A Million Gold Dollars Would not bring happiness to the person suffering with dyspepsia, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many thousands of cases of this disease. It tones the stomach, regulates the bowels and puts all the machinery of the system in good working order. It creates a good appetite and gives health, strength and happiness.
Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Cure all liver ills.

A Pleasant Occasion.
On last Saturday evening a very pleasant party was given at the Palace hotel in honor of Miss Ethel Sperry, Lillie Bisbee, Elsie Lucy and Eva Brian, private to their departure for school for the coming year. The evening was pleasurably spent in social conversation and games, concluding with an appropriate lunch. The young ladies departed last evening, and were certainly given a very enthusiastic farewell reception at the depot by their many friends.
Misses Sperry and Lucy will attend the Corvallis college, Miss Brian, Monmouth, and Miss Bisbee, Portland University.

Where They Met.
McKinley Bill, with Napoleon eye, says "Bryan let's drink some Live-wood Eye.
We meet as friends, my words are few I hope they don't, don't Bryan let's drink."
And Bryan says, in a joking manner, "I wonder if that's what the matter with Hanna That's here and here, you know. I don't when I see my wife I can, I don't know." Then they gravely bowed, and they winked an eye.
And they drank some more good Live-wood Eye.

No man can outdo me in opposition to monopolies; but the manufacturers of this country should not be these characterized. They have no principle for taxes; in general they have no independent means. Their all is in the brick and mortar of their establishments, in the machinery, in the organization, in their trade. And how many of these today would be willing to sell out for free cash, if they could do so?
He who would break down the manufacturers of this country strikes a fatal blow to labor. It is labor I would protect.—McKinley.

Never was a more grievous wrong done the farmers of our country than that so unjustly inflicted during the past three appreciate a call when in town.

John Murphy, with a six-horse team, arrived at Heppner from Monument on whether the sheep grower receives any benefit from the tariff or not . . .

Whether he does or does not I am for free wool."—Extract from speech of William J. Bryan in the House of Representatives when the Wilson bill was under consideration.
E. O.: Donald McKay, the famous toss, came in from the Wallawa county Tuesday evening. He had been sent for by Major Harper, the Indian agent, and Mr. McKay understands that he is to be appointed interpreter at the agency, in place of the late John McLean. Donald says the Umatis and Lepaw Indians are camped on Wallawa lake, having a big time gambling and horse racing.

Small Shareholders Are Often Swindled.

Six times and two peas in the hands of a ring of skilled professionals do not leave much chance for outsiders, however smart and wide awake they may think themselves. Not only do the insiders have the concoction of the various companies and the fixing of their original capitalization, which practically determines their future value, but says the National Review, they have the entire management of them. They can decide which of the half-dozen is to pay the big dividends and which are to draw blanks. They have all the initiative, do all the manipulating, and can arrange every new scheme to suit themselves. They might even strip a company of its assets and reduce it to an empty husk before the shareholders could interfere to prevent them. The proprietary or parent company is in that respect most to be feared. It is they that start with so many claims to develop—a thousand it may be—and that it divides them up among four or five working companies.
The usual course is to receive in payment of the claims an agreed number of the sub-company's shares. These pass into the treasury of the parent company, but there is no obligation on the directors to keep them longer than they please, and no guarantee to the shareholders that they will be kept. They may be sold, pawned, exchanged, or put in trust at the pleasure of the directors, who have invariably proxies enough to give them complete control.
A FABLE.
The Squirrel, Owl and Mice, Also the Responses of a Blue Jay.
It was in late summer and the owl sat upon a branch looking very wise and doing nothing, while the squirrel busied himself with the nuts lying about on the ground, gathering them expeditiously and stowing them away in hollows and holes.
Winter came by and by and with its frost cold and deep snow, but still the owl sat upon the branch looking wise and doing nothing. The squirrel perched at him, thinking that the owl must be hungry and starving, because the bird had not been a provident one. Each day the squirrel grew fatter, but the owl did not change, which the squirrel thought to be due to the feathers stuck out by the owl in his false pride.
When it was at last between fall and spring time, the blue jay one day saw the wise owl leave its perch on the branch and seize the fat, provident squirrel by the neck and eat him, after which the owl returned to the branch, and sat upon it, looking wiser than ever, and the blue jay wondered if it was better to be provident like the squirrel, wise like the owl, or lucky like the mice that thereafter ate of the squirrel's store.

SOME THIMBLERIGGING.

How Small Shareholders Are Often Swindled.
Six times and two peas in the hands of a ring of skilled professionals do not leave much chance for outsiders, however smart and wide awake they may think themselves. Not only do the insiders have the concoction of the various companies and the fixing of their original capitalization, which practically determines their future value, but says the National Review, they have the entire management of them. They have all the initiative, do all the manipulating, and can arrange every new scheme to suit themselves. They might even strip a company of its assets and reduce it to an empty husk before the shareholders could interfere to prevent them. The proprietary or parent company is in that respect most to be feared. It is they that start with so many claims to develop—a thousand it may be—and that it divides them up among four or five working companies. The usual course is to receive in payment of the claims an agreed number of the sub-company's shares. CARE OF MATTRESSES.
How to Wash Blankets Before Putting them Away.
The feather bed, of course, a thing of the past. It is probably not lamented in many quarters, as it is certainly un-healthy, difficult to care for, and not pleasant to sleep on. Mattresses, blankets, pillows, and other articles of bedding, however, require much care, to be kept odorless and clean. The main enemies to mattresses are dust, damp and moth, and frequent brushing must be given them, for in an incredibly short time they will harbor just all along the edges and where the button is fixed. A loose cotton cover over the mattress, made to button neatly at one end, also goes a long way toward keeping it clean. This can be washed and changed as often as need be without much trouble or expense. It is very important to air all the bedding thoroughly. Every article should be daily taken out and laid separately over a chair and a strong current of air should be allowed to circulate through the room before the clothes are replaced. The mattress should be turned daily and from end to end, as this insures its being more evenly, and not sinking in the middle. Blankets are a difficulty to many people, mostly because they cannot make up their minds as to how often they should be washed, nor how they should be treated. In many houses they are washed only once a year; but somehow that does seem rather too rare a proceeding. On the other hand, it is really not necessary to have them washed more than twice a year; but they must have proper care in the interval in the shape of airing, shaking, etc. A washing machine is very good for the purpose, especially as they should never be rubbed by the hand. The water should be only lukewarm, and a little soap well lathered in the water is all that will be required. Wring the blankets very dry through a wringer, shake them out and wash again in the same way, wringing each time, until they are quite clean. Do not rinse them, but pull them into shape and hang them out in the sun, which is a great help to preserving a good color.—Boston Globe.

Sales Talk

With Hood's Sarsaparilla, "Sales Talk," and show that this medicine has enjoyed public confidence and patronage to a greater extent than accorded any other proprietary medicine. This is simply because it possesses greater merit and produces greater cures than any other. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story. All advertisements of Hood's Sarsaparilla, like Hood's Sarsaparilla itself, are honest. We have never deceived the public, and this with its superior medicinal merit, is why the people have abiding confidence in it, and buy

GAME-KILLING FOXES.

Their Destructiveness Shown by the Contents of a Burrow.
Arthur S. Burr, of Old Haddam, when going across lots recently discovered the carcass of a woodchuck partly eaten, and a little further along a ruffed grouse. Thinking it was the work of a fox, he made search and found the burrow, with a large black hen and two more partridges at its mouth. Suspecting they were young partridges in the den, he made up his mind to return and dig them out, as the town of Haddam pays a bounty of two dollars a head.
It was five days before he had a chance to do this, and when he dug out the burrow with the assistance of Sherm Fowler he found that the wily mother fox had removed. They were determined to have that bounty, and incidentally the foxes, and after a long search they found a new burrow, picking up two more partridges on the way. On digging out this new hole they took out eight partridges, three rabbits and a very large woodchuck, with five young foxes in the end. The partridges were partly eaten, but the woodchuck was completely cleaned out, nothing but the skin being left.
Sportmen have long claimed that foxes were more destructive to game than all the hunters, and have noted a great increase of foxes in towns that have not paid a bounty for the last few years. The only incentive the foxes have for killing the game is the bounty money. Eight partridges in a burrow but four days old show the great destructiveness of foxes.

A HORNELSS BUCK.

Killed in Michigan and Sold to Be Quoted in This Country.
A curious and exceedingly unusual freak is reported by a deer hunter to Forest and Stream. The hunter was up in Wexford county, Mich., and got on a deer trail that had hoof marks plainly made by a buck. Almost all hunters of deer can tell a buck from a doe track. After trailing the deer, and getting within a rod of it, the buck leaped out of a clump of brush and got knocked down with a bullet through the head.
The deer did not have any horns, although a two-year-old, and weighing 150 pounds. Further, it never had any horns.
Does with horns, bucks with three horns, dozens of spikes, and malformed horns, have often been reported of Michigan and other American deer, but this is the first hornsless American buck reported, although some European deer sometimes lack such weapons, but yet are able to whip the horned ones.
"It is immaterial, in my judgment, whether the sheep grower receives any benefit from the tariff or not . . . Whether he does or does not I am for free wool."—Extract from speech of William J. Bryan in the House of Representatives when the Wilson bill was under consideration.
