

REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL TICKET.

For President, WILLIAM MCKINLEY, Of Ohio. For Vice President, GARRETT A. HOBART, Of New Jersey.

FATHER O'DEA, of Portland, has been created a bishop by the pope. He succeeds the Right Rev. A. Junger, deceased.

THE Gazette knows that Scott-Harvey has always opposed free coinage. Will he support it under an international agreement? The Gazette doubts it.

WITH protection this county can prosper. It is the entering wedge towards better times and a happier people. It is the question that must be settled first.

THE O. R. & N. has been sold and will doubtless go back to the control of the Oregon Short Line, which means U. P. though no doubt the name, O. R. & N., will be retained.

CONSIDERATION of the money question ahead of the tariff prevented a bill from going to the president last winter. But we will warn certain republicans to lay the blame where it belongs. Not one of the Oregon delegation assisted in this work.

THE Gazette notices that Pres. Bloss, of the Corvallis agricultural college, has resigned and that Hon. H. B. Miller, of Grants Pass, is mentioned as his probable successor. The Gazette would like to know whether or not Mr. Miller is qualified for that position.

THE campaign of this year must be made in the west by the republicans of the west, and that is why the western manager of the campaign ought to establish his headquarters in Cleveland, a western city.—Cleveland Leader. Pittsburg will now put in a claim as a "western" city.

EASTERN OREGON must have protection to exist. What makes prosperity for the sheepmen means prosperity for us all. Every locality has it industry and on its success depends the prosperity of that neighborhood. Wool at 4 1/2 to 6 cents a pound is an imposition on our people and a disgrace to the nation.

THE Gazette still insists that no county can prosper unless the county court directs expenditure of all money. No county officer should be allowed to expend money for anything unless by direction of the county court, and if there are any "rake-offs" let the county get the benefit thereof. As applying to this county, matters not how much it pinches the Gazette, personally, efforts towards a more economical administration of affairs should be commended, and we will make the assertion that when Judge Bartholomew's term will have expired the county will be in much better condition, financially, than at present.

How many of those bright republicans who have been airing their opinions as to how Hon. Sol Hirsch should manage the campaign in this state voted for Northrup recently? The Gazette knows that more than nine-tenths of them were bolters who helped to bring out Northrup against the regular nominee and who are entitled to consideration by republicans any more than are populists and democrats. The Gazette would like to see a few republicans take the matter in hand, if it requires it. The Oregonian and its clique are not recognized authority in party matters just now.

SILVER republicans, who hold that the tariff question is paramount to all others, get some consolation out of the fact that the republican party was compelled to recognize free coinage as a just economic principle. These men should all support the man whose name is a synonym of protection, Major Wm. McKinley, a man who will welcome the day when the money question can be settled without danger or damage to anyone, and over which there can be no controversy. Personally, the Gazette relinquishes none of its old opinions on finance, but it holds as it ever has that there is a paramount issue, and that this issue should hold republicans together till the good work is accomplished. Because one does not like one plank out of fifteen or twenty is no reason that it should be exchanged for one that has nineteen objectionable features to one good one. Stay with the ship, boys.

SENATOR HILL was turned down by Senator Daniel, of Virginia, for temporary chairman of the Chicago convention, although Hill was the choice of the national committee. This is as it should be. Hill is a small politician who has been lucky. He is a trimmer and has no well defined ideas on political questions except to serve his own selfish purpose. Once not long ago he was a silver man; now he is a gold standard advocate. Most people admire a man who has well defined opinions and who will and can give reasons for them, and who does not change with the wind. When Hill said in Brooklyn in the introduction of a speech, "I am a democrat," he told all he knew for certain. He was playing for effect.

Great Oaks From Little Acorns Grown. Is a line from the true old verse we used to recite in our schoolboy days. It has a forcible application to those small ailments which we are apt to disregard until they reach formidable proportions. A fit of indigestion, a "slight" attack of constipation, it is assumed, will soon pass off, but is very apt to get worse, and in the meantime is neglected until the ailment becomes chronic, and then, if not entirely eradicated, is a constant annoyance and menace of worse consequences, for diseases, recollect, beget one another. How much wiser to resort to a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters at the outset of the malady than to temporize with it at the start. Be on time with disease, or it may "floor" you. Malarious, rheumatic and kidney complaints, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, and nervousness are all disorders rapid growth, and should be "nipped in the bud" by a timely resort to the Bitters.

Over The Cascades. Yesterday morning Capt. G. C. Walker made a successful descent of the Cascade falls with his little steamer Lorelei. At an early hour he got up a full head of steam, and alone in the little craft, which is only 40 feet in length, boldly floated into the middle of the broad Columbia, pointing the bow of the boat for the center of the current, gave a farewell salute to the bystanders on shore, and started for the lower river. The frail bark was tossed hither and yon by the mad waves, every second those on land expecting to see it dashed to pieces, but it proved seaworthy, and reached the still water below in perfect safety. The Lorelei is the smallest vessel that has ever gone over the Cascades, and Capt. Walker has proven himself a daring and skilled navigator by taking her safely over the falls. The little boat too is entitled to some notoriety. It was built at Lewiston for the use of some mimmers on Snake river, but did not meet their requirements, so Capt. Walker determined to take it below. He brought it over the rapids at Celilo, took it out of the water and hauled around the dikes, and has now floated it over the cascades.—T.-M.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair. Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed an exhibit at the World's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the World's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."

West Wrong. The last heard of Sheriff Gittings was at Astoria on the morning of the 19th of June, where he was seen to board a boat. The bondsmen have about concluded they will have to "dig up." Such a state of affairs is to be regretted, as it not only works a hardship on the bondsmen, but also makes it harder for the incoming officers to give bonds. The exact amount of his shortage cannot be found out at present, owing to the condition of the books, but it is sure that it will be between five and six thousand dollars.—Barns Times.

Mrs. Rhodie Noah, of this place, was taken in the night with cramping pains and the next day diarrhoea set in. She took half a bottle of blackberry cordial but got no relief. She then sent me to see if I had anything that would help her. I sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and the first dose relieved her. Another of her neighbors had been sick for about a week and had tried different remedies for diarrhoea but kept getting worse. I sent him this same remedy. Only four doses of it were required to cure him. He says he owes his recovery to this wonderful remedy.—Mrs. Mary Schuler, Sidney, Mich. For sale by Conner & Brock, druggists.

Birthday Party. On last Wednesday afternoon, July 8, Willetta Loezer, of this place, invited in a number of her young friends to assist in celebrating her 13th birthday. The time was spent most pleasantly. There were present: Bertha Matlock, Emma Farnsworth, Mary McSwains, Clara Morgan, Heppner Blackman, Ester Ford, Zoe Patterson, Osa Gilliam, Earl McFarland, Leo Blackman, Arlie Dubbins, Pearl Dubbins and Corral McFarland.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION. Free Coinage Endorsed by More Than a Two to One Vote—Cleveland Not Endorsed. In last issue mention was made regarding the turning down of Hill and the selection of Daniels for temporary chairman of the Chicago convention. This action demonstrated the power of the silver man and set at rest at once all doubts as to what the platform would be.

The seating of contested silver delegates was accomplished by a vote of 558 to 365. Yesterday the platform, with a silver plank, was adopted by a vote of 628 to 302, more than two to one. Hill then made a motion endorsing the present administration which was lost by a vote of 357 to 564. The convention then adjourned till 8 p. m. The session last night was no doubt interesting. Bryan, of Nebraska, is becoming quite a favorite as a presidential possibility.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

Free Coinage Endorsed by More Than a Two to One Vote—Cleveland Not Endorsed.

In last issue mention was made regarding the turning down of Hill and the selection of Daniels for temporary chairman of the Chicago convention. This action demonstrated the power of the silver man and set at rest at once all doubts as to what the platform would be.

The seating of contested silver delegates was accomplished by a vote of 558 to 365. Yesterday the platform, with a silver plank, was adopted by a vote of 628 to 302, more than two to one. Hill then made a motion endorsing the present administration which was lost by a vote of 357 to 564.

The convention then adjourned till 8 p. m. The session last night was no doubt interesting. Bryan, of Nebraska, is becoming quite a favorite as a presidential possibility.

The First Ballot.

CHICAGO, July 10.—The first ballot resulted as follows: Bland, 233; Boies, 71; Mathews, 37; McLean, 54; Bryan, 132; Blackburn, 82; Pattison, 94; Campbell, 1; Rossell, 2; Tillman, 17; Penoyer, 8. New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Massachusetts refused to vote.

Second Ballot.

CHICAGO, July 10.—The second ballot resulted as follows: Bland, 257; Boies, 225; Mathews, 35; McLean, 54; Bryan, 186; Blackburn, 36; Pattison, 99; Penoyer, 8; Teller, 8; Stevenson, 6; Hill, 1. The states refusing to vote on the second and it appears that their choice is Hon. Horace Boies.

Bryan Nominated.

CHICAGO, July 10.—The third and fourth ballots did not materially change the previous vote, but on the fifth ballot a stampede to Bryan, of Nebraska, nominated "the boy orator of the Platte." He is but 36 years of age and is the youngest man ever nominated for president.

William Jennings Bryan, of Lincoln, was born in Salem, Marion county, Ills., March 19, 1860; attended public school until 15 years of age, spending his vacations on the farm; in the fall of 1875 entered Whipple Academy, at Jacksonville, Ills.; entered Illinois College, Jacksonville, in 1877; completed classical course and was graduated with the highest honors in 1881; attended Union College of Law, Chicago, for two years, during which time he was connected with the office of ex-Senator Lyman Trumbull; began the practice of his profession at Jacksonville; removed to Lincoln, Neb., October 1, 1887, and became a member of the firm of Talbot & Bryan; never held an elective office prior to his election to congress; was elected to the fifty-second congress, and re-elected to the fifty-third congress as a democrat.

TO A CASH BASIS.

Last spring the Gazette announced that it would abandon the credit system entirely on March 1st, which, to a certain extent, it has carried out except among our patrons here in Morrow county, where it was thought we might continue the old system. It has been demonstrated beyond all doubt that we cannot longer pursue the old credit system and pay our debts as we go. We shall carry out our former intention, and from Aug. 1st next no papers will be sent out unless they have been paid for in advance. To this system we shall strictly adhere in the future, making forfeitures of none. There is nothing personal about this matter, but we desire to treat all alike, and so do not ask us to send the paper as in the past, but call in and settle your account and make arrangements to continue receiving the paper. If.

Are You Made Miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. For sale by Wells & Warren.

A Stylish Monument.

A $500 monument has been ordered and is being made at Wells Falls for Katie Kehm Smith, the secularist lecturer, who died at John Day and was buried at Haystack last summer. The monument is in the form of the statue of a woman, 5 feet 4 inches tall, holding aloft the torch of liberty. With the pedestal the height of the monument will be about 12 feet. The people of Haystack, irrespective of creed, have subscribed for the monument, for they all loved the "little lady," as they called her. The monument will be unveiled at Haystack some time during the coming fall, when Mr. Putman, the noted freethought lecturer, is expected to be present.

Nerves On Edge.

I was nervous, tired, irritable and cross. Karl's Clover Root Tea has made me well and happy. Mrs. E. B. WORDEN. For sale by Wells & Warren.

Killed While.

The man Wolfe, who killed the girl to whom he was betrothed at Mt. Tabor some two years ago, is supposed to have been killed on Mountain creek, near Mitchell, last Monday. A posse was searching for the murderer of the sheepman. Artman, when they came upon Wolfe and ordered him to surrender. He immediately began firing on them, and the fire being returned, ten shots entered Wolfe's body, killing him instantly. —T.-M.

Piles! Piles! Itching Pains.

hemorrhoids—Mucous; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue forms tumor, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumor. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

LEGAL BLANKS.

Plenty of them at the Gazette Office.

Do You Want a Rig? Don't You Want a Place to Put up Your Team? Are You in Need of a Saddle Horse?

All these can be procured at Thompson & Binns, Lower Main Street, Heppner, Oregon.

These gentlemen are well acquainted with Grant, Harney, Crook, Gilliam and other counties, and can save money and time in making these sections with traveling men. Prices in keeping with the times.

THOMPSON & BINNS,

LEATHERMEN, HEPPNER.

THE LANCASHIRE INSURANCE Co.

OF MANCHESTER, ENGLAND

A. W. PATTERSON, AGENT. One of the Best in the World

E. L. FREELAND,

MAKES COLLECTIONS, WRITES INSURANCE, MAKES ABSTRACTS.

U. S. LAND COMMISSIONER.

Land Filings and Final Proofs Taken.

STENOGRAPHER. NOTARY PUBLIC.

HEPPNER, OREGON.

D. J. McFaul, M. D.

OFFICE: AT J. M. HAGER'S RESIDENCE.

PUBLIC LAND SALE.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE. THE DISTRICT OF OREGON.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT IN PURSUANCE of the General Land Office, under authority vested in the General Land Office, under authority of the act of Congress, approved February 22, 1862, we will present to offer at public sale on the 26th day of August, 1896, at 11 o'clock A. M., the following tract of land, to-wit:

THE NE 1/4, SEC. 24, T. 14, R. 12, E. 2, CLATSOP CO., OREGON.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the above described lands are advised to file their claims in this office on or before the day above designated for the commencement of said sale, otherwise their claims will be forfeited.

JAS. F. MOORE, Register.

WILLIAM H. BUCK, Receiver.

Dated July 26, 1896.

Pills Do Not Cure.

Pills do not cure constipation. They only aggravate it. Karl's Clover Root Tea gives permanent regularity of the bowels. For sale by Wells & Warren.

Late reports from the interior give the information of the capture and death of Murphy.

He was penned in under some ramrock for several days, unable to get out, though large rocks were rolled down in his direction and dynamite was also used, yet he remained in his fortress unharmed. Finally hunger drove him forth

THE MURDERER OF MOUNT LESBON.

What the Shakers of Mount Lebanon know more about than anybody else, is the use of herbs and how to be healthy. They have studied the power of food. They nearly all live to a ripe old age. The Shaker Digestive Cordial is prepared by the Shakers from herbs and plants with a special tonic power over the stomach. It helps the stomach digest its food, and digested food is the strength-maker. Strong muscles, strong body, strong brain, all come from properly digested food. A sick stomach can be cured and digestion made easy by Shaker Digestive Cordial. It cures the nausea, loss of appetite, pain in the stomach, headache, giddiness, weakness, and all the other symptoms of indigestion, certainly and permanently. Sold by druggists. Trial bottle 10 cts.

THE BRUTAL KILLING OF ANDREW ARTMAN.

Probably Done by an Insane Man.

Sunday, June 29 last, George Mooney, alias Ed Murphy, in a fit of insanity, killed Andrew Artman, a sheepraiser, at Buckhorn, in Grant county, near Dayville. The Mitchell Monitor has this story of the crime:

About two years ago George Mooney, who had been tending sheep camp for Hibber & Artman, at Buckhorn, Grant county, disappeared from his work, and, fearing that some mishap had befallen him, the people of the neighborhood instituted a search, but failed to find any trace of him. Nothing was heard of him until about midnight on Sunday, the 29th, when he appeared at the tent where Andrew Artman and Herman Frost were sleeping. He called them up and when Artman stepped out he shot him. At this juncture, Frost crawled under the back of the tent and ran off to give the alarm. He heard two more shots fired after leaving the tent. Monday morning Artman was found lying in front of the tent with three gunshot wounds on him and his head mashed almost to a pulp. It appeared that the blood had taken an axial lyne, near, and crushed Artman's skull. It is believed by some who had seen the murderer during the past few weeks that he was insane. His general appearance and a statement he had made to the effect that he was being hunted and tracked, and had been chased from San Francisco, tended to create that belief.

Artman was a single man, about 35 years of age. He has been living in that vicinity some four or five years, and so far as known has no relatives or at least he has in that time given out no information that he has any.

The murderer went by the name of Ed Murphy, which was probably assumed, as he told that his real name was George Mooney. He is described as being about 35 years old; dark blonde mustache, and dark, scattering beard of about three weeks' growth, blue eyes, height five feet six inches, weight 130 pounds, is lame in left leg, and is knock-kneed by reason of his left leg having been broken; has a peculiarly shaped head; uses good language; wore a black coat, overall, dark blue shirt, and No. 8 boots.

Herman Frost says that he came to Artman's camp Friday evening for the purpose of moving it next day. About midnight Murphy came to the door of the tent and said: "Hello, Artman, is that you?" Artman, being partially awakened, answered, "Well?" And Murphy shot him immediately, striking Artman near the corner of the mouth, and the shot passed out at the back of his head. Frost crawled under the back of the tent, and ran six miles to B. C. Fremonger's, and gave the alarm. He had nothing on except drawers and shirt, and his feet were badly bruised. On examination, it was found that Murphy had fired three more shots at Artman and then beat him over the head with his gun, breaking the stock, and struck him on the leg with a dull ax, cutting clear through. Officers are searching for him, but he has not yet been found.

Late reports from the interior give the information of the capture and death of Murphy. He was penned in under some ramrock for several days, unable to get out, though large rocks were rolled down in his direction and dynamite was also used, yet he remained in his fortress unharmed. Finally hunger drove him forth

THE BRUTAL KILLING OF ANDREW ARTMAN.

Probably Done by an Insane Man.

Sunday, June 29 last, George Mooney, alias Ed Murphy, in a fit of insanity, killed Andrew Artman, a sheepraiser, at Buckhorn, in Grant county, near Dayville. The Mitchell Monitor has this story of the crime:

About two years ago George Mooney, who had been tending sheep camp for Hibber & Artman, at Buckhorn, Grant county, disappeared from his work, and, fearing that some mishap had befallen him, the people of the neighborhood instituted a search, but failed to find any trace of him. Nothing was heard of him until about midnight on Sunday, the 29th, when he appeared at the tent where Andrew Artman and Herman Frost were sleeping. He called them up and when Artman stepped out he shot him. At this juncture, Frost crawled under the back of the tent and ran off to give the alarm. He heard two more shots fired after leaving the tent. Monday morning Artman was found lying in front of the tent with three gunshot wounds on him and his head mashed almost to a pulp. It appeared that the blood had taken an axial lyne, near, and crushed Artman's skull. It is believed by some who had seen the murderer during the past few weeks that he was insane. His general appearance and a statement he had made to the effect that he was being hunted and tracked, and had been chased from San Francisco, tended to create that belief.

Artman was a single man, about 35 years of age. He has been living in that vicinity some four or five years, and so far as known has no relatives or at least he has in that time given out no information that he has any.

The murderer went by the name of Ed Murphy, which was probably assumed, as he told that his real name was George Mooney. He is described as being about 35 years old; dark blonde mustache, and dark, scattering beard of about three weeks' growth, blue eyes, height five feet six inches, weight 130 pounds, is lame in left leg, and is knock-kneed by reason of his left leg having been broken; has a peculiarly shaped head; uses good language; wore a black coat, overall, dark blue shirt, and No. 8 boots.

Herman Frost says that he came to Artman's camp Friday evening for the purpose of moving it next day. About midnight Murphy came to the door of the tent and said: "Hello, Artman, is that you?" Artman, being partially awakened, answered, "Well?" And Murphy shot him immediately, striking Artman near the corner of the mouth, and the shot passed out at the back of his head. Frost crawled under the back of the tent, and ran six miles to B. C. Fremonger's, and gave the alarm. He had nothing on except drawers and shirt, and his feet were badly bruised. On examination, it was found that Murphy had fired three more shots at Artman and then beat him over the head with his gun, breaking the stock, and struck him on the leg with a dull ax, cutting clear through. Officers are searching for him, but he has not yet been found.

THE BRUTAL KILLING OF ANDREW ARTMAN.

Probably Done by an Insane Man.

Sunday, June 29 last, George Mooney, alias Ed Murphy, in a fit of insanity, killed Andrew Artman, a sheepraiser, at Buckhorn, in Grant county, near Dayville. The Mitchell Monitor has this story of the crime:

About two years ago George Mooney, who had been tending sheep camp for Hibber & Artman, at Buckhorn, Grant county, disappeared from his work, and, fearing that some mishap had befallen him, the people of the neighborhood instituted a search, but failed to find any trace of him. Nothing was heard of him until about midnight on Sunday, the 29th, when he appeared at the tent where Andrew Artman and Herman Frost were sleeping. He called them up and when Artman stepped out he shot him. At this juncture, Frost crawled under the back of the tent and ran off to give the alarm. He heard two more shots fired after leaving the tent. Monday morning Artman was found lying in front of the tent with three gunshot wounds on him and his head mashed almost to a pulp. It appeared that the blood had taken an axial lyne, near, and crushed Artman's skull. It is believed by some who had seen the murderer during the past few weeks that he was insane. His general appearance and a statement he had made to the effect that he was being hunted and tracked, and had been chased from San Francisco, tended to create that belief.

Artman was a single man, about 35 years of age. He has been living in that vicinity some four or five years, and so far as known has no relatives or at least he has in that time given out no information that he has any.

The murderer went by the name of Ed Murphy, which was probably assumed, as he told that his real name was George Mooney. He is described as being about 35 years old; dark blonde mustache, and dark, scattering beard of about three weeks' growth, blue eyes, height five feet six inches, weight 130 pounds, is lame in left leg, and is knock-kneed by reason of his left leg having been broken; has a peculiarly shaped head; uses good language; wore a black coat, overall, dark blue shirt, and No. 8 boots.

Herman Frost says that he came to Artman's camp Friday evening for the purpose of moving it next day. About midnight Murphy came to the door of the tent and said: "Hello, Artman, is that you?" Artman, being partially awakened, answered, "Well?" And Murphy shot him immediately, striking Artman near the corner of the mouth, and the shot passed out at the back of his head. Frost crawled under the back of the tent, and ran six miles to B. C. Fremonger's, and gave the alarm. He had nothing on except drawers and shirt, and his feet were badly bruised. On examination, it was found that Murphy had fired three more shots at Artman and then beat him over the head with his gun, breaking the stock, and struck him on the leg with a dull ax, cutting clear through. Officers are searching for him, but he has not yet been found.

THE BRUTAL KILLING OF ANDREW ARTMAN.

Probably Done by an Insane Man.

Sunday, June 29 last, George Mooney, alias Ed Murphy, in a fit of insanity, killed Andrew Artman, a sheepraiser, at Buckhorn, in Grant county, near Dayville. The Mitchell Monitor has this story of the crime:

About two years ago George Mooney, who had been tending sheep camp for Hibber & Artman, at Buckhorn, Grant county, disappeared from his work, and, fearing that some mishap had befallen him, the people of the neighborhood instituted a search, but failed to find any trace of him. Nothing was heard of him until about midnight on Sunday, the 29th, when he appeared at the tent where Andrew Artman and Herman Frost were sleeping. He called them up and when Artman stepped out he shot him. At this juncture, Frost crawled under the back of the tent and ran off to give the alarm. He heard two more shots fired after leaving the tent. Monday morning Artman was found lying in front of the tent with three gunshot wounds on him and his head mashed almost to a pulp. It appeared that the blood had taken an axial lyne, near, and crushed Artman's skull. It is believed by some who had seen the murderer during the past few weeks that he was insane. His general appearance and a statement he had made to the effect that he was being hunted and tracked, and had been chased from San Francisco, tended to create that belief.

Artman was a single man, about 35 years of age. He has been living in that vicinity some four or five years, and so far as known has no relatives or at least he has in that time given out no information that he has any.

The murderer went by the name of Ed Murphy, which was probably assumed, as he told that his real name was George Mooney. He is described as being about 35 years old; dark blonde mustache, and dark, scattering beard of about three weeks' growth, blue eyes, height five feet six inches, weight 130 pounds, is lame in left leg, and is knock-kneed by reason of his left leg having been broken; has a peculiarly shaped head; uses good language; wore a black coat, overall, dark blue shirt, and No. 8 boots.

Herman Frost says that he came to Artman's camp Friday evening for the purpose of moving it next day. About midnight Murphy came to the door of the tent and said: "Hello, Artman, is that you?" Artman, being partially awakened, answered, "Well?" And Murphy shot him immediately, striking Artman near the corner of the mouth, and the shot passed out at the back of his head. Frost crawled under the back of the tent, and ran six miles to B. C. Fremonger's, and gave the alarm. He had nothing on except drawers and shirt, and his feet were badly bruised. On examination, it was found that Murphy had fired three more shots at Artman and then beat him over the head with his gun, breaking the stock, and struck him on the leg with a dull ax, cutting clear through. Officers are searching for him, but he has not yet been found.

THE BRUTAL KILLING OF ANDREW ARTMAN.

Probably Done by an Insane Man.

Sunday, June 29 last, George Mooney, alias Ed Murphy, in a fit of insanity, killed Andrew Artman, a sheepraiser, at Buckhorn, in Grant county, near Dayville. The Mitchell Monitor has this story of the crime:

About two years ago George Mooney, who had been tending sheep camp for Hibber & Artman, at Buckhorn, Grant county, disappeared from his work, and, fearing that some mishap had befallen him, the people of the neighborhood instituted a search, but failed to find any trace of him. Nothing was heard of him until about midnight on Sunday, the 29th, when he appeared at the tent where Andrew Artman and Herman Frost were sleeping. He called them up and when Artman stepped out he shot him. At this juncture, Frost crawled under the back of the tent and ran off to give the alarm. He heard two more shots fired after leaving the tent. Monday morning Artman was found lying in front of the tent with three gunshot wounds on him and his head mashed almost to a pulp. It appeared that the blood had taken an axial lyne, near, and crushed Artman's skull. It is believed by some who had seen the murderer during the past few weeks that he was insane. His general appearance and a statement he had made to the effect that he was being hunted and tracked, and had been chased from San Francisco, tended to create that belief.

Artman was a single man, about 35 years of age. He has been living in that vicinity some four or five years, and so far as known has no relatives or at least he has in that time given out no information that he has any.

The murderer went by the name of Ed Murphy, which was probably assumed, as he told that his real name was George Mooney. He is described as being about 35 years old; dark blonde mustache, and dark, scattering beard of about three weeks' growth, blue eyes, height five feet six inches, weight 130 pounds, is lame in left leg, and is knock-kneed by reason of his left leg having been broken; has a peculiarly shaped head; uses good language; wore a black coat, overall, dark blue shirt, and No. 8 boots.

Herman Frost says that he came to Artman's camp Friday evening for the purpose of moving it next day. About midnight Murphy came to the door of the tent and said: "Hello, Artman, is that you?" Artman, being partially awakened, answered, "Well?" And Murphy shot him immediately, striking Artman near the corner of the mouth, and the shot passed out at the back of his head. Frost crawled under the back of the tent, and ran six miles to B. C. Fremonger's, and gave the alarm. He had nothing on except drawers and shirt, and his feet were badly bruised. On examination, it was found that Murphy had fired three more shots at Artman and then beat him over the head with his gun, breaking the stock, and struck him on the leg with a dull ax, cutting clear through. Officers are searching for him, but he has not yet been found.

THE BRUTAL KILLING OF ANDREW ARTMAN.

Probably Done by an Insane Man.

Sunday, June 29 last, George Mooney, alias Ed Murphy, in a fit of insanity, killed Andrew Artman, a sheepraiser, at Buckhorn, in Grant county, near Dayville. The Mitchell Monitor has this story of the crime:

About two years ago George Mooney, who had been tending sheep camp for Hibber & Artman, at Buckhorn, Grant county, disappeared from his work, and, fearing that some mishap had befallen him, the people of the neighborhood instituted a search, but failed to find any trace of him. Nothing was heard of him until about midnight on Sunday, the 29th, when he appeared at the tent where Andrew Artman and Herman Frost were sleeping. He called them up and when Artman stepped out he shot him. At this juncture, Frost crawled under the back of the tent and ran off to give the alarm. He heard two more shots fired after leaving the tent. Monday morning Artman was found lying in front of the tent with three gunshot wounds on him and his head mashed almost to a pulp. It appeared that the blood had taken an axial lyne, near, and crushed Artman's skull. It is believed by some who had seen the murderer during the past few weeks that he was insane. His general appearance and a statement he had made to the effect that he was being hunted and tracked, and had been chased from San Francisco, tended to create that belief.

Artman was a single man, about 35 years of age. He has been living in that vicinity some four or five years, and so far as known has no relatives or at least he has in that time given out no information that he has any.

The murderer went by the name of Ed Murphy, which was probably assumed, as he told that his real name was George Mooney. He is described as being about 35 years old; dark blonde mustache, and dark, scattering beard of about three weeks' growth, blue eyes, height five feet six inches, weight 130 pounds, is lame in left leg, and is knock-kneed by reason of his left leg having been broken; has a peculiarly shaped head; uses good language; wore a black coat, overall, dark blue shirt, and No. 8 boots.

Herman Frost says that he came to Artman's camp Friday evening for the purpose of moving it next day. About midnight Murphy came to the door of the tent and said: "Hello, Artman, is that you?" Artman, being partially awakened, answered, "Well?" And Murphy shot him immediately, striking Artman near the corner of the mouth, and the shot passed out at the back of his head. Frost crawled under the back of the tent, and ran six miles to B