Some Forms That Are Developing in Modern Times.

TYPES OF INSANITY.

Advanced by an Expert in Such Diseases.

At the Post-Graduate Medical School of New York a few days ago a wellknown professor of nervous and mental diseases, who testified as an expert in a murder trial, delivered a lecture on insanity in its relation to homicide.

he, all breed homicides, but some more than others. His classification of the various forms of insanity, says the Sun of that city, was as follows, and any phase of mental disorder, he said, would be found to fit under one head or the other: Mania, melancholia, dementia, paranoia, and paresis.

The victims of melancholia are most dangerous state of mind.

"Doctors now declare," the professor as 'emotional' insanity. I believe the word was not used at all during the Fitzgerald trial, and I doubt if any expert would take the stand and testify that such a condition as emotional insanity ever exists."

"Paranoia" is a word of such wide application that it may be worn out in the endeavor to make it cover the thousand and one varieties of mild and explosive cranks. "Paranoia is a very good word to ase," said the professor to the young doctors, "as it enables you to classify your cranky acquaintances. Monomania is the older name for the same peculiarities. The condition orient manifests itself by a fear of going to some particular place, by dread of crossing a street, or similar eccentriciday that my inventive talent got the day that my inventive talent got the upper hand of me and I monkeyed upper hand of me and I monkeye of a single delusion; perhaps has an ex- with substitutes, for when I moved my aggerated idea of his own greatness, or is about to convulse the world by a wonderful invention. Roman Flute Players, B. C. 300, Successful ly Resented Exclusion from a Banquet." Livy, in his famous book, "The Annals," ix., 30, relates in the following suggestive words the story of a singular strike which occurred at Rome in the year 300 B. C., and was probably the first strike ever known;

"That year occurred an event little worthy of being related and which I would pass in silence had it not appeared as involving religion. The flute players, dissatisfied because the latest censors had forbidden them to take part in the banquet in Jupiter's tem-ple, according to the ancient custom. withdrew, every one of them, to Tibur, so that nobody was left at Rome to play during the sacrifices. This incident shocked the religious sentiment of the senate, and the senators sent messengers to invite the inhabitants of the Romans. There seems to be a very different way of arranging the hair for every face, and yet all are stylish. The woman with dark, glistening locks must wear her hair in the evening after the style of Empress Josephine if she has the face to stand it, and the diamond and pearl tiara which gives the finishing touch to this very fetching arrangement of her ocks. If she can't afford the latter two or three strands of imitation pearls look well wound in and out among the dark puffs. Dark hair does not look well too much befrizzled. Crimping causes it to lose its luster, which is brought out by light oranments. On the other hand, the woman with yellow or reddish hair should wave it on all sides and puff it up in a fluffy mass. Medium-sized tortoise shell combs ornamented with applied silver are more popular than anything else just now, but they really show off better in and are thickly studded with rhinestones. The side combs match, and the effect of these novelties in blonde hair is gorgeous and striking. The silversmiths report a big run on anoia inventoria, the victim of which is dying to laugh, and reenforcements of the enameled and jeweled bodies of butterflies. The demure maid who clings to her crimpless part and coils her hair very high on her head may thrust one of these butterflies in at the back of the part and so relieve its severity. She may even go further and fill her hair with very small enameled and jeweled butterfly and flower pins and so obtain an effect altogether Japanese. Few women can afford to dress their hair low on their necks, even with the aid of crimps and puffs, but those who do must not fail to set off the knot with an immense tortoise-shell back comb curving almost from ear to ear, if they wish to be in the very latest style .-
