It appears that in a large factory in which were employed revocal transfer persons one of the workmen in wield-ing his hammer carclessly allowed it to slip from his hand. It flew half way across the room and struck a fellow workman in the left eye. The man averred that his sight was blinded by the blow, although a careful examination failed to reveal any injury, there being not a scratch visible. He brought a suit in the courts for compensation for the loss of half of his eyesight, and an English paper. Under the law the owner of the facwas shamming and that the whole case was an attempt at swindling, he had about made up his mind that he would be compelled to pay the claim. The day of the trial arrived and in open court an eminent oculist retained for the defense examined the alleged in-jured member and gave it as his opinion that it was as good as the right eye.

Upon the plaintiff's load protest of his inability to see with his left-eye the oculist proved him a perjurer and satisfied the court and jury of the falsity of his claim. And how do you suppose he did it? Why, simply by knowing that the colors green and red combined make black. He procured a black card on which a few words were written with green ink. Then the plaintiff was ordered to put on a pair of spectacles with two different glasses, the one for the right eye being red and the one for the left eye consisting of ordinary glass. Then the card was handed him and he was ordered to read the writing and the cheat was at once exposed. The sound right eye, fitted with the red glass, was unable to distinguish the green writing on the black surface of the card, while the left eye, which he pretended was sightless, was the one with which the reading had to be done.

Plans to Turn Death Valley Into an Inland Sea.

Region Where Human Beings Cannot Exist on Account of Its Extreme Heat and Aridity—A fluge Undertaking.

Among the many schemes now agigreat American desert. It is proposed to make it an inland sea by turning the melting snows and rains that fall upon starvation Sierra Nevadas into this "dry sea. The valley is two hundred feet below the floor of the desert, is one hundred and fifty miles long, thirty miles wide at the northern end, tapering to about three miles in width at the southern extremity. One of the schemes to reclaim the desert is to turn the Colorado river into the lower end, or, as it is called, the Colorado desert, from which water would naturally seek its level in Death valley. Another gigantic scheme is to tap the ocean by a system of canals. This would reclaim millions upon millions of acres of land by mod-ifying the torrid climate, and perhaps rendering this desolate region habita-ble for other beings than horned toads. rattlesnakes and lizards. As the reelamation, if feasible, would require the expenditure of several millions of dollars, besides leakage, it is doubtful. of the street, the entire distance, are says the Chicago Tribune, whether congress will lend a listening ear. It is believed that when Death valley shall have been filled with water the ranges from 110 to 136 degrees the year round the absorption would also be very great. The schemers admit that the absorption would be great, but that it would decrease as it became modified, and would soon become so permanently. They deny that the valley will not hold water by proving, to their own satisfaction at least, that several centuries ago the entire desert, including the hot valley, formed an arm of the guif of California. In proving this, one of the promoters of this gigantic ing with the statement that in the ing from thirst, the boat was abandoned, and was soon covered by the drifting sands. These theories, and more, will all come to the front as soon as the promoters of the enterprise begin the tation. There is no fear that it will amount to anything, yet congress has done many impracticable things.

Death valley is the hottest place on earth, so far as known up to date. There is no spot so deadly, more desclate and so thickly strewn with dead. It is appropriately named, for human life cannot exist amid its poisonous vapors, and even the birds are infected with its noxious gases and fall dead in their flight. Heavy rains never fall in this death-dealing place, and the few light showers only make the atmosin the world—the bodies of those who perished from thirst have been found

ANCIENT AZTEC RUINS.

Little Known Remains in the Mountain Regions of Artsons.

An old-time prospector lately arrived in Prescott, A. T., for a three months' sojourn in one of the most interesting and least-known portions of the territory, says the St. Louis Globe-Demo-erat. The wonderland from which he has returned is the country lying between the Mazatlan and Verde ranges of mountains. Mr. Court thinks that section contains more Aztec ruins than any other portion of America, evidences of human habitation being found from the highest peak to the lowest valleys. In one place he found a road or street of three miles in length, perfectly smooth and straight ruins. The road was evidently built prior to some mighty earthquake, as it ends abruptly at the brink of a yawnshall have been filled with water the reclamation of the entire upper portion of the descrit is assured. An opposition theory is that as the sands of the descrition, the heads of all being alike, very the area of the trickles. theory is that as the sands of the desert absorb the streams that trickle down from the mountains before they make much progress the absorption would be very rapid; or, in other words, that the valley would not hold the fact of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people to have the rains show the people to have the control of the rains show the people that the been workers in stone, some fragments of work in turquoise being found.
