THE ADVANCE IN WOOL. Recent small advances in wool are commented upon by some of the administration papers, says the Spokane Review, the rise being attributed to a supposed improvement of conditions brought about by free trade. The advance is due to a rise in London, where prices have advanced 10 per cent. London merchants have notified their houses in the United States that American territory wools are wanted there, and prices have risen here, just as the price of wheat advances in this country when the price goes up in England. Nothing like the prices received under protection need be counted on, because the quotations here will be governed wholly by the foreign market. They will be the London price less the cost of transportation to that market. Under protection higher prices were paid for wool in this country than in Europe. THE GAZETTE'S three R's: Readable, reliable and republican. THE candidate for governor down in Kentucky is "the silver lining" of the democratic cloud. CALIFORNIA has no edge on Oregon, we have now had a full-fledged train robbery of our own. AN eastern paper says the democratic train of Kentucky is loaded down with gold. Yes, but how about the silver engineer? THE Florida Times-Union says the reason Cleveland recently refused the title of L. L. D. was because he could not use it for gun wads or bait. PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has been blessed by another baby girl, which arrived Sunday. This is Grover's third girl, and as yet no son to perpetuate the name. MRS. O'LEARY is dead. It was her cow with the crumpled horn that kicked over the lantern twenty-four years ago and brought about Chicago's $200,000,000 fire. THE Fourth of July was generally observed all over the state and was a grand success everywhere, notwithstanding our financial depression and political dissensions. THE Courier-Journal intimates that the democrats of Kentucky may loose control of the legislature. And then, oh then, what will become of the prospective Senator Carlisle? MAN is made in God's own image, so we are told. When we look about us it is rather hard to believe this; but when we come to ourselves it is easy to see that it must be so.—Boston Transcript. THE president and the bulk of his cabinet are away for their summer vacations, and the joke is that every department is improving in its financial condition and its routine business during their absence. CALIFORNIA has a new paper called "Nervo." This is very appropriate when we remember that California ships our salmon, apples, peaches, pears and prunes to eastern markets labeled as her own products. THE Monthly Oregonian of Portland, is one of the latest publications launched in this state. The first issue has appeared on our table and is well edited and neat in appearance. It is devoted mainly to the many resources of Oregon. SALEM defeated the expressed wishes of the people when they defeated the location of the branch insane asylum at Union, Oregon. Their next move will probably be to stop appropriations and force the re-location of the state schools and other institutions within the corporate limits of Salem. But this will not exist always. No, it would not be surprising should the next legislature make an effort to annul the constitution in this respect, and if this same selfish spirit continues to exist, Salem may some day wake up minus the capitol. A SOUTHERN Oregon paper remarks that Oscar Wilde is exercising on a treadmill in an English prison and Prof. M. V. Rork, late of Oregon, is making political speeches in Kentucky. Possibly some people may see, in this contrast in the condition of the two men, the difference between English and American justice. All of this is true, for if the charges made against Rork, the populist agitator, are half true he is a worse man than Wilde ever dared be.—Milton Eagle. THE friends of silver are not the friends of "worthless" or "cheap" money. They want silver just as it has been, as good as gold. After all the howl about its worthlessness the silver dollar still buys as much meat and bread and groceries as its yellow aristocratic brother does, and is far more popular with the common people.—Inter-Ocean. LONG CREEK. Called from the Eagle. Miss Anna Wade, of Heppner, is visiting relatives in this valley. V. O. Kelly arrived Monday from Heppner with freight for merchants of this city. W. M. Radio will turn off a large band of beef cattle this month, as well as a band of cows and calves. Peter Buick was in the city last Saturday, having just returned from a trip to Heppner, where he had gone with wool. Dr. Henderson departed Wednesday for Heppner to meet his mother, who comes from Mt. Vernon, Iowa, to make him a visit. Mrs. Dr. B. F. Vaughan, of Heppner, was a passenger on Tuesday's stage en route to Canyon City, where she goes to join her husband. John Cobb returned early this week from Lone, Morrow county, where he has been during the past three weeks working in alfalfa harvest for John Carey. Since gold was discovered in Grant county in 1862, the yield of the placer mines alone has been about $5,000,000. The output of but very few counties in the state will excel this. Tom Keeney returned Saturday from San Joaquin, California, where he has been for the past six months. He brought Pin Ear, Miss Dudley and Tampa back with him and will probably run them in the races here this week. TEAM WANTED.—I want to buy a good, gentle team of about 1200 pound horses. Also a good, second-hand wagon and harness and a gentle saddle pony. Have some good, young Short-horn bulls for sale; also fine poultry and eggs for hatching. Took first prize on my cattle and fowls at State fair last year. Call at the J. Q. Wilson place above Heppner. N. O. MARIS, 37-51. ELGIN THE ORATOR.—Hon. W. R. Ellis and wife returned last evening from Elgin, where Mr. Ellis delivered an oration on the Fourth. The following is a brief account as appeared in the Sun: "Independence day was celebrated with much enthusiasm at Elgin. There was a parade, headed by the Elgin brass band, and composed of a number of floats, citizens in carriages and the plug-uglies. Hon. W. R. Ellis, member of congress for the second Oregon district, delivered a fine oration. There were fireworks in the evening. A WOMAN'S CHARACTER.—A few issues since a little article appeared in the Gazette which is well worth the perusal of every man and woman, in fact every citizen of Heppner. And in view of some of the reports recently set afloat by some base minded individual, who is evidently one of the vilest of scoundrel mongers, we desire to reprint it and hope every man will carefully read it and then paste it in his hat where it will stare him in the face every day. It is as follows: "Remember this young man. Be careful what you say about a woman's character. Think how many years she has been building it, of the toils and privations endured, of wounds received, and let no suspicion follow her actions. The purity of the woman is the salvation of the race, the hope of greatness and the redemption of man. Wipe out her purity and the man stinks beneath the wave of despair, without a star to guide his life into the channel of safety. Think then before you speak, and remember that any hog can root up the fairest flower that ever grew; so the vilest man can ruin the purest woman's character. Miss Amy Curran departs today for Corvallis, Oregon, to visit her grandmother. Dave McAtee and family have returned from Fossil. Dave reports a very pleasant time over there on the Fourth. B. F. Swaggart returned last evening from the upper country, where he has been pushing the sale of his squirrel poison. Joe Cummings, accompanied by his wife, spent the Fourth with his father-in-law, G. W. Smith, of Lexington. He departed for his home at Wallula yesterday.

On Peary's Expedition. Perfect Reliance Was Placed in Paine's Celery Compound.

"When I was selected by Lieut. Peary to accompany him on his trip to the Arctic regions to try and find a way to the north pole," says Mr. James W. Davidson in the Fourth Estate, "it was partly because of my strong, healthy constitution, and his belief that I could endure the fatigue and danger incident to the trip. I had been associated with him as his business manager on his lecturing tour, and was on terms of the greatest intimacy with him. "When the ship Falcon left New York on her trip northwards it had among the stores several cases of Paine's Celery Compound. The reputation of that medicine was well established, so that it was the most natural thing in the world that the members of the party, and they comprised men from nearly every walk in life, from common sailors to men of science, should desire to use it. "The record of our perilous trip to Camp Annanary is too well known to need repetition. Once in camp we naturally took an inventory of our possessions, and I was exceedingly glad to find Paine's Celery Compound. The medicine chest was open to all, and we were free to take from it what we thought advisable. I, in company with several others, selected some of the compound taking a bottle of it to my cabin, knowing that it would be handy when wanted. Nor was I mistaken, for the excessive cold weather soon had its effects, and I began to be troubled in a number of ways. In every case whenever I felt the slightest indisposition, I used the compound and found relief. "One thing noticeable in the Arctic region was that the cold weather made us all exceedingly nervous. We became irritable and cross. Our nerves were all unstrung, and it naturally affected our health. I talked the matter over with some of the others, and made up my mind that possibly the celery compound would be beneficial, for I knew that it was used for nervous disorders at home. Well, sir, we tried it, and I must say that it helped every one of us. "When the long night of six months came on and we were in darkness, we found that the effects were very depressing. Imagine, if you can, living for six months in darkness such as occurs here every night, and you can readily understand how we were situated. It is a wonder that some of us did not go mad. We had not very much to divert our attention, and the effort was something like solitary confinement in a dark cell. "I have used Paine's Celery Compound for a dozen ills such as a person is liable to have at any time, and especially in that desolate country. It has always helped me, and I should be pleased to have more of it should I go north again. "I do not know of any one thing that I can say more of than Paine's Celery Compound. It certainly is a great medicine, and I am an advocate of it." CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEESHIPS. Ellis and Hermann Will Both Receive Proper Recognition in the Next House. The Washington correspondent of the Portland Sun has the following to say of Congressmen Hermann and Ellis: Unless all precedents are overruled in the next congress, Representative Hermann, of Oregon, will be at the head of the river and harbor appropriation committee. His long service and the fact that he is the ranking republican on the committee at the present time entitles him to the place. If Tom Reed is speaker—and that is pretty nearly an accepted fact—Hermann will have that place and also one on almost any other committee he may select. Ellis, too, stands well for committee appointments, for, although he is only a one-term man as yet, there were not so very many republican representatives in the 53rd congress who were re-elected to the 54th. Mr. Hermann is also a member of the committee on war claims, and Mr. Ellis did good work during the last congress as a member of the committee on public lands, and also of the committee on expenditures in the post-office department. It would be a commendation devoutly to be wished if Mr. Ellis could secure the chairmanship of the public land committee, one that is of so much importance to the people of Oregon and Washington, but there is no likelihood of this at the present time, as he is outranked on that committee by three republican members, older in service, who were re-elected: John F. Lacey, of Iowa; Irving P. Wanger, of Pennsylvania; and George D. Meiklejohn of Nebraska. TO CONSUMPTIVES. CAPTAIN PAUL WEBB KILLED. The Nerry Man Who Twice Went Over the Falls at Oregon City Loses His Life at Coeur d'Alene. COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, July 4. Captain Paul Webb lost his life here today in an attempt to ride his submarine boat or barrel down a 900-foot log chute. It is believed his back was broken. About 500 people witnessed the descent into Lake Coeur d'Alene, which took place at Rosen's log camp, eight miles up the lake. On the arrival of the boats, at 4:30, a log was sent down as a test. It came like a flash of lightning. A mild rain was falling, which gave the chute a smoothness that added momentum to anything coming down it. The log passed down safely, and Webb's marine boat had been sent down in the forenoon with a success that gratified the hazardous man who, at 5 o'clock, was placed within the boat for his last ride. The affair was 6 feet 6 inches long, 2 feet in diameter and cone-shaped. There was a strip of sheeting lengthwise on the barrel to make it slide smoothly and prevent its turning over too frequently. On the inside it was upholstered with carpets and rubber fixtures to strap a man in such a way that the barrel could strike on end in a 100 foot fall and not injure the occupant. Webb, when placed in the barrel, neglected to take all the precautions his machine offered for safety. He was confident as they tucked him in the fatal barrel. He told his manager to have whistles blown when he struck the water. The signal was given, and the barrel ran down the chute wildly. Two-thirds of the way down was a slight raise in the incline. Here the barrel jumped 30 feet in the air, striking the ground on end then rolling 40 feet farther down the hill. Many persons on the boat turned their heads with horror. Some fainted, as all feared instant death to Webb. When the barrel was opened, Webb was jammed closely into the end. He was conscious and talked freely. Dr. Russell, of Spokane, examined him and pronounced his spinal column broken. A tug was procured, and the unfortunate man hurried to Coeur d'Alene and then to Spokane, where he died at 11 o'clock. Webb was a photographer at McMinville, Or., his real name being James Stewart. Captain Paul Webb was a factitious name assumed for professional reasons. He was a cousin of Senator Stewart of Nevada. LATER—Since writing the above it is learned that Webb still lives. Although the doctors say his back is broken in two places, he clings to life with wonderful tenacity, and physicians now say he has a fighting show for life. Webb is quite rational, and speaks of recovering as though death was not to be considered. A Household Treasure. D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family have always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at T. W. Ayers, Jr., Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1. THE ROBBED LEGISLATOR.—Hon. H. V. Gates stopped off here a few hours yesterday, says last Thursday's Statesman, on his way home to Hillsboro after a business sojourn at Klamath Falls. Mr. Gates was one of the ablest and wittiest members of the last legislature and his friends are having lots of fun with him about his being robbed on the Ager-Klamath stage lately, when he was forced to cut open the mail bags with the stage driver's pocket knife. He feels a little chagrined, too, about that knife. He had one of his own but told the robber he had none and if the driver had done likewise the robber would have been forced to some other expedient. Mr. Gates said he had sufficient amusement quizzing the robber during their long wait to pay him for the $2 15 he lost. Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50c. T. W. Ayers, Jr. Wm.
