IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

WORK IN A SWEAT SHOP. low It Is Conducted in Chicago-The Miserable Wages Paid.

The Chicago sweat shop is a place where, separate from the tailoring o clothing warehouse, a "sweater" (middleman) assembles journeymen tailors and needlewomen, to work under his supervision. He takes a cheap room outside the dear and crowded business center, and within the neighborhood where the work people live. This is rent saved to the employer and time and travel to the employed. The men can and do work more hours than was possible under the centralized system, and their wives and children can help, especially when, as is often done, the garments are taken home to "finish." (Even the very young can pull out the basting threads.) This "finishing" is what remains undone after the machine has done its work, and consists of "felling" the waist and leg-end of trousers (paid at 1% cents a pair), and, in short, all the "felling" necessary on every gar-ment of any kind. For this service, at the prices paid, they cannot, according to Scribner, earn more than 25 cents to 40 cents a day, and the work is largely done by Italian, Polish and Bohemian women and girls.

The entire number of persons employed in these vocations may be stated at 5,000 men (of whom 800 are Jews), and from 20,000 to 23,000 women and children. The wages are reckoned by "piecework," and (outside the "finishing") run about as follows: Girls, handsewers, earn nothing for the first month, then as unskilled workers they get $1 to $1.50 a week, $3 a week, and as skilled workers, $6 a week. The first named class constitute 50 per cent. of all, the second 30 per cent. and the last 20 per cent. In the general work men are only employed to do buttonholing and pressing, and their earnings are as follows: "Pressers," $8 to $12 a week; 'underpressers," $4 to $7. Cloak opertors earn $8 to $12 a week. Four-fifths of the sewing machines are furnished by the "sweaters" (middlemen); also needles, thread and wax.

AN ODD CREATURE.

The Laughing Jackass and Its Peculiar The great oddity at the Golden Gate bark, San Francisco, is the laughing ackass, which has an apartment all to nimself. He doesn't look a bit like a humorist, but he looks so homely and cocks his head in such a strangely solemn way that everybody laughs at eeing him. Some of the park employes caught a slim little snake two eet long one afternoon and it was thrown alive into the laughing jackass' big cage. The bird pounced on the snake with a thrill of joy in his heart, and, grabbing it behind the head, he quickly thrashed the life out of it gainst the sides of the cage.

Then he started in at the snake's head and swallowed it all. After giving a few extra swallows of satisfaction he expressed his thanks with a hoarse. loud "Ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha!" that was about as musical as his physiognomy is beautiful. Superintendent Me-Laren was visibly touched by the lonely bird's gratitude for an act of kindness. Next tesnakes the laughing jack-ass likes lize its. As the park funds hard-ly warrant getting him a daily supply of delicious reptiles he usually has to put up with chunks of fresh meat and

In Australia, where laughing jackasses generally do as they please, they make constant war on snakes. The bird will pounce down on one like a the fall and will no sooner strike the ground than the laughing jackass is thrashing it about preparatory to a speedy meal. The bird is there often called the "squatter's clock," because at six o'clock every evening they everywhere set up a concert of "Ha! ha! ha!"

BRAIN WORK AT NIGHT. Unless It Is Imperative It Should Be Avoided.

To the imaginative young writer there is a fascination about the quietude away. of uninterrupted night work until much of its mischief has been done. If he ans a fixed daily occupation, or is popular among his friends, the night offers. the best chance for continued applica-Herald of Health. While by working during the day per distently and deliberately an enormouamount of copy can be thrown off, that produced after midnight absorbs the best part of the writer's vitality. When he should be in the prime of his faculties he is nervous, suffers from insomnia, and his overtaxed nervous system connot rest, even in artificial siumber. The natural temptation is to apply the whip of stimulation to the jaded brain; but this is dangerous, and at the best only a transient and uncertain emedy. The imagination answers fit fully to this kind of foreing, the nexlay's critical judgment of the rounit dimest certainly will be unfavorable and the mental excitement thus palme will probably be extravagant. Try to sustain the brain under such stress rather than to excite it.

SQUELCHING A DUDE.

A Chicago Ex-Judge Performs the Job with Great Success.

One day not long ago on an Illinois Central suburban train a woman entered the car and looked around for a seat, says the Chicago Tribune. There was but one vacant, and that was in one of the little four-seat compartments in the middle of the car. In this compartment were seated three people. Next to the window and facing the engine was an ex-judge who lives at Hyde Park Center. He is a large, portly old gentleman, quite as dignified in every-day life as when upon the beach. I don't remember who sat beside him. Opposite him sata slim young fellow who lives in that aristocratic and exclusive neighborhood known as Kenwood. He is a dude of the "would-be" variety, and is, or was, studying for the ministry. He had two or three small parcels in the scat beside him. The woman paused in the aisle opposite this seat and looked at the parcels and then at the young man from Kenwood in a mildly suggestive sort of way. Prosumably his thoughts were fixed on things heavenly. At any rate he took not the slightest notice of the woman. Then the woman, after looking around the car and seeing no other seat, asked the young man if
