

Republican Ticket.

For President, WILLIAM MCKINLEY, Of Ohio.

For Vice President, GARRETT A. HOBART, Of New Jersey.

For Presidential Electors, T. T. GEER, of Marion County, S. M. YORAN, of Lane, E. L. SMITH, of Wasco, J. F. CAPLES, of Multnomah.

A DALLES WOOLEN MILL.

There is more wool stored in The Dalles today, belonging to original owners, than at any other point in the United States. In fact this is one of the largest wool centers on the continent, but all the wool is for shipment, not a pound for home consumption, or at least there is no means of consuming a pound. This is all wrong. Instead of shipping seven or eight million pounds of wool each year we should be shipping two or three million pounds of manufactured woolsens. Start one woollen mill this year and within ten years The Dalles will have a milling capacity sufficient to work up all the raw material that comes to this market.—Times-Mountaineer.

This is a very sad, yet untimely confession from a democratic paper. A paper which advocates free trade, or practically so, for manufactured woolen goods, and absolute free trade for the raw material, should make no comment when its own city is reaping the rewards of the doctrine that journal so nobly defends.

There are tons of wool unsold in The Dalles. All along the line of the railroad, extending as far east as Huntington, there is wool enough to keep a large sized mill running for a long time at The Dalles. There is a warehouse full of it in Baker City, which cannot be sold for the freight charges to The Dalles. If there were mills enough in the home city of the Times-Mountaineer to manufacture all the wool in this country into articles of various uses, they would be as silent as a graveyard under the present condition of our tariff laws on wool and woolen goods.

Has the Times-Mountaineer a record of the silent woolen spindles in the United States, the ones that have been silenced since the passage of the Wilson bill? If it has them not we are prepared to furnish the statistics.

The Dalles, with its unnumbered water power, should be a good manufacturing town, and especially for woolen goods. But it never will be under the existing condition of the tariff on wool and woolen goods.

But there is another feature that the Times-Mountaineer will do well to consider. That paper is urging the election of Bryan and advocating the inflation of our currency to that extent that even Bryan himself admits would bring about a financial crash. Does the paper at The Dalles presume that capitalists, at home or abroad, will invest in a woolen mill under such an admitted condition of money matters if Bryan is elected? If McKinley is elected The Dalles press and all the papers in this country could make a good showing to capitalists why a woolen mill should be built in that town, but if Bryan is our next president, such a project would be about as feasible as lifting Mt Hood with a corkscrew.—Baker City Republican.

The condition at The Dalles and other places is but the story of conditions at Heppner. Morrow county is in need of the old protection under which it flourished and at a time when the whole United States was prosperous.

AMERICAN SHIPS FOR AMERICAN GOODS.

It is sound republican protective doctrine, it puts money into the National treasury, instead of taking money out, as bounties and subsidies do.

It creates preference for American ships in the carrying of American commerce.

It was in force for nearly forty years—from the beginning of our government down to 1828, during all of which time an average of 90 per cent of American foreign commerce was carried in American ships.

The first act of the first congress in 1789 provided, in part, for this form of ship protection. Subsequent acts of that and succeeding congresses strengthened and extended the policy.

Ship protection was abandoned, because it was no longer thought necessary, and from that time the proportion of carriage of American commerce in American ships has declined, until to-day but 11.7 per cent of American commerce is carried foreign in American ships.

5,000,000 tons of ships are employed in carrying American foreign commerce, less than three-quarters of a million tons of which are American.

$400,000,000 would be spent in American shipyards building the ships necessary to carry American commerce if the policy advocated in the Massachusetts plank is adopted by the Oregon republicans and incorporated into the St. Louis platform.

$300,000,000 now annually sent abroad to pay for the carriage of American commerce, passengers and mails, would be retained in the United States if American ships did the work.

$4,500,000,000, it has been estimated by the most competent experts, have been sent abroad during the past thirty years to pay for the carriage of American commerce, passengers, mails, etc.

The weakness of the United States is only apparent upon the seas of the world; the adoption of this policy would strengthen the nation where its one weakness at present exists.

Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, has introduced a bill in the Senate, and Mr. Payne, of New York, in the house, proposing to tax imports in foreign ships ten per cent more than imports in American ships are taxed.

It is a policy that provides for the same protection for American ships that is now provided for American manufactures, to wit: discrimination against foreign ships, just as we discriminate against foreign manufactures, by a higher duty upon the foreign articles, be they ships or products of foreign nations.

The United States navy is weak, because Americans are not to be had to man our warships. The adoption of this policy would provide a resource for the manning of the navy, sufficient to provide the men for the nation's protection, if ever assailed by a foreign power.

FIFTY thousand republican majority for Maine is pretty good, isn't it?

GEN. HARRISON said in a recent speech that "business never was disturbed by the prospects of republican success."

JOHN R. GENTRY paced a mile at Glen Falls, N. Y., on Sept. 10th, in 2:01 1/2. This equals the world's record against time and is the fastest mile ever made by a pacer in a race.

McKinley's election seems almost assured, judging from recent elections held in Northern states. West Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky, Delaware and other Southern states show signs of endorsing the Napoleon of Protection in November.

MAINE has outdone herself this year. On presidential years, at the September election, it was wont to go from 12,000 to 15,000 republicans. Two years ago it was at the landslide with 39,000 majority, but the 50,000 mark has never been reached by the republicans of Maine in any previous election. Maine went "greenback" several years ago but it has evidently entirely recovered her senses.

MCKINLEY would rather open the mills to American labor than the mine to the silver of the world. Many of us would like to see both open, but would rather endorse the opening of industries to Americans and support the other important principle of republicanism than to sanction freetrade, state sovereignty, condemnation of the supreme court, interference with federal authority, in order to secure free mintage of silver for the whole world. The popocrat idea costs too much. Let us go the way in which we will get the most for our investment—the sovereign ballot of every American citizen.

"Now while I know my silver friends would desire to go a step further than does this platform, and while, furthermore, there are, I know, a great many republicans, who are now earnestly and cordially supporting the republican party, who would go further in the recognition of silver than does this republican platform, I insist, in view of all the circumstances, and I should so insist even were the platform even less bimetallic than it is, that in view of all the other great policies of the republican party, in view of the momentous issues involved in this campaign other than that relating to finances, there is no reason why every silver republican in this state should not support the republican ticket, but on the contrary, in my judgment, many forcible reasons why they should."—From Senator Mitchell's Woodburn speech.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicine referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequalled by any other. They are for sale here by Conser & Brock, druggists.

CANT CARRY HIS PRECINCT. The Boy Orator's Fickleness Established at Home.

From The Dalles Chronicle.

Mr. E. W. Elliot, of Walla Walla, is in receipt of an interesting letter from an old friend and comrade of his, Major H. C. McArthur, of Nebraska, which he gives publication in the Journal. Major McArthur was a member of Mr. Elliot's regiment during the war, the Fifteenth Iowa, and he was on the staff of General Belknap and one of the first men to enter Columbia, South Carolina, when that city was taken by Sherman. Major McArthur is at present military instructor for the Nebraska State Industrial school. He is more or less interested in the political situation, and in a letter to Mr. Elliot, gives some very interesting facts about the outlook in Bryan's own state, county, ward and precinct. His letter says in part:

"We are going to carry Nebraska for McKinley. In this part of the state there are a good many pops, but meetings are being held all over the country and the signs are improving all the time. And the more the people of Nebraska find out that we have no silver to sell and the only persons to be benefited by free silver are the mine owners, the more will turn to McKinley. What the farmers want are the mills of the country opened up to the workmen and when the laboring men are employed the farmers will have customers for their surplus products. McKinley struck it hard when he said, 'It is better to open up the mills to American workmen than to open up the mine of America to the silver of the world.'"

"My home is still in Lincoln. I vote there and my residence is in the same ward and the same voting precinct as Mr. Bryan. I have lived within two blocks of his house for the past seven years and I know him well. He is a nice gentleman and has a very pleasant family, but he won't stop at anything allowed in politics to succeed. We took a poll of our ward and Bryan's precinct a few days since—I think about two weeks ago—and McKinley had three to Bryan's one. In my opinion it will be this way at election time.

"Four years ago Bryan was wild on free trade; that was all we needed to make us all wealthy and happy; just open the markets to world and the world would be open to us, and then the millennium. Well we opened our markets and the foreigners took us in and the reverse has happened. We are in the soup and you can't scare Bryan out on the tariff issue with a ten foot pole. He fooled the people once but he can't do it again."

SHILOH'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

PAIN'S CELERY COMPOUND.

The Best Remedy in the World—It Makes People Well.

There is one true specific for disease arising from impure blood and a debilitated nervous system, and that is Paine's celery compound, so generally prescribed by physicians. It is probably the most remarkable remedy that the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For the latter Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.
