

UNTOLD MISERY
FROM RHEUMATISM
C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphia. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

COUNTY JUDGE FINED.—J. M. Chiles, county judge of Josephine county, who was indicted by the grand jury at the last term of court, had his trial recently before Judge Hanna, in the circuit court in this city, says an Oregonian dispatch. A jury was secured after much difficulty, and the case was given to it about 6 o'clock last night, the trial having taken the entire day. The case is that in which Judge Chiles is charged with buying county warrants for less than their face value, contrary to law. The jury was out all night, and brought in a verdict at 9:30 o'clock, finding the judge guilty as charged. The law makes the penalty in such cases a fine of not less than $100 or more than $500. The court has set Apr. 23 as the time at which sentence will be passed upon the defendant.

If asked the question "Have you got a stomach?" it would be safe on general principles, to answer "Yes." But, if you are sure of it; that is, if you ever feel any distress after eating or any pains of whatever description in the region of the stomach, you have got something more than an ordinary stomach; in other words, you have got a diseased stomach. The stomach is a powerful muscle, and the proper remedy for a tired muscle is rest. Try the Shaker Digestive Cordial, for this product not only contains digested food, which will nourish the system, without any work on the part of the diseased organ, but it aids the digestion of other foods as well. You can test its value in your case for the trifling sum of 10 cents. Sample bottles at this price are carried by all druggists.

Laxative is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

POLITICS.—FRANKLIN WATER.—Hon. Chas. Hilton of Gilliam county was defeated for delegate to the county convention in his home precinct of Crown Hook, a precinct having about 20 republican votes. At the state convention he was elected to the national convention. Hon. E. L. Smith of Wasco county was selected for delegate to the county convention in his home precinct of Hood River, but the county convention sent him as a delegate to the state convention, and the state convention nominated him for presidential elector.—Fossil Journal.

How they got to the state convention is unexplained.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION.—The third semi-annual convention of the Morrow County Women's Christian Temperance Union is now in session in this city, having convened yesterday morning. The program as published in a recent issue of the Gazette is being carried out. Last evening's entertainment at the M. E. church, South, was largely attended. The session was in charge of the local president, Mrs. Drew, who in a very appropriate and pleasing manner introduced Mrs. Narcissa W. Kinney, of Astoria, state president of the W. C. T. U. who delivered her lecture on "The Demand of the Century." Mrs. Kinney is a very forcible, logical and entertaining speaker, and held the close attention of the large audience for more than one hour. Appropriate vocal music was also one of the features of the evening's entertainment.

Advertisements Through the Papers.
A Pinkerton detective is traveling through the country hunting a criminal, says the E. O. He uses the newspapers to advertise his mission, so the criminal will be fully advised as to the detective's whereabouts, as shown by an item in The Dalles Chronicle:

"Mr. J. H. Law, a Pinkerton detective, is in the city en route to Heppner. He is trying to locate the murderer, Wolf, who killed his sweetheart something over a year ago, while she was going to church in Mt. Tabor. The shot was instantly fatal. She fell to the sidewalk dead. The murder was done through jealousy. Wolf escaped and there is a reward of $1000 for his capture. Mr. Law believes he is now a Heppner."

Charley Jones, the well-known "old-timer" in the tonorial line, has again located in Heppner, having purchased Green Mathews' shop. Minor building opposite the city hotel. Charley will appreciate a call when in town.

Nerves are weak, many people say, and yet they do not seem to know that they are literally starving their nerves. Weak, pale, thin blood cannot give proper sustenance—that is why you are nervous, tired, exhausted. The cure for this condition is to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, faithfully, and the rich, red blood, which it makes, will soon feed the nerves the elements of true strength they require; they will cease their agitation—and being under the control instead of controlling the brain and body. Read Miss Bartley's letter:
"I want to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. My health has been very poor for three years, due to trouble with my

I was nervous, had pains in my back. I cannot tell what I suffered. My eyesight became affected and I was so despondent I did not have any interest in life. I had two physicians, but my complaints became worse. I was told that I was affected with Bright's disease. A relative urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I did so and in a short time I began to notice a change in my condition. Things began to appear brighter, my eyes improved and

A STATEMENT.
In consequence of the supposed detailed accounts in the Portland papers, of my case which was recently called for trial in this city, I deem it necessary to interpose at this juncture in my own behalf. These windy organs are supposed to give an impartial report of all such proceedings, but in this instance they have fallen far short of the mark. If the contents of these articles was wholly true, the writer of this epistle would then be void of all principle. The affair is indeed an unpleasant one and while I am compelled to suffer from the effects of this gross injustice, wrought upon me by these heartless heralds, it is not my desire to attempt to wrong her who posed as my opponent; and at this time I seize the opportunity to state that she is pure and good except for her uncomprehending jealousy by which she was prompted to do things which would not have been done under other circumstances.

The suit was not contested by her, but by parties who have a craving and malice, as many have, to interfere with other parties' affairs and happiness. The articles are a fabrication, the writer is a prevaricator and guilty of wilful misrepresentation. H. T. BAILEY.

It Might Have Been Red Ink.
A certain actor who wished to introduce innovations into "Hamlet" proposed to play the part of the Danish prince in a red cloak, which intention he communicated to Sir Henry Irving, who said: "Very well; I do not see anything shocking in that." "But is it right?" inquired the interlocutor. "I dare say it is," replied Irving. "Red was the color of mourning of the royal house of Denmark." "But how do you get over this?" persisted the other, quoting the words: "Tis not alone my lady's coat, good mother." "Well," replied the Shakespearean, calmly, "I suppose there is such a thing as red ink, is there not?"
