Lovely hair, but an embarrassment of riches, is it not?

If it were my hair, and I were the dear young girl who finds it a bother and a burden, I would coil it up on top of my head and wear it like a crown. I wouldn't mind its having the effect of making me look taller, and I would stand up very straight, and look as tall as I could. In my opinion height is a beauty, and I never care about a girl's being tall, except to admire her. Tall girls must mind that they carry themselves well, and do not stoop nor crane their head forward as if they had lost something and were perpetually looking for it. You remember Tennyson's picture, do you not, a word picture such as only a poet could paint:

"A daughter of the gods, Divinely tall, and most divinely fair." If the corunal effect were unbecome ing, or gave a feeling of weight on topof my head, then I would braid the hair la several strands, and mass it all over part it in the middle, and avoid frinces. and bungs, and little curis, erimps, and other attempts at decoration in front. LITERARY NOTES.

General Harrison on Our Finances-Wisest and Strongest Statesmanship Required to Mend Existing Conditions

Ex-President Harrison will discuss on national finances in an article on "The Secretary of the Tressury," which will appear in the August issue of the Ladies' Home Journal. He will tell briefly of the origin of our financial system; its expansion or development; how the Stir the ingredients together, then drop oation raises its revenues, and disburses the mixture with a dessert spoon upon its moneys; and details the faults of our system of financiering. Referring to the methods necessary to maintain our gold reserve General Harrison expresses himself with evident disapproval, and says that "the present situation would be absalt and pepper.
