

Calendar for November with dates and days of the week.

CONFIDENCE and prosperity are good things. Let's push them along.

McKINLEY's majority over a million! Who was it that spoke of the party of the common people?

Who told the story of the difference between Buffalo Bill and Wm. McKinley? Poor profit, Pierce.

R. P. GILES, congressman-elect of the first Missouri district, died last Tuesday after a very brief illness.

THE president has appointed James L. Cowan, of Portland, Or., agent for the Indians of Warm Springs, Or., vice Peter Gallagher, deceased.

McKINLEY's administration will be a repetition of the Hayes regime in the matter of temperance, as no liquor will enter the White House during his occupancy.

A. S. CLAY has been elected U. S. senator by the Georgia legislature to succeed J. B. Gordon, who completes his third term next March. Clay is a radical silver man.

AN exchange says Bryan could not carry his precinct, ward, city or county. Well that's better than Sewall's record. He couldn't carry anything, not even his own family.

E. W. PETTUS is Alabama's new senator just elected to succeed Senator Pugh who is now completing his third term. Pettus, like other southern senators, is of the silver faith.

THE Evening Telegram of Portland has been reduced in price and at the same time greatly improved in every way. Many new features have been added and it is now certainly a very creditable paper both to the city and state.

CLEVELAND received 175,461 votes in Kentucky in 1892; Harrison received 135,441. McKinley's vote is 218,005; Bryan's vote is 217,796. The republican gain is 88,000 votes, while the demopopulist gain is only 42,000.

THE tie vote for representative of Coos county between Thomas Buckman, silver candidate, and J. W. Bennett, republican, last June, was settled on Nov. 3rd by the former receiving 1,275 and the latter 1,262 votes, giving Mr. Buckman a majority of 13.

NEVADA cast only 12,000 votes at the recent election, about 4,000 more than Marion county, and many less than many very small counties in Eastern states. Still Nevada has two senators, wielding as much power in the upper branch of congress as the great state of New York.

IT is said in Chicago that Senator John M. Thurston could have a cabinet position and would accept it gladly were it not that the Nebraska legislature would fill his vacant seat before it had time to get cold, with Mr. Bryan. His is a sacrifice therefore in which he has the sympathy of the whole country.

WHEN Grant ran against Greeley in 1872 New York gave the former a plurality of 58,000, and that has never been exceeded for any presidential candidate until now, by McKinley's plurality of 272,000. This even exceeded by 80,000 Cleveland's phenomenal plurality of 197,000 for governor in 1882. Truly it was a great victory; the people's victory.

HERE is a sentence from the business review issued by R. G. Dunn & Co., last Saturday: "Never before has business shown so great a change for the better in a single week." The revival of business is at hand in the east and promises to strike the Pacific coast in full force within another year.

IT has been definitely arranged that Bryan is to take the lecture platform. His first address will be delivered at Atlanta, Georgia. Bryan has signed a contract for a series of lectures, and while it is not known what his salary will be, yet it is thought it will exceed that of the president of the United States. He will visit Oregon on his tour.

Coos county indulged in a county seat contest at the recent election, Coquille City and Empire City, the former county seat, being the two towns in the race. Last June a vote was taken and Coquille City won, but owing to the claim that many had not voted, another vote was ordered, and now Coquille City again walks off with the prize by about 500 majority.

EASTERN business interests want Mr. Hanna to accept the portfolio of secretary of the treasury. Although Mr. Hanna has repeatedly said he wanted no position, yet he is being overwhelmed with demands from all quarters and it would not be a surprise should he accept the position. The need of a strong man in the treasury department is now felt as it has not been since the resumption of specie payments. For some reason, the strong financial and commercial interests of the East are looking toward Mr. Hanna as the man to meet the emergency.

Now that the national election is over the people of this state are once more discussing home matters. The coming session of our legislature is now fast approaching and consequently is receiving due attention. Following the organization of the first demand is the re-election of Senator John H. Mitchell, the unanimous choice of almost all the republicans of Oregon. After this matter has been disposed of, needed legislation will be taken up, and proposed laws dissected. A registration law will probably be passed; the ballot law and the assessment law will be improved and many other businesslike and economic measures passed. In all the coming session of the legislature bids fair to be one of the best held for many years.

THOMAS J. BRADLEY, who defeated Timothy J. Campbell for congress in the ninth congressional district of New York, will be the youngest member who ever sat in the halls of congress. Bradley is clean shaven and so youthful looking that when his name was introduced as a candidate for congress, protests were made as they thought him not eligible. A candidate for congress must be 25 years old they said. Bradley said he could bring the family Bible to prove that he was born January 2, 1870. So he was nominated and defeated Campbell, who had been in congress several terms, by a large majority. Bradley was born in the district which he will represent in congress.

THE following is from a column of legislative gossip in a recent issue of the Salem Statesman: "Referring to the legislature, one is naturally reminded that this legislature has, among other duties to perform, the election of United States senator to succeed Hon. John H. Mitchell, whose name is just now being used so generously by the press of the East for different positions in President McKinley's cabinet. Mr. Mitchell is a candidate to succeed himself and it begins to look very much as if his election would follow as a natural course. The high place attained by him in the last congress would argue that the legislature might go far and not do nearly so well. Senator Mitchell has accomplished great things for Oregon; and what he has once done he can do again."

THE republican state executive committee of Tennessee, with 200 leading republicans from all portions of the state, have unanimously resolved to investigate the recent election frauds in that state and inaugurate a contest for the governorship, and redress the contest upon the part of the candidates for congress, who, it is claimed, were defeated by frauds. The republicans claim the frauds are far-reaching, and that in five West Tennessee counties alone enough votes were transferred from the republican to the democratic ticket in the count to overcome the alleged republican majority. E. B. Stahlman, who managed the republican campaign, believes that with a fair count the state would have been in the republican column by a large majority. The Nashville Banner, one of the strongest democratic papers in the South, is leading in the fight for a thorough investigation.

Do You Want to be a Martyr? Probably not! But if you do, try and get the dyspepsia by unwise feeding. Then you'll suffer martyrdom with a vengeance! Some people are martyrs to this complaint from childhood to the grave, suffering from all its attendant horrors of heartburn, wind and pain in the stomach, weary slumber and nightmare, torpid appetite, nausea, biliousness, leanness and maleness. No necessity for all this. The complaint, obstinate as it is, when the ordinary remedies are brought to bear upon it, invariably yields to the great stomachic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which restores tranquility to the gastric region and nerves, regulates the liver and bowels, both of which are disturbed by weakness of the stomach, and promotes appetite and an increase of flesh. That "beast of the soul," the dinner bell, when it peals upon the ear, suggests no promotion of dire qualms after a comfortable meal if you have tried a course of the bitters, which also banishes biliousness, rheumatism, nervousness, malaria and kidney trouble.

HOW THE NEWS WAS SUPPRESSED. Daily Charges Against the Associated Press Successfully Refuted—Thanks From Both Leaders.

New York, Nov. 12.—The general manager of the Associated Press has received the following letters: "Canton, Ohio.—My Dear Sir: It gives me pleasure to acknowledge (and I sincerely thank you for) the enterprise displayed by your great association in reporting and transmitting so fully the news from Canton during the campaign just closed. I desire to thank you especially for the faithful and efficient service of Mr. Geo. B. Press, whom you detailed to take charge of this arduous and exciting work. Yours very truly, WILLIAM MCKINLEY, "To Mr. Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, New York."

"Lincoln, Neb.—Melville E. Stone, General Manager of the Associated Press, Chicago.—My Dear Sir: Now that the campaign is over, I desire to thank you for the fairness and thoroughness with which you have reported my speeches and also to express my appreciation of the correspondents whom you have detailed to travel with our party. Yours truly, WILLIAM J. BRYAN."

A Jacksonville Club's Blacklist. Omaha, Nov. 15.—The Jacksonville Club, of Nebraska, with about 800 members enrolled, a pioneer democratic organization, ordered the pictures of Secretaries Morton and Carlisle removed from the walls of its clubrooms last night, and struck from its rolls the names of Secretary Morton, Col. John P. Irish, of California; Tobias Castor, ex-national committeeman; James Woolworth, president of the American Bar Association, and about 40 others, for what the resolution recited as "active and open opposition to the regular democratic nominee, and aiding the election of the republican candidate."

On the blacklist are the names of a dozen gold democrats, who are candidates for appointment by President Cleveland to the late United States District Judge Dundy's place.

The Ills of Women. Constipation, causes more than half the ills of women. Karl's Clover Root Tea is a pleasant cure for Constipation. For sale by Wells & Warren.

Electric Bitters. Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the use of a tonic and stimulant is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and painful fatal bilious fever. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial system. Headache, indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1 per bottle at Conner & Brock's drug store.

The Hotel Restaurant. A new restaurant has been opened up opposite the City Hotel by N. J. Myers whose meals will be served at all hours. White table is employed in the kitchen and dining room. Most orders served at all hours. Those desiring first class service should patronize the Hotel.

Contagious Blood Poison.

Mr. Frank B. Martin, who is engaged in the jewelry business at 926 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington City, where he is well and favorably known, was a victim of that worst form of disease—contagious blood poison. He realized that his life was about to be blasted, for this terrible disease has baffled the skill of the physicians for ages, and they have never yet been able to effect a cure. His mental despair can better be imagined than described.

FRANK B. MARTIN.

beat be appreciated, when I state that my throat and mouth were full of sores and my tongue was almost eaten away; I had not taken solid food for three months. My entire body was covered with red blotches, my hands and feet were sore and my hair was falling out rapidly. I was in a truly pitiable condition.

"I felt that I was incurable, and was in great despair, when a friend recommended S. S. S., stating that it would certainly cure me. I began its use, and when I had finished the fourth bottle, I began to improve, and by the time I had finished eighteen bottles, I was thoroughly rid of the disease; of course, I was not sure that I was cured, but am now convinced, as no sign of the disease has ever returned for four years. S. S. S. is the best blood remedy in the world, and my cure was due solely and alone to it."

For fifty years S. S. S. has been curing this terrible disease, even after all other treatment failed. It is guaranteed purely vegetable, and one thousand dollars reward is offered for proof to the contrary. S. S. S. never fails to cure contagious blood poison, or any other disease of the blood. If you have a blood disease, take a remedy which will not injure you. Beware of mercury; don't do violence to your system.

Our books on blood and skin diseases, will be mailed free to any address. Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

No one would drink poor tea if he or she knew the difference in tea. Good tea is not costly. Your grocer will sell you Schilling's Best, and return your money in full if you don't like it.

Failure of Fusion. Chairman Estlin, of the Populist Party advises Bryan—If He Would Again Lead the Party, He Must Forever Leave the Democracy.

HAD THE CHOICE OF WEAPONS.

How Elder Lawton fought a duel is told by a correspondent of the Dexter (Me.) Gazette. The elder was a traveling preacher, a tall, muscular old gentleman, and he was conducting meetings in a town of Franklin county, where dwelt a troublesome character known as Pat Cusick. Pat, having created a disturbance at one of these meetings, was publicly rebuked by the elder and thereupon Pat sent him a challenge. The preacher's first thought was to treat the matter with silent contempt. Then he reflected that Cusick always kept the community in a commotion, and no one ever dared to interfere with his movements, so he decided to accept the challenge and thus to the Lord. As the challenged party Lawton had the choice of weapons. He selected a half bushel of large Irish potatoes and stipulated that his opponent must stand fifteen paces away and that only one potato at a time should be taken from the bushel by a potato another. The elder was in a commotion, and no one ever dared to interfere with his movements, so he decided to accept the challenge and thus to the Lord. As the challenged party Lawton had the choice of weapons. He selected a half bushel of large Irish potatoes and stipulated that his opponent must stand fifteen paces away and that only one potato at a time should be taken from the bushel by a potato another. The elder was in a commotion, and no one ever dared to interfere with his movements, so he decided to accept the challenge and thus to the Lord. As the challenged party Lawton had the choice of weapons. He selected a half bushel of large Irish potatoes and stipulated that his opponent must stand fifteen paces away and that only one potato at a time should be taken from the bushel by a potato another.

At the duel everybody in the settlement turned out to witness the fun. The seconds were chosen, Deacon Hill-ton and Jim Morton acting in that capacity for the elder. The two men were arranged in position, by the side of each being a half-bushel measure full of large, plump potatoes. Lawton threw the first one, and it struck his opponent and fell to pieces. A loud shout of delight went up from those around, which further intensified Cusick's much ruffled feelings, and his potato went wide of the mark. The elder watched his chances, and every time his opponent stooped for a potato another, he hit him with terrific force in the ribs. The fellow received five doses in this way. Then a sixth tuber hit him in the short rib, and he lay on the grass doubled up with pain and groaning. "Enough," the bystanders went wild with delight, but Lawton looked very sober. Cusick was taken home and put to bed, and there he stayed for more than a week and when he again appeared he was greeted with so many jeers and hisses that he was glad to "shake the dust of his feet" from his feet while Lawton was the hero of the hour.

EARLY BANKS. It Was a Difficult Task to Escape the Robbers. It must have been difficult in the middle ages for a man of limited means to take care of his savings. There were in those days, the Lombard and Genoaese bankers, who dealt with princes, nobles, bishops and the abbots of the greater monasteries, and as time went on there arose the Siense-Roman firm of Chigi, with its hundred branches, which in later times supplied a pontiff to the holy see, who bore the name of Alexander VII; but of what service were these great luxury-loving people to the peddler, the yeoman or small shopkeeper, whose gains came not in by pounds, angels or marks, but in penny drabets, with perhaps an odd groat of profit on a very successful venture? How was their money stored?

In some cases we suspect that the church wardens took care of it in the parish chest, though if put to the proof of what we say we should not be very ready with an answer, but it is quite certain that, as years rolled on and guilds sprang up in every village, they acted as bankers for the guild men. But there must have been many persons who belonged to no guild, some because they were of loose life and such as gold would enroll, others because they were landless folks who had no settled place of abode. It was dangerous to carry specie on the person in those days. There were many Robin Hoods abroad who had no scruples as to robbing the poor as well as the rich. To the weak the only course that was open, if they could not deposit their coin in the hands of some trustworthy neighbor, was to bury it in the earth. This is the explanation of the numerous boards of coin which have turned up from time to time from the thirteenth century to the present time.

MOUNTAIN SICKNESS. Why Climbers of Mountains Suffer Distress at a Certain Elevation. A French scientist has announced the result of experiments to determine the real cause of mountain sickness—a complaint that seizes many mountain climbers, and which may be said to correspond with sea sickness. He has recently been proposed to bore a tunnel from the base to the summit of the Jungfrau, a distance of 15,000 feet, and to install therein a great passenger elevator, but warnings of the dreaded mountain sickness, which it is said would surely make the tourist repeat his temerity, have brought the project to a standstill. Struck by the fact that mountain climbers are affected at an elevation of about 9,000 feet, while sea-sickness is without trouble accord to double that height, the scientist concluded that muscular fatigue has something to do with it. He accordingly placed under a bell jar two guinea pigs, of whom one had to work a wheel while the other was at rest. The air of the bell jar was then progressively exhausted. At a pressure equivalent to 9,000 feet the climbing guinea pig showed signs of distress, and at 14,000 feet he renounced the struggle and remained lying on his back. The other guinea pig, however, appeared quite comfortable up to an elevation of 14,000 feet, and his condition became serious only at a height of 24,000 feet.

Railroad Reports. A very smart young man wishing to supply amusement for a group of young ladies that accompanied him, accosted the conductor of a railroad train as follows: "My dear conductor, what—er—do you call an up train?" "Why, a train that blows up, exploding like a steam—anything of that sort?" "Ah, yes, to be sure. And—er—what do you call a down train?" "Down train?—why, that's a train that goes down an embankment, or through a trestle-work; has some sort of a fall, you know."
