NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

There was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of meakind in and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of meakind in the factory and workshop, the household and on the farm, as well as in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtenance and impliments of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who being on the afert, and ready to perceive the existing delicencies, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exerested to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exerested to thouse the continual accession of the continual accessions of the care of the continual accession of the continual accession of the continual accession of the continual accession of the appurtenance and implication for patent. And the continual accession in the continual accession of the continual accessions of the appurtenance and implication of government of the progress of the American inventor, who being on the existing delicencies, does not introduce the continual accession in the continual accession in the continual accession of government of the progress of the American inventor, who being on the continual accession of government of the progress of the American inventor, who being on the continual accession of the continual accessions of the continual accession of the continual accessions of the continual ac tant daily and weekly papers, and general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Conpany is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepare and prosecute applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade-marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attenion to rejected cases. A BANKRUPT TRIBE.

Their Unbroken Run of Ill Luck at a Game of Chance.

Cleaned Out by the Puyallups in the Great Twenty-Six Day "Sing Gamble" Near Tacoma.

Capt. Jack had to walk from the Puyallup reservation way over to the Black River reservation, says the Tacoma correspondent of the San Francisco Examiner. He had nothing with him except his clothes and his temper, both of which were very much worn, from the results of the recent protracted "sing gamble." The "sing gamble" is the great contest between two tribes of the Puget Sound Indians for the trophies of the year and A new candidate for public favor for such blankets, wearing apparel, vehicles and horses as can be spared to be used for stakes, and sometimes more than should be spared. This year the "pot" at the beginning of the gamble consisted of twelve Winchester rifles of | been placed inside to sail it." the latest pattern, eleven sound horses, pleasure. This year the "sing gamble" wa SANTA CRUZ MOUNTAINS | held in the barn of Jake Tai-ugh, con Alma, Wrights, Laurel, Glenwood, monly known as Charley Jacobs, whose place is four miles from Tacoma. A the beginning of the "sing gamble sixty-seven old men and women, many of them wrinkled, many of them gray headed, gathered at Jake's big barr which had been cleared of all hay grain and other stores.

The players gather around the mats, seven being permitted on each side. One mat is for the Puyallups, the other for the Black Rivers. The dealer for shavings made from the cedar bark able care exercised. For sale by growing close to the sap, resembling Slocum Johnson Drug Co. much the product called excelsior. He divides the chips into two piles of five ach, and conceals each pile under the shavings. Mysteriously he waves his hands forward and backward, crosswise and over and over, making passes like the manipulations of a three-card monte dealer. The drum keeps up its constant beat, the Indians at the mats and those looking on with interest clap their hands and stamp and chant in time to the drum. Now is the time for the Indian asigned to guess to point to one of the two piles. The game is entirely one of chance, there being no possible means for the closest observer to detect in which pile the dealer places the odd colored chip. It is the custom of the game, however, for the guessman to ponder for some time before deciding which pile to select. This adds interest and excitement to the speculation. Finally he decides, and with his finger points to one of the piles. The dealer rolls the chips across the mat to the farther end. If the guess is right the side for which the guesser is acting scores one point. If the guess is wrong the tribe to which the dealer belongs scores a point, and the other side takes the innings-that is to say, the deal. John Towallis was captain of the Puyallup team, and now is the most popular man in the tribe on account of the remarkable victory of his side after the session of nearly a month, and also on account of the quantity and value of the pot. Capt. Jack, the leader of the unsuccessful Black River team, proved a thorough sport, for, in addition to his contribution to the stake of his tribe, he staked and lost his greatest treasennoes. The End of a Flying Machine

A sad accident lately happened to a flying machine at Sydney, N. S. W. The inventor did not accompany the machine on its trial trip, and as no one volunteered the machine was allowed How the Black River Indians were to go alone. The following account of its performance has been sent over: "Hissing and snorting, it slid along the tram for a distance of one hundred feet, when, having reached the end of the rails, instead of lifting its wings and floating gracefully across the harbor, it bumped against the rocks and toppled over on to the beach, part of it becoming submerged by the waves. Some of the hot cinders from the furnace came in contact with the light materials of which it was constructed and set them on fire and in a few moments a portion of the framework and the machinery were all that remained of this production of inventive genius. The manager explained that the trial was a failure because there was not sufficient wind to fill the sails, and no one had
