

LOSS OF VOICE
After Acute Bronchitis
CURED BY USING
AYER'S Cherry Pectoral
A PREACHER'S EXPERIENCE.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va.

NORMANDY CIDER.
It is Very Fine and Produced by the Millions of Gallons.
As a fact the finest cider is not made by the British grower, but in Normandy. They have in that province brought their cider making to perfection. The total produce every year there amounts to hundreds of millions of gallons; and it is made with the utmost care. To begin, they choose the site of the orchard with judgment, and see that the soil is of the type which applies love; and they are equally thoughtful in selecting the varieties of the apple most fit for cider. Indeed, for the very finest cider, their solicitude is so great that none but the second or third year's fruit of the trees is used; and when the process of fermentation is reached, nothing is left to chance. Chemists of great experience watch the changes in the liquor; and the skill with which the process is regulated is based on the knowledge gathered from long practice. The result is that some Normandy cider is equal in delicacy and flavor to fine champagne, and many cheap champagnes are simply sophisticated cider.

This deception is very general. The great bulk of the cider made in Normandy goes to the champagne districts, and is used to make cheap champagne, and to form the body of other wines, too. Port, it seems, can be made, and often is made, of cider, the color being imparted by ingreeds or red-beet juice, and the flavor by the addition of very fine proportions of the root of the rhenish. This, it is said, is an imitation so excellent that the flavor would deceive a good judge of port. It is quite certain that all the cider made in Normandy does not, by a very large proportion, go on the market as cider; and that it is sold in the guise of cheap wines, both white and red. Certainly, then the champagne cider of Normandy is nothing more delicate and effervescent, unless it be the same product of California, when at its best—Chambers' Journal.

Fond His Recourse.
An amusing incident occurred in the hearing of a collision case in the admiralty court before Sir Francis Jeune and Trinity house assessors. A typical old salt, with only one eye, got along quite satisfactorily with his examination in chief, but was rather puzzled when the opposing counsel began to cast some doubts upon his evidence. The old tar got over the first three or four questions safely, but his wrath rose as the cross-examination proceeded. At length he could restrain the full force of his indignation no longer, and, buttoning his jacket tightly, he leaned over the rails of the witness box and cried: "I beg your pardon, but who might you be, mister?" The court roared with laughter, in which the president and assessors heartily joined. The counsel replied: "Oh, I am afraid you are." At this admission the old salt seemed much relieved and remarked: "Oh, I see! Now I know my bearings and just start me sailing!"—London Telegraph.
