Improbable Stories of Great English Legacies.

An Old Letter That Reveals the Scurril. ous Scheme Employed by Sharks in This Country for Duping Credulous Americans

Some recent romantic tales about imnense English estates which belong to mense English estates which belong to American heirs suggest republication SERPENT'S jamin twenty-six years ago, says the Chicago Herald. Following is the great of an opinion written by Judah P. Benlawyer's letter:

to the public against a scheme of practiced in the United States?

"Since my call to the English bar hundreds of letters have reached me from Louisiana and other parts of the union, written by persons, many of whom are educated and intelligent, making inquiries relative to estates represented as existing in this country unclaimed and awaiting the appearance of heirs residing in America. In every instance that has come to my knowledge the statements are false, and evidently made for the purpose of defrauding parties out of sums, large or small, under pretext of paying the costs of records, copies, etc., said to be necessary for the assertion of the pre-

"One claim may be selected as an example. A banker by the name of James Wood died in Gloucester in the year 1836, leaving a fortune of about $800,000. His will was the subject of much litigation, but finally decided to be valid, and the estate was ordered to be divided among the legatees under a decision of the house of lords in 1847. Anyone desirous of having particulars of the litigation can trace it through the different charts, as follows: 1. In the prerogative court of Canterbury (Canterbury) reported in 2 Curteiss, p. 82. 2. On appeal to the privy council in 2 'Moore's Privy Council Cases,' at p. 335; and 3. In the house of lords; in the case entitled 'The Corporation of Gloucester vs. Osborne,' 1 'House of PORTLAND, OREGON Lords Cases, 'p. 272. Although his estate has thus been finally settled and distributed for more than twenty years, I do not at all exaggerate in stating that not a month passes without my receiving one or more letters from persons who are approached by some pretended agent of some imaginary great firm of London solicitors engaged in seeking heirs of the great intestate banker, James Wood, whose fortune, amounting to £10,000,000, is lying in the Bank of England awaiting a claimant.

"The usual mode of proceeding adopted is to propose to undertake the busi-ness free of expense, the proposer to receiver only a share of what may be recovered. This seems so reasonable that in most cases the dupe readily swallows the bait. A short time afterward he is informed that all inquiries and researches have resulted favorably, and that nothing is wanted to insure success except the cost of a few copies of records and other papers, and that the proposer, having already incurred great expense in conducting the necesies and researches, is left without resources at the very moment when a few pounds would suffice to secure the fruits of his labors and expen-Many are the victims from whom sums varying 20 to £500 have been thus extracted, and the number of persons engaged in this system most be very great, and the sums received by them very considerable, if at all in proportion to the number of letters received here on the subject. Many thousands of pounds are known to have been expended by those who could ill afford to bear the loss in the pursuit of the great Jennings estate; and some of those who have spent money in this way have actually been deluded into writing to me their convictions that they were entitled to dislodge the present duke of Mariborough from the Blenheim castle, by virtue of their descent from the famous Duchess Sarah Jennings. Most of the persons who are duped are ignorant on two points, which, in nearly every instance, would satisfy them at once of the utter folly of the hopes they indulge. The first is that an alien cannot be an heir in England when there is no will and that he cannot take real estate even if left to him by will. The second is that in England estates devolve upon the eldest son alone, and on his eldest son in succession, and are not divided in shares among all children as in Louisiana and other states. Yet nothing is more common than for persons to assert heirship to the supposed shares of younger brothers and sisters, or to claim as natives of the United States heirship to Englishmen who had left no wills.

"In the hope that this exposure will be of some use to my fellow citizens, in whose welfare I retain the deepest interest, and may protect them to some extent from the sharpers who are plundering them, I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant, "J. P. BENZAMIN."

carried from St. Peter's into the vatican he was tremulous with agitation. The case of the Canadian premier's death at Windsorwas at once recalled, and there is always something soothing to the pope in anything which connects, as the queen's and his own jubilee did, the court of Rome and the court of Eng-land. The fact is that the figure of the queen of England has always held a romantic corner in the heart of Leo XIII. The queen was then-and has always remained in his memory — a young woman, with the prestige of being not only the queen of England, but the head of a formidable church, when the nuncio saw her at the court of King Leopold in Brussels. Once again he saw her in her own London at a state reception, at which, however, he was not specially presented to her. A. W. PATTERSON, Agent for Morrow County, Heppner, Oregon. That was in the month of February, 1846-a month which he spent in London, for the first two days as the guest of the marquis of Lisbon, the Brazilian minister, who accompanied him from Brussels to London, and afterward in apartments in one of the streets of Picendilly, the name of which he cannot recall. Indeed, the only house except Buckingham palace and the house of commons which he can be certain that he visited is the Cambridge house of old days in Piccadilly, whither he was taken by the Austrian ambassador to a recep-tion given by Lady Palmerston, and any member of the Naval and Military club who explains himself in Rome may count on a return of hospitality at the vatican, and a talk with the pontiffthe only pontiff who has ever been there—about Piccadilly. These remin-iscences are gathered from such a talk, and they show how inauthentic are the oft-repeated paragraphs about the fu-ture pontiff's intimacy with her majesty and his stay at Windsor castle, which, as a matter of fact, he has never seen
