DEB. of the American Railway Union at 9:30 a.m. the 13th declared the great strike off. This leaves the Pullman strikers to get it alone. The provisions are, first, that there should be arbitration, and second, that all striking employees, except those charged with crime, shall be taken back by their employers. It is not likely that the railroad will concede these points, though they seem far enough. It is not settled on the plan proposed, it is likely that the strike will be resumed with the help of the Knights of Labor.

THE PEST. Burning the Hem of Suggested by the State Entomologist.

Concerning the pest which has attracted much attention in Oregon, from the experiment at this, the state entomologist, Professor Washburn, makes the following statement:

"The insect referred to is the grain aphid (gibbula) which has been at times in the eastern states. It may be equally destructive here, though the minute parasites which are at work on it will possibly keep it in check.

"No really practicable remedy can be applied while the wheat is standing. It is true here one entomologist will tell the aphid, but for various reasons this treatment is hardly to be considered where the acreage is large. As soon as the wheat or grain is harvested, burn the stubble and all straw, weeds, litter and waste on or about the field. If the grain is not worth harvesting and is not too green, it should be burned while standing. The presence of fences is against this procedure, but it is the best, in fact the only remedy known to entomologists."

Says the Milton Eagle: "Emley Rosenow, one of our most wide-awake fruit-growers, informs the Eagle that he has discovered an effective remedy in common road dust for what is known as the cherry tree slug, the pest that preys on not only the cherry tree, but pear also. A liberal application of dust will destroy the life of the insect. The remedy is a cheap one at any rate, and will not harm the tree nor injure the fruit, and the only way necessary to try the effectiveness of it is the labor attached."

THE TERROR OF PARALYSIS

OVERCOME AT LAST BY THE ADVANCE OF MEDICAL SCIENCE.

The Testimony of a Man Who Was Half Dead for Four Years—Today as Well and Strong as Ever.

(From The Oregon, N. Y. Palladium.) No one in this village is better known or more highly respected than Theodore J. Wheeler, who has lived here for nearly half a century. Five years ago he was stricken with paralysis and was in its worst form. The physicians said that he would surely die. But Mr. Wheeler did not die, and it is to tell the readers of the Palladium about his almost miraculous recovery that a reporter called upon him.

Despite his sixty-five years of age, and the intense mental and bodily afflictions, he has been obliged to endure for nearly five years, Mr. Wheeler is still a fine looking man. He answered the reporter's ring at the door bell in person, and invited him into his cozy sitting room, where he told the following story:

"It was on the morning of Nov. 27, 1888, that I was stricken down. I attempted to get up in the morning as usual, when I found that I could not use my limbs or feet. At first I thought they were asleep and rubbed them briskly with my hands for several minutes, but without result. Finally I got back into bed and sent for Dr. S. M. Bennett of this village. He informed me that I had suffered what is commonly called a 'stroke of paralysis.' I could not believe it at first, but the numbness continued to spread, accompanied by a prickling sensation, until the entire lower half of my body, as well as my legs, was affected. My bowels and kidneys refused to perform their functions, and I was only relieved by mechanical process. I was not satisfied with Dr. Bennett's diagnosis, and sent for Dr. Low, of Palaski. He only said that Dr. Bennett's statement and advised me to get ready to die. For six months I lay in bed at the home of my wife, Mrs. G. A. Priddy, unable to turn over in bed, hardly, and required constant attention and care. Finally I grew weary of my helplessness and would crawl out of my bed, and getting partially dressed would drag my body about the house using my hands like an infant when creeping, but unable to help myself in the least with my lower limbs. There was not the slightest feeling in the lower part of my body, and a needle thrust into my affected parts would not produce the slightest pain. This went on until eight months ago. One day I read in the Palladium of a Canadian gentleman who suffered from paralysis and who had found relief in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In the symptoms described by the sufferer I read an account exactly counterpart of my own afflictions, and I determined to give the medicine a trial. Before I could hardly hope for results I began to feel a marked improvement in my condition. First my kidneys and then my bowels began again, after a lapse of over four years, to perform their natural functions. The numbness left my body and the sense of feeling returned. This continued until the numbness had left my limbs entirely. Now I can go up to the village with one cane and in the house I go around without any. It is with the greatest pleasure that I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to the public. I know what they have done for me and I believe they will help others similarly afflicted."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are prepared by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company of Newburyport, N. Y., and Brockville, Ontario. They contain in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as anæmia, chlorosis, palmar paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatitis, neuritis, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, and the tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from impoverished blood in the blood, such as scurvy, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppression, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore health to the pale and sallow cheeks. To men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excess of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose form), by the dozen or hundred, and the public is cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company for their address.

A Good Appetite Always indicates good health, and an absence of appetite is an indication of something wrong. The universal testimony given by those who have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as to its merits in restoring the appetite, and as a purifier of the blood, constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine.

Now about that grand Fourth. Early in the morning people from various parts of this section of the county commenced to gather at Petty's grove. It was unusually warm by all accounts with but one object, to enjoy the celebration of the independence of our country. The officers of the day were hastily elected as follows: John K. Ely, Pres., and T. J. Lougan, marshal. Then followed a short but spicy program. Just how spicy we leave for others to judge. Of special merit we note the recitation delivered in such an able manner by Miss Della Sayers, of the Saddle Butte graduating class of '94. An address was also delivered by Mr. Sine, of Lexington, and was excellently delivered, but it is the opinion of many that the speaker permitted himself to drift into politics too much.

PATRIOTISM IN STRIPES

From the Capital Journal. The glorious Fourth was enthusiastically celebrated at the penitentiary yesterday, barring the constricted field and the rather impromptu nature of the exercises, for it was not until Tuesday afternoon that Rev. J. M. Shuler, pastor of the South Salem M. E. church, took the matter of entertainment in hand.

About fifty visitors, mostly members of his church, were attracted by the newspaper announcement of the celebration, and from them readers, singers, and accompanists were drawn. After a brief speech from Supt. Downing, "America," very creditably rendered by the prison choir, began the entertainment and was followed by prayer breathing the spirit of patriotism. J. M. Atwood read the "Declaration of Independence," E. Devoe "Paul Revere's Ride" and Capt. W. W. Saunders made the closing speech of the day, the briefest and best. "Let us all give three cheers for the flag of our country."

The charms of the entertainment were furnished by Miss Lizzie Swartz who read "A Noble Christian Manhood," Miss Mattie Shriver, who followed with "The Bum-seller's Legal Rights," and a duet very sweetly sung by Misses Fannie and Nettie Shuler, who were compelled by prolonged and hearty applause to sing a second selection. Miss Aphasia Shuler read, "Blessed are the Peacemakers," Miss Grace Davis, "A Voice from the Poorhouse," Mrs. Spray, of Heppner, a humorous dialect poem, "The New Church Organ," and Miss Francis G. G. another, "D. D. Shuler's Raid," a parody on "Barbaric Fretful." These readings were interspersed with songs by the prison choir and volunteers from among the visitors, and after nearly three hours of genuine enjoyment the prisoners were dismissed to their cells with pleasant faces and pleasant recollections of July 4th, 1894.

G. A. R. NOTICE

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new commissioner of pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filing of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is not retroactive. Therefore it is of great importance that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible date.

If U. S. soldiers, sailors, or their widows, children or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, they should write to the Press Claims Company, at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address: PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, JOHN WEDDERBURN, Managing Attorney, Washington, D. C., P. O. Box 385.

KNIGHTS OF THE URN. Sissy Men with a Genius for Doilies, China and Velvet Rugs. The Symmetry and Working. Are said to be the next thing to Perfection.

As a contrast to the masculine girl and her swagger it might be pertinent to present the sissy man and his affectations. You see this rare exotic in full bloom at those essentially feminine ceremonies known as five-o'clock teas, where nothing sweetened and tied up with a bow furnishes with uniform government and principles come and go; but the University of France has set as its motto, above the reach of time or politics, as befits the mighty spiritual organization it is. The body of the nation is in its outer court, its government classes are in the second and third. We recognize in England how largely the public schoolboy is father of the man, but we must deepen this impression tenfold to realize the national importance of the lycées and his baccalaureate. One might write a good account of modern France in terms of him alone—the lycéen fallow as a literateur and critic, as artist and engineer, as journalist and politician, as soldier and colonizer, and so on. In all such occupations, however, he has too much to do with the outer court; it is in the inner one, that of the docteur, the agrégation, the diploma of the École Normale Supérieure, that he fully blossoms, unspurred from the inside. He becomes a professor or other functionary, for above all things the ambition of the conventionally well-educated Frenchman is to belong to some bureau or other. The profane call this inner court (with some approach to descriptive accuracy, it must be confessed) that of the "mandarins," more crudely and authoritatively personages becoming "mandarins," and his humbler Levites "ronds de cuir," i. e., civil servants, viewed teleologically as coverings for stools. So upon every mind in France there is laid the dead hand of the great lawyer.

And when he began telling how he had a dinner served for four every night whether he invited any guests or not, and that there was the same order of service and quite as elaborate a menu when he dined quite alone as when his most honored guests were at the feast, that was the proper way to train servants and manage a household, the old lady said it positively made her feel profane, like going to an Ingelsoid lecture and having the Bible ridiculed, it was so opposed to all Christian customs and practices.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS. Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringing by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Honorably discharged soldiers and sailors who served ninety days, or over, in the late war, are entitled, if now partially or wholly disabled for ordinary manual labor, whether disability was due to any service or not, and regardless of their pecuniary circumstances.

Widows of such soldiers and sailors are entitled (if not remarried) whether soldier's death was due to any service or not, if now dependent upon their own labor for support. Widows of CHILDREN are entitled (if under sixteen years) in almost all cases where there was no widow, or she has since died.

PARENTS are entitled if soldier left neither widow nor child, provided soldier died in service, or from effects of service, and they are now dependent upon their own labor for support. It makes no difference whether soldier served or died in late war or in regular army or navy.

Soldiers of the late war, pensioned under one law, may apply for higher rates under other laws, without losing any rights. Thousands of soldiers receiving from $5 to $20 per month under the old law are entitled to also for others, whether due to service or not.

Higher rates under new law, not only on account of disabilities for which now pensioned, but also for others, whether due to service or not. Soldiers and sailors disabled in line of duty in regular army or navy since the war are also entitled, whether discharged for disability or not.

Survivors and their widows of the Black Hawk, Creek, Cherokee and Seminole or Florida Indian Wars of 1820 to 1840, are entitled under a recent act. Mexican War soldiers and their widows also entitled, if sixty-two years of age or disabled or dependent.
