FORMATION OF HAIL. The Agency of Electricity in Making the

The formation of hail through electrical action, according to the new theory of Sig. Marangoni, is a very intersting, and even wonderful, process. The wind draws out a cloud into a long, parrow strip. In that form, owing to he great amount of surface exposed to the air, the cloud evaporates very rapidly, and rapid evaporation produces intense cold.

Dry particles of snow are then positive, a film of water is formed upon each snow particle and is instantly frozen into a layer of ice.

At this thickness its outer surface remains moist, the water not freezing so harge changes from negative to posiive, and the particle is repelled by the water-drops and driven to the outer parts of the cloud. Here the increased cold covers it with snow again, and electricity.

Repulsion is now once more changed for attraction, and the particle rushes back into the cloud, receiving upon its surface another film of water, which is turned into a second ice layer. zigzag through the cloud, piling up its alternate layers of snow and ice, until gravitation gains control and sends it, with a jingling crowd of its fellows, spinning to the ground.
