OTHERS LEAD THE WAY.

In view of Senator Hill's candidacy for gubernatorial honors in the Empire state, it is pertinent to recall occurrences. It is precisely 50 years since one of the greatest of American statesmen left the senate of the United States to become a candidate for the governorship of New York.

In 1844 Silas Wright, who had just refused the nomination for the vice-presidency on the ticket with James K. Polk, reluctantly accepted the democratic nomination for governor of his state on the ground that his party demanded his services. This was an appeal which he could not well resist, because he sincerely believed in his party. He was told that if he did not head the ticket in New York the opposition would triumph and Polk be defeated. He took the nomination and won—thus, it is said, electing Polk and Dallas in the memorable presidential contest.

But Silas Wright was not the only democratic New York leader who gave up the United States senate at the request of his party to accept the nomination for the governorship. Martin Van Buren did so in 1828, thus contributing to the election of Jackson for his first term. William L. Marcy did the same in 1832. With them party leadership involved personal sacrifice and unswerving fealty under any and all conditions. But how about Senator Hill? Wright, Marcy and Van Buren were men of broader gauge than he and were actuated by nobler motives. They went to the front on the occasions named in the spirit that moved Arnold Winkelreid to clasp the Austrian spear in his bosom and thus make way for victory.

Senator Hill, however, brilliant and strong as he is as a political leader, is really in a desperate strait. He is undeniably a candidate for the presidency, but his career in the senate has been of a character to make him so objectionable to a large proportion of his party that he can only hope to win the glittering prize by standing before the country with his great state behind him—a state which by his own Atlantean labors he has rescued from defeat and held for the democracy. New York, in the present crisis, and in a democratic sense, needs Hill as badly as Hill needs New York. It is a case of compulsion on both sides, and honors are even.—Portland Sun.

WESTON, our neighboring little city, is the only town in Eastern Oregon that has attempted to build up a normal school. By state aid it has become a state institution, and our people are wont to look upon it as a permanent one. But in these hard times, should the strong arm of the commonwealth be withdrawn through false ideas of economy, we fear that our home school would suffer. Western Oregon has such an institution for the convenience of that part of the state, and our people here want the same, located in a good, thriving, moral community, and so near the parental roof that the pupil can occasionally visit home and be, at least in a measure, under parental control. Our next legislature can rightfully do some financial pruning, but it cannot afford to strike down any of our established institutions of learning.

WHAT'S the matter with Penoyer's pardoning machine? Is it out of order or is our lumber magnate running out of subjects?

JUDGING from the political outlook in Washington state the republicans have a "sure thing" in November. The populists, as usual so full of ideas, have struck the idea to split. In the conglomeration of facts the republicans, with Hon. John L. Wilson at their head, will come out victorious, and in view of other facts they would have done so anyway.

HON. F. L. MINTIE, of Oswego, we are pleased to note, is one who not only fought throughout the late rebellion, but with his vim and originality will serve the people of this state, in his locality and in Eastern Oregon, at the next session of the legislature, with a spirit that will call forth praises from our people. Mr. Mintie's platform is "Free Silver and High Protection."

THE Willamette valley is very beautiful to look upon, but in acreage production and the cost of preparation for a crop, and a sure crop at that it cannot certainly claim to compare with this region. Even with the low price of wheat the farmers of this section can congratulate themselves that they are not in the Willamette valley, where the ranchers are in a worse financial strait than they are, even though the valleyites are nearer a seaport.

POLITICS in New York at the present moment, on the democratic side of the fence appear to be in a mixed state. While the republicans are working along in harmony, with a protection backing, the democrats are hunting in the free trade woods for the highest protection trees. Nothing but high protection will go in New York this year. Morton's plurality will probably outrival Cleveland's when the latter last run for governor of that state.

THE pay of the watchman at the state capitol building is $1200. The constitutional salary of the governor is only $1500. The extra allowance of $300 per year to the governor is for brains. With brains so cheap $300 might be added to the watchman's salary and a man be found who could be watchman and governor too, and the salary of the latter be saved to the people. The suggestion is referred to the populist members of the coming legislature.—Corvallis Times.

ONE of the most brilliant lights in the pending session of the state senate will be Hon. Geo. C. Brownell, of Oregon City, whose fame as a jurist and orator is not only well known in this state, and the several other states in which he has been, but has accompanied him in his invited tour through California during the present political campaign of that state. Mr. Brownell is not only a man of eloquence, but a man of the people, and has before him an enviable political career.

THE ANTELOPE FOOTRACE. Editor Shutt's Version of It. Likes the Sport, but Has Retired from the Ring.

Editor Shutt gives the following account of the footrace spoken of in our last issue:

Another professional foot racer, traveling under the name of Chas. Spencer, arrived in town last Monday morning with $35 to bet that he could outrun any man in town a distance of 100 yards. Our runner (Shutt) not having run a step for over two months (except in the ball game Sunday, which made his muscles sore and stiff) refused to run at first, but the boys, anxious to see another race, raised the requisite "spondulix" and made him consent to run. The race was set for Wednesday, at 3 o'clock, and the stakes were deposited with W. D. Jones. On the day of the race about 75 spectators were at the track to see the fun. E. D. McArthur, J. C. Murphy and J. E. Shearer were chosen as judges and E. J. Gillan as starter. The runners took their respective positions, but on account of some delay in firing the pistol, Shutt stepped over the line a trifle too soon and as a penalty was handicapped three feet. This had a tendency to make his leg the scratch a little too closely and when the pistol cracked Spencer got about two feet the best of the start, and he was able to keep these five feet to the finish. As Shutt was handicapped three feet, this was a beating of two feet, and on account of having had no training whatever, the race was not run within a second of Shutt's time.

We are very fond of manly athletic sports, but on account of our business prohibiting us from taking any outdoor exercise or training, we have firmly concluded to quit the sport, and will accept no more challenges from anyone in the future. It is an impossible matter to successfully compete with professional foot racers, (who keep themselves in the pink of condition) and hold down a newspaper office and a dozen other businesses at the same time.

The success that has attended the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment in the relief of pain and in curing diseases which seemed beyond the reach of medicine, has been truly remarkable. Hundreds supposed to be crippled for life with arms and legs drawn up crooked or distorted their muscles withered or contracted by disease have been cured through the use of this remedy. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Henry Newell Longfellow died just after being taken off the cars at Jamesport, Mo., on March 25, 1894.

The deceased was a cousin of C. H. Longfellow, of Jamesport, and was here on a visit about 8 years ago. He then said he had been living in California and Oregon for the past 15 years and had there married and had a son named Kenneth, and a daughter named Mary, and that his wife was dead and the children were living with a brother-in-law.

Said deceased was about 55 to 57 years old; about 4 feet 10 or 11 inches tall; dark eyes; dark hair and beard, considerably grey; was a doctor, also traveled repairing clocks and watches. He was a man of very peculiar habits, dressed plain and wore very coarse, heavy shoes; seldom, if ever, wrote to friends when away. It has been ascertained that at one time in Illinois he was known by the name of Henry Newell or Dr. Newell.

I have important information for the above named children. Any one who can help me find them will be suitably rewarded. Address:

A JUST CAUSE.—Wm. Thillard, says the Fossil Journal, came in to whip the editor Wednesday for not going after the county courts for not compelling road supervisors to erect sign boards at the many cross roads betwixt Fossil and Heppner. We told him we had done after them time and again in vain, and he let us off upon promising to again call their attention to the law that provides the county court shall not allow the fees of supervisors until they erect the necessary sign-boards. After being duly sworn, Bill said he traveled 150 miles and 3 days coming to Fossil from Heppner.

An Irishman who was working on a new railway said one day to the foreman: "Do yer want any more hands, sor? I've got a brother at home that wants a job."

The foreman asked him what sort of a workman his brother was.

"Faith, sor," Pat replied, "he's as good a man as meself."

"All right; tell him to come on."

"Whole I'm axin' you for me brother, there's me poor old father at home wanting a job at the same toime, yer honor."

"Well, what sort of a man is your father, Pat?"

"Be jabbers, sor, he's as good as the two of us."

"Oh well," said the foreman, "tell your father to come, and you and your brother can stay away!"

Life or Death?

It is of vital importance that it should be understood by persons whose kidneys are inactive, that this condition of things is finally indicative of a state of the organs where life hangs in the balance. Bright's disease, diabetes, albuminuria are all diseases of a very obstinate character in their mature stage, and all have a fatal tendency. They often baffles the most practiced medical skill, and the most approved remedies of materia medica. But opposed at the outset—that is to say, when the kidneys begin to discharge their functions inactively—with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the dangerous tendency is checked. Very useful, also, in this household medicine for those ailments of common occurrence—constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia and nervousness. It is a safeguard against malaria and averts chronic rheumatism.

FAMILY REUNION.—The family reunion of Grandma Clark, children and grandchildren, which we made mention of in a recent issue, occurred last Friday at the home of Mrs. Geo. Swaggart, of Tule Springs. The family consists of five daughters and four sons, and all were present excepting two sons, J. G. and O. S. Clark, who failed to arrive. The following members of her family were present: N. S. and Wm. Clark, Mrs. Nancy Warmoth, of Paskatua, Cal.; Mrs. Ellen Warmoth, of Henlyville, Cal.; Mrs. John Boehr, of Trenton, Mo.; Mrs. Jullia O'Hara and Mrs. G. W. Swaggart. Of her 76 living grandchildren were also present. Grandma Clark, who lives with Mrs. Swaggart, is now in her 84th year, but enjoys unusually good health for that age. The reunion of the family brought forth many pleasant memories, and in all was an event that will never be forgotten by Mrs. Syntha Clark and the members of her family, who had the good fortune to be present.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Honorably discharged soldiers and sailors who served ninety days, or over, in the late war, are entitled, if now partially or wholly disabled for ordinary manual labor, whether disability was caused by service or not, and regardless of their pecuniary circumstances.

WIDOWS of such soldiers and sailors are entitled (if not remarried) whether soldier's death was due to army service or not, if now dependent upon their own labor for support. WIDOWS not dependent upon their own labor are entitled if the soldier's death was due to service.

CHILDREN are entitled (if under sixteen years) in almost all cases where there was no widow, or the husband died or remarried.

PARENTS are entitled if soldier left neither widow nor child, provided soldier died in service, or from effects of service, and they are now dependent upon their own labor for support, or the husband since died or remarried.

Soldiers of the late war, pensioned under one law, may apply for higher rates under other laws, without losing any rights.

Thousands of soldiers drawing from $5 to $6 per month under the old law are entitled to higher rates under new law, not only on account of disabilities for which now pensioned, but also for others, whether due to service or not.

Soldiers and sailors disabled in line of duty in regular army or navy since the war are also entitled, whether discharged for disability or not.

Survivors and their widows, of the Black Hawk, Creek, Cherokee and Seminole or Florida Indian Wars of 1813 to 1814, are entitled under a recent act.

Mexican War soldiers and their widows also entitled, if sixty-two years of age or disabled for service or not.

Old claims completed and settlement obtained, whether pension has been granted under later laws or not.

Rejected claims reopened and settlement secured, if rejection improper or illegal.

Certificates of service and discharge obtained for soldiers and sailors of the late war who have lost their original papers.

Send for laws and information. No charge for advice. No fee unless successful. Address,
