CLEVELAND ON THE SENATE.

President Cleveland writes quite a long letter to Congressman Wilson on the senate's action on the tariff bill. The following is an important part: "It must be admitted no tariff measure can accord with democratic principles and promises or bear the genuine democratic badge that does not provide for free raw materials. In these circumstances it may well excite our wonder that democrats are willing to depart from the most democratic of all tariff principles and that the inconsistent absurdity of such a proposed departure should be emphasized by the suggestion that the wool of the farmers be put on the free list, and the protection of tariff taxation be placed around the iron, ore and coal of the corporations and capitalists. How can we face the people after indulging in such outrageous discriminations and violations of principles? It is quite apparent this question of free raw material does not admit of adjustment on any middle ground, since their subjection to any rate of tariff taxation, great or small, is alike a violation of democratic principles and democratic good faith. I hope you will not consider it intrusive if I say something in relation to another subject, which can hardly fail to be troublesome to the conference. I refer to the adjustment of tariff taxation on sugar. Under our party platform, and in accordance with our declared party purposes, sugar is a legitimate and logical article of revenue taxation. Unfortunately, however, incidents have accompanied certain stages of the legislation which would be submitted to the conference that have aroused, in connection with this subject, a national democratic animosity to the methods and manipulation of the trusts and combinations. I confess to sharing in this feeling, and yet it seems to me we ought, if possible, sufficiently to free ourselves from prejudice to enable us to coolly weigh the considerations which, in formulating tariff legislation, ought to guide our treatment of sugar as a taxable article. While no tenderness should be entertained for trusts, and while I am decidedly opposed to granting them, under guise of tariff taxation, any opportunity to further their particular methods, I suggest we ought not to be driven away from the democratic principle and policy which leads to the taxation of sugar, by the fear—quite likely exaggerated—that in carrying out this principle and policy we are indirectly and ordinarily encourage a combination of sugar-refining interests. I know in the present conditions this is a delicate subject, and I appreciate the depth and strength of the feeling which its treatment has aroused. I do not believe we should do evil that good may come, but it seems to me we should not forget our aim in the completion of the tariff, and in taxing sugar for proper purposes and within reasonable bounds, whatever else may be said of our action, we are in no danger of running counter to democratic principles. There must be in the treatment of this article the same ground upon which we are all willing to stand, where toleration and conciliation may be allowed to solve the problem without demanding the entire surrender of fixed conscientious convictions."

THE WESTERN PEDAGOGUE.

We are in receipt of the May number of our state school paper. It exceeds any of the former numbers in value. The paper this month contains many new and valuable features. The illustrated series on the schools of the state is introduced by a paper on the Friends Polytechnic Institute at Salem, Oregon. These papers cannot fail to be of great value both to the schools and to the public. There are also several fine articles by our best writers and the departments "Current Events," "Saturday Thoughts," "Educational News," "The Oracle Answers, Correspondents," etc., each contain much valuable reading for teachers or parents. The magazine has about 50 pages of matter, well printed and arranged. We pronounce the Western Pedagogue the best educational monthly on the coast. Everyone of our readers should have the paper if they are at all interested in education. No teacher school director or student can get along well without it. We will receive subscriptions at this office. Price only $1.00 a year. When desired we will send the Western Pedagogue and Gazette one year to one address for $3.00. Call and examine sample copies. Teachers, directors and parents, now is the time to subscribe. If

DO BUSINESS with business men not those who use their advantages for building. Morrow county has too many intelligent people within its borders to permit this sort of business to be carried on with impunity.

Home and Abroad.

It is the duty of every one, whether at home or traveling for pleasure or business, to equip himself with the remedy which will keep up strength and prevent illness, and cure such ills as are liable to come upon all in every day life. G. A. R. NOTICE.

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new commissioner of pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filing of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is held in retroactive. Therefore it is of great importance that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible date.

If the U. S. soldiers, sailors, or their widows, children or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, they should write to the Press Claims Company, at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address: JOHN WEDDERBURN, Managing Attorney, Washington, D. C., P. O. Box 385.

The Union Pacific is the shortest line to the Lewiston, Miners' Delight, Atlantic and South Pass gold fields. Buy your ticket via Rock Springs or Rawlins, from which points you can go by a first class stage line to Lewiston, reaching the mines the same day.

Mr. Rhea did not ascertain, nor attempt to do so, whether or not the Gazette, or any of its attaches, were responsible for this article. And now the Gazette don't care a red what he thinks about it. But The Patterson Pub. Co. was indebted to The First National Bank of Heppner (which means Lum Rhea) in the sum of $800, due June 20, 1894. Mr. Rhea at once proceeded to make some one suffer, and we were picked out as the hapless victims. He did not collect that money because the company was not worth it, or had refused or neglected to pay he interest, or that he was in such urgent need of it. Long before the editor of this paper had been notified by Cashier Conner that the money must be forthcoming, Mr. Rhea had taken the pains to peddle the fact around town that we owed the bank $800, and that on account this circular we must dig up at once, which he intended we couldn't do. Without looking into the matter on suggestion that he might be making a mistake, he said he wanted his money and no apologies, and that he would show us how to circulate trash about him. This money, the public will understand, was not collected as a business proposition, but to vent the spite of an individual who has more money than hard sense. Mr. Rhea, the big "A. M." can stab citizens in the back, but on account of his dignified bearing and money he must be left alone to stop the mouths of a free people; he must be permitted to run un molested, while others must go down under his heel because of his money. Mr. Rhea will not dare to deny the truth of the charges made against him. The records of Morrow county will prove it, and he well knows that he came to the Gazette's editor when his cases were pending and begged him not to put that part of the circuit court proceedings referring to his cases in the paper, and we kindly consented as a friend to accede to his request. In return for all business favors ever granted by Mr. Rhea we have paid him legal interest, and sometimes more. He never did anything that he has not been well paid for. In return for favors that this paper has granted him in his hieutious career, he attempts at the first opportunity to stamp us out of existence. Mr. Conner on his own authority and at our request granted us ten days grace and we were in possession of the necessary funds to "square up" at the appointed time.

RAW OYSTERS.

A Much Relished Prejudicial Dish of the Athenians and Romans. Raw oysters were eaten at Athens and Rome as a premeditated evil. The Romans coated their oysters with honey and kept them until they were slightly putrid. The simple and clumsy methods of Apicius, the third celebrated glutton of the name, for preserving oysters was to wash them in vinegar and pack them in vessels coated with pitch. The oysters thus prepared, says the National Geographer, were sent from Britain to Emperor Trajan when in Parthia were considered "fresh" and have been sufficient to entitle this man's name to be handed down through twenty centuries. If he is to be deemed famous in direct proportion to the influence of his invention, he should be famous indeed. Brilliant Savarin's premeditated whet consisted of three or four dozen oysters. Sueti Laderie, when he used to entertain tete-a-tete at dinner, is said to have washed a lot of oysters. Savarin determined to give him satisfaction in this respect, and let him go to his thirty-second dozen, when Laperte turned his attention to the dinner with powers unembarrassed by his prelude.

Strategy of a Wife Time.

The young man was somewhat surprised when his trying time came. She opened the conversation at once. "I want enough money to go out of town for a few days," she said, "and you will have to take your meals downtown for a few days." "Why, what does this mean?" "It means just this: I got a messenger boy to come to the house for Mary Ann to tell her that she was wanted at her aunt's, and as soon as she got around the corner I shut up the house and locked it and ran away. When she comes back she'll find anyone there. We don't owe her anything, so it's all right, and I wanted to discharge her, but you know I never would dare to tell her to go, and I knew you wouldn't dare, and don't you think your little wife knows pretty well how to manage? Say yes, now, or I'll break down and cry right here in the office." —Indianapolis Journal.

MONEY MUST RULE.

So Say Citizens of Our County—A Fruitless attempt at Baiting.

During the six years and more that the editor of this paper has directed the fortunes of the Gazette, sharing alike its reverses and successes, it has been this paper's aim to settle all private differences outside of these columns. As a rule, such matters are not interesting to subscribers, and it is cowardly and unfair to use the advantage that a newspaper always holds over an individual. But now the Gazette comes to the front fearlessly to expose the manner in which some men (?) in this vicinity do business. It is not a private matter, because one of these influential (?) individuals took the pains to publicly declare how he would make The Patterson Publishing Co. come to "limerick," or words to that effect, long before either the editor or manager of this paper knew anything about the difficulty. And more, if men or individuals, we should say, propose to use a few paltry dollars to crush the rights and liberties of a free people, it is time the public were apprised of it.

During the recent campaign it is said that certain citizens of our county used defamatory and untruthful statements to defeat F. J. Hallock for clerk. The Gazette says "it is said" because of its own knowledge it does not know that these parties did this. But such was the report, and substantially vouched for. Realizing that this was most unfair, and that there were two sides to the question, some republicans in order to put matters in their true light, got out a circular entitled, "Extravagance of the Morrow Administration." Part of this matter was taken bodily from the Gazette, but the remainder was not. The job was executed in the Gazette's job office and paid for.

CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT DOGS.

Eskimos find the Faithful Animal a Necessity of Their Miserable Existence. "Without dogs the larger portion of the great Eskimo family peopling the barren northern coast of America would find it impossible to exist in its chosen home." So writes E. W. Nelson in his "Mammals of Northern Alaska." They are used in the winter for hunting, sledge-drawing and the like, but in summer are mostly left to shift for themselves. They receive much hard usage, as well as do much work, but never desert, never tire, and are a rallying set, full of play, fond of human society and quarrelsome as schoolboys. Mr. Nelson credits them with a vein of humor and declares that their varying characteristics can be read in their faces. They are worth from two dollars to fifteen dollars apiece, according to age, size and intelligence. For sledge-drawing they are harnessed in teams of either seven or nine—three or four pairs and a leader. The load is from three hundred and fifty to seven hundred pounds and the course is mainly through unbroken snow or over rough ice. With a team of seven dogs and a load of more than three hundred pounds Mr. Nelson made a journey of more than twelve hundred miles in about two months. The last sixty miles were made over a bad road in a continuous pull of twenty-one hours. They are much affected by the moon. During full moon half the night is spent by them in howling in chorus. "During the entire winter at St. Michael's," says Mr. Nelson, "we were invariably given a chorus every moonlight night, and the dogs of two neighboring villages joined in the serenade." He speaks of its "wild, weird harmony," and seems to have found it agreeable rather than otherwise. The influence of the moon is also very apparent when the dogs are traveling. They brighten up as the moon rises, and pricking up their ears start off as if they had forgotten their fatigue. The fur traders take advantage of this fact, and sometimes lie over during the day and travel at night. The dogs and sleds are with them. LAND BARONS.

They Hold Millions of Acres of Swamp Land in Louisiana. The New Orleans Picayune prints a table of the land barons of Louisiana and their holdings of unimproved timber and swamp tracts, from which it appears that alien syndicates, companies and individuals own more than 2,200,000 acres. One syndicate claims 400,000 acres, several possess 100,000 and more and holdings of from 30,000 to 60,000 acres are not uncommon. Most of this land is owned in the western states, but to capitalists of New York and Philadelphia several hundred thousand acres belong. The Picayune explains that originally the United States owned all of the lands in Louisiana other than those which at the time of the cession by France were held by private persons or corporations. Subsequently what were known as swamp lands, that is to say, lands that were subject to tidal overflow from the sea or were annually flooded by the Mississippi, became the property of the state, with the provision that it should sell them for the purpose of raising a fund to build canals. A considerable territory, consisting of prairie and forest land, was retained by the United States to be sold as homesteads. Such a disposition was made of this land, but it is now largely in possession of syndicates. The Picayune's table includes the swamp, homestead and sea-marsh lands. The last named, a lion's share of which has been acquired by the Watkins syndicate, must be drained and diked like the Holland coast, and some progress in this work has already been made.
