

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETINGS

While it is true that there has never been a time in the history of this country when there was exhibited so strong a disposition to break away from what are called the puritan customs and observances of early days, it is equally true that there was never a time when the forces of the Christian church were so aggressive as they are today.

Nor does this movement lie along the lines of church work alone, but in all of these gatherings Christian citizenship plays quite as important a part as church activity. It is, however, a union of church and state that is, even in America, quite permissible.

It is usually the case that extremes meet and go together. Times of disloyalty produce the brightest types of patriotism, and periods when the immoral forces seem dominant furnish the brightest examples of purity of character.

THE HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION

It is now pretty well settled that the homestead exemption act of 1893, is invalid by reason of a change made in the act in one house which was never acquiesced in by the other.

SPEAKING of the late boat race, the Commercial Advertiser says: "Cornell was beaten and then the Leander crew took the pains to insult their guests. There has never been a race in England in which Americans have taken part but has led to bitterness of feeling.

THERE is virtue in the protest of San Francisco's clergy against a revival of sensational journalism's orgies over the Durrant case, but it is likely to be unavailing. It was not a desire to promote wickedness that prompted the San Francisco newspapers to make slop-buckets of themselves in reporting the tragedies and the preliminary examination of the accused man.

The attorney general of Texas has rendered a decision that prize fighting is illegal in that state, and that the law must be enforced. But Dallas people are said to entertain no fear of the coming fight being prevented.

ACCORDING to all reliable reports, business for the mid-summer months was never better over the United States than at the present. Exports are unusually heavy for July. More industries are being established than were under way one, two or three years ago in July.

ONE thing is quite certain, the mono-metallists who hoped to "demolish" the arguments of Mr. Harvey, have come to the conclusion that either Mr. Harr is not sufficiently posted in the scientific principles of the monetary question, or that the debate should not at all have been attempted.
