BOOK LITTER.

The sultan is establishing a public ibrary in Constantinople. All the libraries of the mosques are to be transferred to it. THE old Indiana homestead of the family of Mr. James Whitcomb Riley has been purchased by the poet as a permanent residence. THE largest library in the world is the Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris, founded by Louis XIV. It contains 1,-400,000 volumes, 300,000 pamphlets, 175 manuscripts, 300,000 maps and charts and 150,000 coins and medals. DR. OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES cele-brated his eighty-fourth birthday recently. He is working on an auto-biography. Few men have in their time tasted more of the love of their fellow men than the cheery Autocrat. An interesting find is a library of 500 volumes, including seventy manu-scripts of the tenth and eleventh, and some with wonderful miniatures of the the fourteenth centuries, which were recently discovered in a Franciscan cloister near Rieti, Italy.

The Absurd Trick of One of the Contral American Chamele

A traveler from Central America recently told rather an amusing story. Down in my country," he said, "one of the first things you get acquainted with is a small, bright green lizard. They are quite tame, harmless and very lively. When caught by the tail they have a peculiar fashion of slip ping away, leaving that appendage behind them.

"One afternoon I was sitting on my doorstep watching one of these little ereatures darting about for flies. It became quite bold, and in one of its quick movements jumped on my foot. I made a sudden grab and caught it by the tail. With a wriggle it was off, leaving that portion of its body still in my hand. "As I had no particular use for it, I threw it on the ground. In a few min-utes 1 noticed that a lot of ants had discovered the piece of tail, and were dragging it off as fast as they could to their hole close by. When they had arrived almost to their destination I noticed the lizard, a few inches away intently watching the ants and his missing property. "Just as the ants were making ; final pull to their nest the lizard darted out among them, and seizing his bit of a tail, swallowed it with evident the roar of laughter of the other pasrelish.

A Strange Sight.

One of the most amusing spectacles of the Columbian exposition was seen in front of the California building on the day of the state celebration. A free distribution of fruit had been widely advertised, and carloads of fruit had been sent-great Inscious peaches, plums, pears, nectarines and half-yard bunches of white Muscat grapes and flaming Tokays. Great booths were creeted outside the building, and a dozen fine young California men, her best products, handed out fruit to a vociferous, struggling, eager crowd for seven long hours. It was a sight to be remembered. Sometimes the air was full of the larger fruits, which were tossed out among the crowd and promptly caught, but the bunches of grapes had to be treated more tenderly. Hats, hands and bas-kets reached out for the generous bunches, and hundreds came away bearing their well-fought-for burden to share with friends. On this occasion many had come from distant parts of the grounds.

AN EMPEROR AT THE PLOW. Curlous Rites Performed by the Ruler of China at Certain Intervals.

In order to emphasize the importance of the cultivation of the soil and to encourage his subjects to follow agri-cultural pursuits, the emperor of China sometimes performs certain rites at the "emperor's field," and goes through the form of plowing and other work of the husbandman. One day recently, says the N. A. U. Cable, the emperor set out at daybreak from his palace, with a numerous and magnificent train of courtiers and others. Before breakfast the emperor arrived at the shrines of the deity presiding over agriculture, and his majesty stopped to offer up his thanksgiving and sacrifices. After changing his dress the morning repast was served, at the end of which the emperor proceeded to the field, at the four corners of which were erected four pavilions where the seeds of wheat and other cereals were placed. In the center were numbers of magnificently attired courtiers, each holdittg aloft a many-colored flag, while on the side of the passage were scores

There is in cultivation a rose called the York and Lancaster on account of striped white and red lines pervading the petals-these colors, of course, represent the two houses united. Just what particular species of roses were chosen has always had an interest for the critical student. A recent notice in the Quarterly Review decides that the white rose of York was the English white rose, Rosa arvensis, and warmly contends that it was a double variety of this species; but if that rose at all, it was most like-
