A WOOL MARKET.
PENDLETON

This has become an established market for Eastern Oregon, Washington and Idaho wools. Last season three million pounds were received here by rail from Huntington, Baker City, Heppner, Arlington, and from Yakima, Spokane, Lewiston, Walla Walla and intermediate stations.

Low freight rates are given on shipments to Pendleton for scouring and packing in transit. Many of the leading buyers make this place headquarters, and all large operators frequently visit Pendleton warehouses. As a market this place is equalled only by The Dalles in quantity of wool which attracts competition, with this advantage:

From no point in the Northwest, Portland included, is wool shipped East at less expense than from Pendleton.

Water competition has not afforded sufficiently low rates upon wool in the grease and dirt, to equal the lower expense incurred by shipping only clean, scoured wool from Pendleton.

Owing to this fact Pendleton buyers are enabled to pay as much or more for wool at this point than is averaged at other places having reputations as "high markets," based upon exceptional sales of fancy lots of light wools. Considering character of wool, and shrinkage, it may safely be claimed that the average sales in Pendleton

Net the Grower more Cash for the same amount of wool than can be obtained in any other Market in the State.

THE BEST
SPRING MEDICINE

is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR—don't forget to take it. The Liver gets sluggish during the Winter, just like all nature, and the system becomes choked up by the accumulated waste, which brings on Malaria, Fever and Ague and Rheumatism. You want to wake up your Liver now, but be sure you take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR to do it. It also regulates the Liver—keeps it properly at work, when your system will be free from poison and the whole body invigorated.

You get THE BEST BLOOD when your system is in A1 condition, and that will only be when the Liver is kept active. Try a Liver Remedy once and note the difference. But take only SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR—it is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR which makes the difference. Take it in powder or in liquid already prepared, or make a tea of the powder; but take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. You'll find the RED Z on every package. Look for it.

Fits Cured

From U.S. Journal of Medicine
Prof. W. H. Pecke, who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any living Physician; his success is astonishing. We have heard of cases of 20 years' standing cured by him. He publishes a valuable work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his absolute cure, free to any sufferers who may send their P. O. and Express address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Prof. W. H. PECKE, P. D., 4 Cedar St., New York

How She Spelled It.

Everyone knows how to spell "hard water" with three letters, but probably some readers would be puzzled to spell "yesterday" with six. A Cincinnati girl could tell them how, according to the Enquirer.

She does not yet go to school, but is taught by her mother at home. The other night her father was hearing her spell. One word after another was successfully disposed of, and then he said:

"Now, Annie, I am going to give you a hard one. If you spell it correctly I'll bring you some candy. How do you spell 'yesterday?'"

It was a hard one. Annie thought of the candy, and just then her eye caught the calendar hanging against the wall. Then she answered, with a smile of triumph: "F-r-i, yester, d-a-y, day, yesterday."

Floral Tracery on Metal.

By chance it has been discovered that even the most delicate tracery of the petals of flowers can be reproduced in metal. During the trial of a new fuse the other day a small leaf fell between a dynamite cartridge and an iron block on which the cartridge was fired. As a result, a perfect imprint of the leaf was left on the iron.

THE COUNTY W. C. T. U.

The third convention of the Morrow County Women's Christian Temperance Union, was held on Thursday and Friat this place, and will long be remembered with pleasure by those who attended.

The presence of Mrs. Kinney, state president, who then made her first visit to Heppner, was a source of constant delight and profit to more inexperienced workers present. This gifted woman has given many years to this work, has traveled extensively and been associated with Miss Willard and other prominent leaders and is herself eminently fitted to lead in a meeting of this kind.

Our county officers, on the whole, feel that they have made considerable progress in temperance work. The past half year has been hard, financially, but the Union has been able to hold its own and is now out of debt. They are grateful for many favors from those who, if not themselves interested in the work, have at least shown much kindness to the workers. There is a very hopeful spirit manifest for the coming year as the movement here is quietly gaining strength.

The next meeting will be in September, and it was decided to hold these conventions once a year instead of semi-annually.

The following were elected as officers and superintendents:

President, Mrs. Mattie Smead.

Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. H. F. Briggs.

Recording Secretary, Miss Alice Glasscock.

Treasurer, Mrs. Celestine Rush.

Supt. of Evangelistic Work, Mrs. Alice McNay.

Supt. Sabbath Observance, Mrs. E. E. Lacy.

Supt. Press Work, Mrs. Cordilla Ashbaugh.

Supt. Narcotics, Mrs. M. L. Oney.

Supt. Medal Contest, Mrs. Mamie Brown.

Supt. Scientific Temperance Instruction, Mrs. Maud Shipley.

Supt. of Literature, Mrs. H. F. Briggs

The following resolutions were adopted:

Most gratefully we acknowledge the goodness of God, in the increase of temperance interest in this county and state, and we hereby dedicate ourselves anew to this work during the coming year, humbly asking our Heavenly Father to accept the consecration; and hereby

Resolve 1st, That we reaffirm our belief in total abstinance for the citizen, and prohibition for the state; praying the time may soon come when such principles will be adopted and practiced by all the citizens of our beautiful state. Realizing the need of earnest effort,

Resolved 2d That we strive to increase the number of Unions, with awakened interest in the different lines of work; especially temperance teaching in the Sabbath schools, public schools, and the organizing of Loyal Temperance Legions wherever it may be practicable; and

Resolved 3d, That we heartily thank those who have kindly contributed to the success of our convention, by addresses, readings, and choice music; also to the pastors who aided us, and opened their churches for our meetings; and particularly to our Gazette friends who have so cheerfully given space for our notices.

Committee { MRS. ACHSAH DREW, MRS. MATTIE SMEAD, MRS. MAE MINOR.

MR. SALING'S ADDRESS.

MY FRIENDS:

I am asked to speak to you on a subject this evening that to my mind is one of the most essential, among many of the reform movements of the day. There are comparatively few of us that stop to consider the wonderful influence exerted upon the world by the literature of today, and especially upon the young and flexible minds of the coming men and women. Nor do parents often realize the early age at which first impressions are made. The mind of the child is a pure white roll upon which may be scrolled the character that is to govern the future citizen of our land. Could we but realize this how careful we would be. Mistakes here cannot be corrected, but impressions upon this roll remain in the same brilliant or obscure colors throughout all time. Parents and those having the sacred trust of the youthful mind remember, that you are dealing with a God-given responsibility, the greatest of all his handiwork, that which never dies, that which distinguishes man from the brute creation. Nor do we often realize at what an early age the impressions may be made, or perhaps we had better say, are made, for the inquiring little mind begins when but a prattler to store away the lore of this world, and needs direction alone, not stuffing.

An eminent divine once said, "Give me a child till he is seven years old, then you may take him for the remainder of his life." This great cardinal understood the value of early impressions, while I do not believe that the channel of life can not be changed after that date, yet those early impressions are the most fixed and are in reality the foundation stones upon which character is builded.

How shall this apply to our subject? Because in this age of learning, scratching and reading, among all of the environments that tend directly to mold and shape the youthful mind, there is none greater than the literature found in the home. We often hear the old adage "a man is known by the company he keeps," and while we cannot deny the truth of this, a better index to the real character of a man is the literature he reads or the works of art he admires, because he is largely what his reading makes him. In connection with the old saying above mentioned we often hear the remark that "water seeks its level." While this is true of men in their choice of companions it is just as true in their choice of reading.

Go into the house of any man, woman or child, take note of the literature there, and you have a true index to his inner being.

Literature is the food of the mind and cannot fail of being affected by the quality of the literature read. Realizing this influence upon the mature mind, what may be the influence upon after life of a simple, teachable child. We speak of those who read between the lines as though 'twere an accomplishment granted only to the learned and wise, but my experience and observation has led me to believe that there is none more adept in searching hidden meaning than the youthful, unprejudiced mind before it is ruined by trashy reading.

Then how shall we make a wise choice in the selection of our reading, and for those depending upon us for instruction and guidance? By the simple rule by which we shall all be judged, "By their fruits ye shall know them" No mind is capable of producing greater than itself. That mind inspired with holy motives essaying to place before the world a literary production, gives to that production the inspiration of his mind, and we shall find a holy atmosphere throughout. But the work of an unholy mind, filled with base and dangerous thought, will partake of the same nature as the source from which it springs. Therefore study the inspiration, study the motives, read carefully between the lines. What is the character of our hero? Is it a fit pattern for youthful inspiration? If not, though it be embellished with the finest figures known to world of letters, its influence is not for good. In the selection of reading for the young, undeveloped mind, select that which they crave, that which they will have, that which gives them an inspiration and excites them to activity. How many people there are in the world that are making a serious blunder. They realize the danger of vicious reading and are drawing the line at the wrong place. They banish from their homes all books, papers, etc., that they term exciting and wonder why the young minds of the household steadily refuse to read the dictionary and encyclopedia furnished them. They finally come to the conclusion that people are degenerating and give up in despair. The young, active mind will have that which excites and moves to activity. It is only natural and not a sign of weakness. And do not think there is no inspiration to pure literature. Not enough importance is attached to the first reading given to the child. This desire for soul stirring reading should be gratified by a wise selection, that the character of the child, being molded and fashioned by its reading, may develop into useful manhood and womanhood. Let the inspiration be strong as it may, but let it tend to broaden the vision, develop moral strength and elevate the walk of life.

We can not over estimate the terrible evil of vicious literature in our land. Hundreds of our young people are every year ruined and unfited for future usefulness. There are books and papers put into our land that should be prohibited by law and could the people of our land come to realize the fearful influence they wield, their publication would be forever suspended, but they cannot realize it and in speaking on this subject I bear this remark from some person past the boundary line of youth, "I have read light reading all my life and it never harmed me." My friend, your statement will not prove to me that you were never harmed by your reading, but if you can prove to me that such is the case, I will then say you are soulless, devoid of inspiration, unfited by nature for an active, useful citizen. All the years from babyhood to maturity we are being strengthened or weakened by the literature we read, either one or the other and we can make the choice. The consecrated band of women styling themselves the W. C. T. U. is making the first organized movement against the baleful influence of that class of literature that is poisoning and ruining the minds of so many of our young people and it should be the pleasure of every good citizen of our country to join with them in the task.

DEATH OF LULU S. MATLOCK

From the Eugene Journal.

Miss Lulu S. Matlock, daughter of Mayor J. D. Matlock, of this city, died at her home on Eleventh and Charnelton streets at 9:35 o'clock Tuesday morning, after an illness of about a year and a half. The cause of her death was consumption. Deceased was born at Pleasant Hill, Oregon, August 24, 1873, and was aged 22 years, 5 months and 27 days at the time of her death. She resided at Pleasant Hill until the year 1882, when she came to this city with the family, who have resided here ever since. Deceased leaves a father, four brothers and four sisters to mourn her demise, her mother having preceded her in death. She leaves a large number of relatives in this county, also in Portland and in Eastern Oregon, who will feel the greatest sorrow upon learning of her untimely death. Deceased was a member of the Christian church of this city, at which place the funeral services were held on Wednesday forenoon, the church being filled with friends who wished to pay their last respects to the deceased, of which she had a great many here. The services were conducted by Dean E. C. Sanderson, of the Eugene Divinity School, assisted by Rev. Morton L. Rose, pastor of the Christian church. The remains were taken to the Pleasant Hill cemetery for interment.

DISEASES OF THE SKIN.

The intense itching and smarting incident to eczema, tetter, salt-rheum, and other diseases of the skin is instantly allayed by applying Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment. Many very bad cases have been permanently cured by it. It is equally efficient for itching piles and a favorite remedy for sore nipples; chapped hands, chilblains, frost bites, and chronic sore eyes. BLASTS FROM THE RAM'S HORN.

No man stands alone when he is right.

A temptation resisted is a foe overcome.

A harsh word to a child may destroy an angel.

Nothing speaks with a louder voice than a godly life.

If you would be a happy man, learn to be a contented one.

If you are praying for a revival, don't let somebody else do all the work.

The wounds made by a knife may heal, but that made by an unkind word will not.

It would spoil nine men out of ten to let them have their own way for a month.

If big sermons could save the world, the devil would have been used up long ago.

There are so many people who are only pleasant when they can have their own way.

If some men's prayers were always answered, the heavens would always be raining fire.

The world still needs men who have the courage to do right when they have to suffer for it.
