DESPISED BY CATS. The Magple Is a Foe That Is Feared by

The pets of the house were three ery large, black cats, great favorites, nensely spoiled, and very dignified and lazy. As we regarded the Australian magpie somewhat scornfully dally-ing with his dinner, we saw one of these solemn black monsters advancing at its usual dignified pace toward him. A cry arose from the assembled family, says the National Review: "Oh, Tigris will kill the magpie." The head of the family desired to wait developments. There was a painful suspense of breath as we watched the shaggy black Persian advancing on the plate and magpie with a steady, unhurried step. The magpie stood aside from the plate, and with head well on one side, watched the oncoming robber. There was a world of meaning in the glance of that wicked gray eye, but it was all lost on the dignified composure of the Persian, who without deigning to look at the magpie, proceed to sniff at the contents of the plate.

The bird, motionless as a statue, waited till the black whiskers came inquiringly over the edge of the plate; then he made one sudden hop, lunged a man is doing well, do not tear him down. once, with a lightning stroke of his All residents should be partners-not beak, at the beautiful glossy black opponents. NOT DAME FORTUNE'S WHEEL. Just the Same

It was all about a bicycle and it was not an 1895 model either, nor was it the steed of bloomery beauty. It was a wheel that would have made excellent its kind in existence.

These facts, however, made little lifference to the tow-haired urchin who had come into possession of it, and he was the hero of the hour among his companions, who, after the manner of all sycophants, praised his somewhat toilsome and serpentine method of locomotion.

All but a red-headed, freckle-faced lad, plainly the Ishmaelite of the community, says the Chicago Tribune. "Say, Billy, why don't you get a hump on yer?" he yelled derisively. 'Are ye trainin fu th' fat man's race?' "Huh, mebbe ye think you could
