THE DISREPUTABLE RAG.

During the late national campaign the editor of the Oregonian personally assured a very prominent gentleman of this state that just as soon as the election was over he proposed to do all in his power to bring together the factions of the republican party in this state, to the end that harmony might be secured and that a republican victory might be expected as the result of the state campaign of 1898. This assurance has been given other gentlemen, and most of them took stock in Harvey's talk, regardless of the fact that most people know that his word on such matters is not good, and further, that he is mortgaged to some Portland parties who could even force on his soul if he did not dance to their tunes; if they do not the devil will, and he ought to. Regardless of all that he has said, a dirty fight on Mitchell has been begun, but luckily it has little chance of succeeding.

It is not necessary for any person or newspaper to say that Harvey's doubts as to Mitchell's position on the St. Louis platform are not genuine. He knows that he is not honest in that, nor is he advocating the St. Louis platform himself, for he is opposing international bimetalism with all his might, though he professed to stand squarely on the platform last summer.

The plan now is to misrepresent Mitchell's position as to his party; to assert that he has made a deal with Johnathan Bourne, who left the republican party for Bryan last summer; in short, to defeat him by misrepresentations. This is the scheme, for no honorable one could serve Joe Simon or Harvey Scott in this case.

The Gazette is in receipt of word from Portland this morning that Mr. Mitchell's friends are giving themselves no concern over the senator's re-election, and that it is practically assured. This is about the condition of affairs, which contrasts strangely with the report of Harvey's "super" on the last page of yesterday's Oregonian.

A BAD MEASURE.

The Loud postal bill passed the house but a hard fight was made against it. It should have been defeated, and every publisher of the country, who desires to have an opportunity of extending his business, must join in the fight to prevent its passage through the senate. America is the home of the modern newspaper, and by its fair postal laws has encouraged not only the newspaper, but also the publication of standard literary productions at prices that are marvelously low. The Loud bill is a blow at the house of the American people, at their intelligence which is second to no country in the world—thanks to the present postal system.

The most important provision of the bill denies to serial publications admission to the mails at 1 cent per pound rates. The provision is as follows:

"That nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to admit to the second class rate publications purporting to be issued periodically and to subscribers, but which are merely books or reprints of books, whether they be issued complete or in parts; whether they be bound or unbound; whether they be sold by subscription or otherwise, or whether they purport to be premiums or supplements or parts of regular newspapers or periodicals."

The bill also denies to newspapers the "sample copy" privilege, and the privilege enjoyed by news dealers of returning unsold publications at the second-class rate.

The only other important change in the present law provides that publishers whose publications are admitted as second-class matter shall be required, before depositing such mail matter in the post-office, to separate the same into United States mail sacks or bundles by states, cities, towns or counties, as the postmaster-general shall direct. In other words, the publisher becomes a sort of postmaster's clerk. It should have added another clause requiring every person to sort his or her own letters before mailing.

The Loud bill is a humbug.

The Funding bill, which applies to the debt of $120,000,000 owed the government by the Union and Central Pacific railroads, is before congress and it is thought that it will pass, though not without a fight. The San Francisco Examiner is making a fight against the passage of the bill, but the Examiner, like our own dearly beloved Oregonian, employs such peculiar methods that it is not always clear where the thing will end, but most times the Examiner sees something way, far off that will come to it in dollars and cents, in most of its so-called "fights for the people." The Funding bill, as proposed, is not a very admirable measure, and yet its passage would not be a much greater calamity than the government's endeavor to operate these roads on its own account. The government has been bunceod and it might just as well complete the job by allowing the looters to take what is left. In order to get possession of these roads, the government would have to pay a large amount of money to holders of first bonds. Can it afford to send so much good money after bad?

MITCHELL will be elected senator to succeed himself. He cannot be beaten.

THE Oregonian has begun its fight against Mitchell, but it will fight against a brick wall. It can do him no harm. Let it fight away.

ACCORDING to the Oregonian, Harvey Scott is about the only logical candidate for the United States senate from Oregon.—Salem Statesman.

The steamer Commodore, that left Jacksonville, Fla., recently with Cuban arms and ammunition, foundered at sea, and part of the crew were lost. The vessel sprang a leak soon after crossing the bar in getting to sea.

The death of Mr. C. H. Lewis, of the Portland firm of Allen & Lewis, on last Tuesday morning, removes one of Portland's oldest and best known citizens. He was a thorough business man but questionable methods were foreign to his nature. Oregon and the Northwest mourn over their great loss.

The claim of the Oregonian that Mr. Mitchell is supporting Jonathan Bourne, Jr., for speaker of the house of representatives can have no foundation at all. This is just one of Middleton's common, everyday lies, published for a purpose. He says that Brown has dropped out of sight and that no one is in it but Riddle and Bourne. This is what the Oregonian wants, not what exists. "It's the wish, not the deed."

The Greatest Monarch

Is a fit subject for pity if he is troubled with dyspepsia, while his poorest subject who digests properly may be envied by a prince thus afflicted. The dyspeptic of every clime and nation owe a debt of gratitude to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which rescues them from one of the most obstinate and troublesome complaints against which medical skill is directed. On this continent, in Europe and the tropics, this sterling remedy is pre-eminently and justly popular, not only as a stomachic, but also as a means of preventing and curing malaria, rheumatic, kidney, bilious and nervous disorders. It improves appetite and sleep, hastens convalescence and the acquisition of vigor after exhausting maladies, and counteracts the infirmities of age. A wingless falcon before retiring has a tendency to promote tranquility, health yielding sleep, a boon much coveted by nervous invalids.

Through trains on the O. R. & N. will run via. Umatilla, Walla Walla and Pendleton. Through sleepers, first and second-class, will run in connection with the Union Pacific, the same as heretofore. A through first-class sleeper Portland to Spokane, connecting with the first-class sleeper to St. Paul, and a through tourist sleeper Portland to St. Paul, will run in connection with the Great Northern railway.

WHAT OUR EXCHANGES SAY.

It must be remembered that there are other republican papers in Oregon besides the Oregonian, and many republicans in the state besides Mr. Lydell Baker. The Oregonian's help in carrying the state for McKinley is recognized and appreciated, but the country papers battled as earnestly and as effectively as did the able daily of the metropolis. They are as deeply interested in seeing that the recent victory for sound money and sound government is not dissipated in any way.

While the Oregonian is doubting Senator Mitchell's republicanism and calling upon him for a token of his faithfulness to the party platform, all other republican papers outside of Portland that possess any ability, influence or standing, express the utmost confidence in Mr. Mitchell's republicanism and urge his re-election.

One is justified in doubting the sincerity and honesty of the Oregonian in questioning Mr. Mitchell as to his vote in future financial legislation. Is the Oregonian any diller of comprehension or more devoted to the party and its principles than all the other papers in the state? Is it not singular that the Oregonian should be alone in its expressed doubts?

One is constrained to conclude that the Oregonian is animated by its old-time personal animosity towards Mr. Mitchell, rather than by any fear of his siding free silver's cause.—Corvallis Gazette.

On every hand one can hear people condemning the methods of the Oregonian in its efforts to bring war against Senator Mitchell. That journal is fully aware that it cannot defeat him by fair means, and is using foul, vicious slander. In nearly every issue of that paper can be seen articles written by some narrow-minded henchman who has nothing at stake and is desirous of a little notoriety. Such people should be subjected to the severest condemnation by every honest and patriotic citizen of the state of Oregon.

Mr. Mitchell's record in the past is sufficient to elevate him to a much higher place than those who are endeavoring to wage war against him can ever expect to reach. He is acknowledged as one of the leading statesmen of the country, and above all, he is an earnest and faithful advocate of protection to the industries of the United States, which is the cardinal principle of the republican party. He stated his position clearly on the financial issue, and it is to his credit that he left no doubt in the minds of the large number who heard him that he is a republican first, last and all the time, and it is nearly a sure thing that those who are desirous of seeing him defeated are lacking to a great extent in the qualities that go to make up a loyal republican.

The first thing the next legislature should do is to send Hon. John H. Mitchell back to the United States senate. There should not be a dissenting vote among the republicans.—Malheur Gazette.

Of course the man who says Senator Mitchell received $2500 for canvassing the state in 1896 prevaricates, willfully or otherwise. Mr. Mitchell did not get a cent. On the contrary, he paid his own way, where it was not paid by the local people. The persons, also, who pretend to think he will not stand with the administration in support of protective tariff measures, are seeking to deceive. He never voted any other way. He never allowed any other question to stand in the way of such support, either.—Salem Statesman.

On next Monday the Oregon legislature will meet in its Nineteenth regular biennial session. One of its principal duties is the election of a member of the United States senate to succeed John H. Mitchell. That gentleman is a candidate to succeed himself, and, up to some weeks ago, his election was generally conceded to be a foregone conclusion.

It was rendered seemingly certain by his splendid canvass of the state for McKinley and Hobart, and his declaration, frequently made during the course of it, that he stood upon the St. Louis platform, against the free coinage of silver by the independent action of the United States, but in favor of an international agreement for the coinage of the two money metals.

Mr. Mitchell has not changed his position; but demands from the Oregonian and by some individuals, mostly anxious to accomplish his defeat before the legislature, that he further declare himself, and attacks of various kinds made by them, were given the appearance of having the effect of producing serious dejection and falling away from the ranks of his supporters. But this has proven to be in a large measure imaginary.

It was the wish that was the father of the thought that grew by eager mutual exchange and insinuating enlargement into positive report. The truth is there has been no wholesale desertion from the ranks of Mr. Mitchell's supporters.

It is morally certain that he will be again returned to represent Oregon in the upper house of congress for another term of six years.

There are other very likely candidates for the place, men who would acquit themselves in the exalted station with honor, and render valuable service to their state. Such are H. W. Scott, Gen. George H. Williams, Joseph Simon, Esq., Senator Corbett, and numerous others throughout Oregon; but we believe they have no chance of election, even at the end of a long deadlock, produced by bitter attack and all sorts of combinations, that would make wholesome legislation impossible, and that would leave its mark for years upon the political state of the state, with injurious consequences to the republican party.—Salem Statesman.

Abominable Catarrh.

It is not reasonable to expect to be cured of any disease, no matter how constant and persevering the treatment, when that treatment is altogether misdirected, and can not possibly reach the trouble.

This explains why those afflicted with catarrh meet with so much discouragement. Though they faithfully take the usual treatment consisting of sprays, washes, etc., and pass through the summer without much discomfort, as soon as cold weather returns, they find themselves more firmly in the grip of the disease than ever. Such results could hardly be expected if the proper treatment had been given.

Any one who has had experience with catarrh will readily admit that it is one of the most obstinate of diseases; it is easy to see, therefore, that it is deep-seated, and that no remedy which merely reaches the surface can have the slightest effect upon it. The only known cure for catarrh is a real blood remedy, one which gets at the seat of the disease—the cause of the trouble—and forces it from the system. Such a remedy is S. S. S. (Swift's Specific).

Mr. H. P. Cook, of 32 Walker street, Atlanta, Ga., suffered intensely from catarrh. He says:

"At first thought I had only a bad cold, and didn't give much attention to the obstructions in my nose and throat. This soon became noticeable, and began to do me much inconvenience, and I applied for treatment and was given the usual local applications of sprays, washes, etc. The immediate effect of the treatment was to relieve me, but only for a short time after application, and I could easily see that the disease was growing worse steadily, and seemed to grow deeper toward my lungs; my nose and throat were constantly choked up, so that I was all the time hawking and spitting, and to add to it all, the disease became very offensive. I was unable to obtain much sleep, being compelled to get up constantly during the night to clear my throat and keep from choking. I tried various treatments without relief, as none of the medicines seemed to reach the disease. Finally, some one recommended S. S. S., and before I had finished one bottle, I felt better. I continued the medicine, and it cured me permanently. I truly believe S. S. S. is the only cure for catarrh, the most abominable of all diseases."

S. S. S. is a real blood remedy, because it is more than a mere tonic, and goes directly to the seat of all blood diseases, and cures the most aggravated cases of Cancer, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Eczema, Scrofula, Congenital Blood Poison, etc. S. S. S. is the only blood remedy guaranteed Purely Vegetable.

Sid Degree of K. of P.

From the Baker City Republican.

A council of the grand order of the Orient will be instituted in this city by Emil Vornz, as a side degree to the K. of P. Such orders as promote equality of members are a very acceptable addition to our list of secret societies. We understand that the ceremonies are laughable in the extreme, and that members, to be initiated, will provide much toward the merriment. The officers who will conduct the affairs of the Baker council are: S. S. Horner, grand Pa Di Shi; C. W. Faul, grand vicer; W. A. Weatherly, grand pashaw; C. O. McWilliams, grand prophet; E. Vornz, grand herald; N. Cooper, grand treasurer; A. L. Luviers, grand vidette; C. M. Sage, G. A. P.; grand wardman to be filled.

We predict a rapid increase in membership.

Pile! Pile! Itching Piles.

Symptoms: Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worsen by scratching. If allowed to continue tumours form which often bleed and ulcerate becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding; heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Rev. John Watson, (an MacLaren) who has just returned to England after his wonderfully successful lecturing tour in this country, has promised to write for The Outlook in 1897 two or more articles on "Helpful Tendencies in American Life." The recent visit of Dr. Watson, the special interest of the readers of The Outlook in the author of "Kate Carnegie," and the eminently attractive nature of the subject, combine to make this one of the most important features of The Outlook's program for the coming year.

These will be the only articles written by Ian MacLaren for American readers on the subject of his recent visit to this country.
