shall be happy to supply them at wholesale prices, says a writer in the London Illustrated News. That there is no machine for stropping razors speaks volumes for the power and intelligence of the Barbers' company.

Nevertheless, for a man who has always shaved himself the employment of another person to do it for him seems for the first time, apart from the humiliation of being taken by the nose, rather a serious business.

A late show is, when one animate object is struck dead by lightning, that the upward and not the downward current is the cause. The fact that no bird on the wing has been known to be killed by lightning is not conclusive in sustaining this latter view of the method of lightning in producing death.
