

Business men are studying the money question. Mr. Bryan has seen fit to tell his audience over and over again that the business men of the country are against free silver partly because they don't know anything about the question and partly because they are dishonest.

The threat of free trade in the campaign of '92 and in the election of '92, frightened the business mind of the country, first into distrust and doubt and then into a panic, the effect of which is still on.

Laboring men are crowding around Mr. Bryan to hear his speeches and his way of thinking appears to be pleased with what he has to say.

George Grant, chairman of the National Silver party, speaking at Lincoln, Neb., on September 8, from the steps of the state capital building, denounced the bankers as the enemies of society, and declared that the financiers of Wall Street should be hung to the telegraph poles.

On the afternoon of September 8 in front of the state capital building at Lincoln, Mr. Bryan, after denouncing the business element of the country because it is against him in this contest, congratulated himself that the laboring men of the country believed in him and that enough of the farmers believed in him that these two elements united in this election would enable him to sweep the country in November.

speech in front of the Hotel Lincoln, someone asked, "What about Mr. Sewall?" Donnelly replied, "I know nothing about Mr. Sewall and I don't want anything to do with him."

Mr. Bryan and his corps of free silver orators constantly denounce idle capital. Mr. Bryan knows that idle capital is at the root of the business mind of the country.

Whether 500 or 5000 men are employed at the Burlington machine shops at Lincoln, Nebraska, during the winter months, depends not upon the political judgment of the men who are employed in these machine shops, but upon the business judgment of those who must furnish money to pay for this labor.

A hired man cannot be employed upon a farm without the consent of the owner of the farm.

Many of the "plain people" of the United States have wondered what a warrant, when it is said that Congress in 1873 struck down one-half the money in the country.

SOME PERTINENT BUT RATHER EMBARRASSING QUESTIONS FOR MR. BRYAN.

A CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

As he comes upon the stage and as the applause breaks forth he smiles. It is a pleased smile—properly speaking, a grin.

He is introduced and stands erect and again grins. It is the grin of a man who knows that he is the center of attention.

He begins his address with a well-turned sentence, which he knows will please his audience.

He compares himself to the Man of Galilee without a blink of an eye.

He declares that something can be got out of nothing, that a miner will be able to get 50 cents worth of metal out of a piece of iron.

In all parts of the country women have organized campaign committees, working under the direction of the Women's Bureau of the National Republican committee.

A CREAMERY LESSON.

Effects of Industrial Depression in Cities Brought Home in a Practical Way.

STORY OF A KANSAS FARMER.

Decrease in the Consumption of Food by Laborers Affects the Sale of Farm Products.

A stock-feeder of Kansas, recently in Kansas City, tells a story that is worth repeating for the excellent lesson which it teaches.

He explained that the price of butter was low, that thousands of laboring men were out of employment.

When the laboring men in these cities are employed they consume vast quantities of butter, eggs, beef, pork and poultry.

When Bourke Cockran, in his recent great speech in New York, uttered the following sentence, he uttered a sentence which should be posted over the door of every honest laboring man.

WOMAN'S WORK IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Never was there before a presidential campaign in which the women of the country have taken such an active part as in the present struggle.

The Woman's Bureau is under the direction of Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, the well-known orator and political writer of Des Moines, Ia.

In the Chicago headquarters Mrs. Foster's chief assistant and secretary is Mrs. Alice Rosseter Willard.

JONES' SILVER MINE.

The present interest in anything relating to silver recalls James Russell Lowell's witty rhymes of twenty years ago.

He is mistaken. In his speech at Springfield, O., on Wednesday, Candidate Bryan spoke of the nation's peasantry.

When Bourke Cockran, in his recent great speech in New York, uttered the following sentence, he uttered a sentence which should be posted over the door of every honest laboring man.

FREE WOOL AND FREE SILVER.

During the many weary months after the Wilson-Turner tariff had given the death blow to the wool industry free trade journals assured their readers that the blow would not be fatal.

The silver craze did not materialize until free wool had had nearly three years in which to show what it could do.

Give it to the Indiana. Let us restore the conditions that existed prior to 1873.

Remember This. When Bourke Cockran, in his recent great speech in New York, uttered the following sentence, he uttered a sentence which should be posted over the door of every honest laboring man.

When Bourke Cockran, in his recent great speech in New York, uttered the following sentence, he uttered a sentence which should be posted over the door of every honest laboring man.

When Bourke Cockran, in his recent great speech in New York, uttered the following sentence, he uttered a sentence which should be posted over the door of every honest laboring man.