

NATURAL CONSEQUENCES.

Twenty days ago wheat was a little over 80 cents per bushel in Chicago, but now it is down to 73 cents. During the past month No. 1 California in Liverpool has held its own at 5s 8d to 5s 10d per cental. All through the flurry in the gambling Chicago markets it showed no tendency to go up higher in Liverpool. Silver has been steady all the time, however, advancing only as the price of wheat advanced in Liverpool. Wheat dropped 1/4 per cent in Liverpool on the 17th inst., and it is noticeable that bar silver fell 1/4 cent per ounce. The superficial goldbug papers that have been making some noise about the wheat flurry in Chicago, and who have sought to make a point in their favor, have not looked beyond the end of their noses. No person who has made any pretense to study the financial question will attempt to deny that the fall of silver really means an appreciation of gold, and that it must take less gold to buy the amount of silver necessary for the Liverpool merchant to buy a bushel of wheat or a pound of cotton. The American producer, taking his pay in gold, must necessarily get less of it, while the Indian and Argentine farmer gets the same for his product as he ever did. The depression in silver then cannot mean anything else but lower prices and dearer debts. Anything that the American farmer must export to sell, must also obey this natural decline with that of silver. Local products in local demand may not do this. Then if wheat, cotton and other cereals and products, which seek sale abroad, follow the decline in silver, (which means the same as the appreciation of gold), then lands must also follow. All these things are just as natural as water flowing down hill, or the tendency of the American woman to ape the sterner sex and go crazy over bicycles.

The Alliance Herald has changed from a four page, 7 col. paper to a twelve page 4 col. sheet. It has improved much in many respects.

Jacob S. Coxe's paper, Sound Money, has reached the Gazette's editorial desk. It is well printed and from a populist's standpoint, would be called well edited.

ELIJAH SMITH has ousted the Starback management of the Oregon Improvement Co., and will dominate the movements of the corporation the coming year.

The Portland Telegram has turned democratic again. No one notices seriously the opinions of a paper that twists and turns with every ebb and flow of the tide.

The Oregonian even admits the possibility of there being some fight in the silverites yet. The Oregonian's barometer evidently caught a few silver breezes that it had not looked for.

HENRY FALLING, the Portland banker, has been indicted for refusing to give the assessor facts relating to the inside affairs of the bank, as the law contemplates he shall do on demand of the proper officer.

The Scout, published at Union, Oregon, is getting out some finely illustrated editions. Jones Bros. have lately associated themselves with the old publisher, Mr. Chaney, and are evidently practical newspaper men.

HARRIET BECKER STOWE is living at the ripe old age of 84. She has seen great changes wrought in the United States—much grander and greater than her most sanguine expectations could have depicted when she wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

SENATOR MITCHELL feels badly no doubt. The Telegram, of demorepublico-populo-Oregonio-tailo leanings, begun a fight on him. Some newspapers as well as some people make asses of themselves without seeming to know it.

THE Cleveland convention is in session and the issue before it is that of silver. It is a significant fact that in electing a chairman of the committee on resolutions, the contest was between Congressman Robinson, of Pennsylvania, a gold standard man, and Congressman Tawney, of Minnesota, a silver man. The first vote stood a tie, but on the second ballot Robinson was chosen. Though it was claimed that the convention was not a platform-making affair, yet the committee on resolutions will recommend the adoption of the national republican platform of 1892. The minority will present a silver plank, however, and though they may be defeated, as the machinery of the club is and has been in the hands of the gold men, the silver men will make a grand showing.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung maladies. He hopes all sufferers will use his remedy as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Jan 11-w.

FULTON IS STRAIGHT.

After all the raving of the Oregonian and the Dolphites over this great victory in the state republican club convention, one fact as to one public man in Oregon still remains—Chas. W. Fulton of Astoria has pursued a straight and consistent course.

While he said nothing and was in court trying a case during the whole gathering, and was not called on to make a speech, he was counted with his friends and has made no compromises or alliances with the ring as against the people of this state. He has more friends today in Oregon than ever before in his life. There are other straight men in Oregon and the people know where to find them but there is none straighter than Charles Fulton.

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia and all diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

THE VICTORIOUS JAPS.

The mikado has instituted an "Imperial Order of the Kite," to be a sort of Japanese equivalent of the British Victoria cross.

The Japanese government, instead of presenting medals to the soldiers who participated in the war against China, is to give them excellent Swiss watches.

ONE consequence of the battle of the Yalu is the proposal made in Europe of establishing a naval Red Cross society, whose vessels, painted in some distinctive color, shall accompany hostile fleets and pick up the crews of vessels sunk in action.

The terror inspired by the Japanese armies in the east is greatly enhanced by the fact that they make no noise. They march with no bands, no drums beat reveille or tattoo, and in action the Japanese utter no cheers. The officers have a code of signals by whistling that serves to direct the movements of the troops.

FOR THE TRAINMEN.

THE Texas Central has the finest track and roadbed in the Lone Star state.

An effort will now be made to dig out the Silverton railroad in California. It is buried under snow.

SERVICE stripes are to be worn by the conductors and porters in the employ of the Wagner Palace Car company.

THE wives of railroad men and others interested in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen are about to organize a ladies' auxiliary to the brotherhood, similar to the ladies' auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

ON the Philadelphia division of the Pennsylvania railroad, boxes of tools, chiefly for the benefit of locomotive engineers who may have to disconnect the side rods of their engines, have been placed at a number of signal towers along the road.

When your heart pains you and unusual palpitation is frequent, accompanied sometimes with shortness of breath and low spirits you are suffering from a disordered state of the liver, digestion is imperfect and there is wind on the stomach. If allowed to remain the trouble will ultimately reach the kidneys and become dangerous to life. Steps should be taken to stay its progress on the appearance of the first symptoms. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm is especially adapted for disorders of this kind. Price $1 per bottle.

OUR ANCESTORS WERE HEROIC.

They Shed Their Blood Not Only on the Field of Honor.

The following extract from a letter written by Dr. Rush, of Philadelphia, published in New York, April 13, 1795, is reminiscent of the Spartan treatment to which our silling ancestors submitted themselves, in the primitive days of American medicine: "A disease called the pleurisy has proved fatal to many people in Philadelphia. It appears to be a continuation of the bilious remittent fever of last autumn, accompanied only with pleuritic symptoms, which symptoms are by no means unusual. It requires not only very copious bleeding, but daily purges with calomel and jalap to subdue it. By means of these remedies I have, out of upward of one hundred cases, lost only two patients, and they were in the last stages of the disorder when I saw them. I have in one case been forced to take one hundred and twenty ounces of blood at thirteen bleedings in eight days before the disease yielded, and in another case I have taken thirty ounces of blood at four bleedings in seventeen hours. The pulse in the last case was so low as scarcely to be perceptible. It rose in the most sensible manner after each bleeding. The patient, a delicate lady, is now out of danger. From observation I have long ago made, and which experience has lately confirmed, I am satisfied that when physicians are not almost uniformly successful in curing febrile diseases, they are under the influence of erroneous theories, or, if their theories be true, their practice is too feeble to overcome the disease."

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Care is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Care is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

FROM IDAHO.

EDITOR GAZETTE:

As I was writing a few letters I thought I would not overlook you, because some of the Heppner folks might want to know how we are getting along on the trail.

Bad "Shobe" sits in his saddle like a general, giving his orders to his command. He rides a horse that requires a step-ladder to get onto. Bad is now at Boise, however, which place we will reach in four or five days.

Ed Long is still doing the cooking, composed mostly of sour bread and beans, and growls some when he is called in the morning, and once in awhile says some strong things about the country and sheep driving in general.

Ed Sheldon, one of our boys, is night-herder, which place he fills acceptably.

Mr. Forsher is talking of going home after we get to Boise.

Yours truly,

H. T. VANDERPOOL.

EMMETTVILLE, Idaho, June 6, '95.

P. S.—After finishing my letter, we ran across Thos. Cannon who used to live at Heppner. He is one of Frosher's crew.

ODORLESS EVACUATOR.

Col. J. W. Redington finds the following in the Gazette. Perhaps some of our readers did not see it, and under the circumstances it is to be hoped that the paper will be excused from the unpardonable crime of reprinting it. The Col. starts out like this:

"The Only Heppner Gazette says: 'Ever since the early explorers crossed the muddy Missouri and climbed over the Rocky mountains, the enterprising fowl called the American skunk has kept up with the procession of pioneers, until he is now found in plentiful profusion as a regular institution in several localities of the far west. While he keeps over the township line and don't get to neighborly, he is a pretty bird to gaze on, with his tail standing straight up like the big black bearskin hat on a regimental drum-major. The latter is also sometimes called the regimental fool. But when a skunk gets into a fellows cabin perfume pops. Out in the Wall creek country the other night a Heppner herder was peacefully sleeping on his fragrant birch-bough bed in a cabin. Suddenly the dogs on the outside engaged in quite a snarl with something, and after considerable snapping the herder became aware that they had driven a good, big healthy American skunk onto the roof and through the hole which served as a flue. The skunk went rattling around through the cooking utensils, and every time the herder would yell at him to get out, he would let fly a dose of the only kind of ammunition he had. As he was injuring the sour dough and flour for the taste of any visitors who might come to the camp, and as he positively refused to evacuate the cabin, the herder was reluctantly compelled to shoot him right among the tin cup and fry-pan. The skunk died with all flags flying—or rather with all guns shooting. The herder didn't suffer very much. Principally because he has had the catarrh very bad for a long while."

The State Commander writes us from Lincoln, Neb., as follows: "After trying other medicines for what seemed to be a very obstinate cough in our two children, we tried Dr. King's New Discovery and at the end of two days the cough entirely left them. We will not be without it hereafter, as our experience proves that it will cure where all other remedies fail."—Signed, F. W. Stevens, State Com.—Why not give this great medicine a trial, as it is guaranteed, and trial bottles are free at the drug store of T. W. Ayers, Jr.

The vitality of the small horsefly after decapitation is as remarkable as that of the snake that has undergone the same process. He does not use his wings, if the beheading has been done neatly, so as not to injure him otherwise, but walks about, stopping now and then for a "dry wash," rubbing his legs together and cleaning his wings. If touched, he will side off. If blown upon he will cling tightly to avoid being carried away. This performance he will continue for a quarter of an hour or so.

Lobsters Milled by Eels. Capt. Asbury Adams, who has been connected with the United States fish commission for a number of years, and has had a large experience in hatching deep-sea fish at Ten Pound island and Wood's Hole, gave a talk on fish hatching before the Business Men's association the other evening, says a Gloucester (Mass.) dispatch to the Boston Herald. He said that last year the work of hatching lobster eggs was begun at Ten Pound island, and one hundred million young lobsters were hatched and liberated. He said he had seen eels suck eggs from lobsters in an aquarium and he had become convinced that the greater part of lobster spawn is destroyed in this manner.
